TWO MEN SEIZED IN MEXICO ADMIT U.S. MICROWAVE TOWER BLASTS

Returned to California, They Assert They Sought to Publicize 'American Republican Army.'

SAN DIEGO, Calif., June 19 (AP)—Investigators say a former builder and a young mining engineer have admitted the $850,000 bombing of three Utah-Nevada communications facilities three weeks ago—to publicize an anti-big-business "American Republican Army."

Police of Ensenada, Mexico, a port city 75 miles south of San Diego, arrested Bernard Jerome Brous, 51 years old, and Dale Chris Jensen, 23, United States citizens, on Saturday night aboard the Brous yacht loaded with arms—machine guns, rifles and ammunition.

Last night Mexican authorities brought the two men to the border at Tijuana and turned them over to the FBI. Agents took them before a United States commissioner in San Diego, who ordered them held under $100,000 bail each and set arraignment for tomorrow.

Taken into custody with them and brought to San Diego for questioning were Brous's wife, Minnie, 40, a former dancer and model, and Robert Gerald Bortoli, 28, a Reno (Nev.), gambling house dealer.

Part in Bombings Denied.

Both said they knew nothing of the bombings. Mrs. Brous told reporters she thought the explosives on the yacht were to be used in hunting sunken treasure off Peru. Bortoli said he was a guest for skin-diving. The FBI was questioning them.

An FBI complaint filed at Las Vegas, Nev., charging conspiracy, indicated others are involved. It accused Brous, Jensen "and other unknown persons."

Mexican authorities said Brous and Jensen admitted blowing up the two microwave towers and a relay station early Sunday, May 28. The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. estimated the damage at about $850,000.

Brous told a reporter he masterminded the sabotage. Jensen told Mexican police he blew up the three installations and was paid by Brous to do it. He said Brous was in Ensenada at the time.

A copyrighted story in the San Diego Union quoted the two as saying the sabotage was in behalf of the "American Republican Army." They said it advocates the overthrow of the present United States political order.

To Fight FBI, Big Business.

A Mexican official said Brous told him the army was intended to fight what Brous termed official corruption in the American system, including the FBI and big business.

The Union's interview was written by Robert L. Curry, editor and publisher of the Redondo Beach (Calif.) South Bay Daily Breeze, who was vacationing in Ensenada.

Curry said Brous represented himself as head of the American Republican Army and said it will gain political power "by political, not violent means."

Brous added. "We planned blowing up the communications equipment as a spectacular effort to bring notice to the organization."

Brous told Curry that hate for

TWO CHILDREN, FATHER FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

He Apparently Killed Them, Then Took Own Life—Separated From Wife.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ROODHOUSE, Ill., June 19—Richard Patterson, 28 years old, apparently killed his two children yesterday and later shot and killed himself, Greene county authorities reported last night. Patterson recently lost his job in a Springfield factory and was separated from his wife.

The bodies of the children, Rickey, 3 years old, and Jyneane, 23 months, were found beside a creek more than 10 miles from the point where Patterson drove his automobile into a field and shot himself. Both children had been shot, Ricky three times in the chest and twice in the left arm, and Jyneane twice in the chest. Greene County Coroner William H. Wolfe said evidence indicated that the boy had put up a brief struggle.

Patterson had an agreement with his wife that he could see his children. He picked them up yesterday at the home of his wife's parents near here. He was seen playing with the children in the yard of his home, outside Roodhouse, and he bought candy for them at a country store.

Later, a truck driver on U.S. Highway 67, near here, was startled when a car swerved in front of his truck and ran into a wheat field. The driver backed out of the field, drove into another field and stopped, he reported. The truck driver got out to investigate and found Patterson in the auto, shot in the head with a .22-caliber pistol. Patterson died in Our Savior's

FULBRIGHT HAS SUGGESTION FOR M'NAMARA'S BOX

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, June 19 — In hearings before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last week, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told what his department was doing to save the taxpayers' money. When the committee went into executive session the following day, Chairman J. W. Fulbright (Dem.), Arkansas, passed a note to the Secretary before the lunch break. It read:

"For Mr. McNamara's suggestion box: At hearings this morning, there were eleven aids for three principal witnesses. If each gets $10,000 a year, their presence at the hearings this morning cost $366. In the interest of executive branch efficiency, is this necessary? If awards are made for worthwhile suggestions, please send this award to Senator Fulbright."

When the committee reconvened, a note was handed to Fulbright: "The number of aids has been reduced from 11 to five. I shall share the savings with you. (Signed) McNamara."

BREACH IN SHIP STRIKE WIDENED BY BRIBE CHARGE

Head of Union Group Tells of Offer to Force Dropping Runaway-Flag Issue.

NEW YORK, June 19 (AP)—Negotiators in the maritime strike which has paralyzed segments of the merchant fleet were farther apart today following heated charges of attempted bribery and divisive tactics.

There were predictions on both sides that the strike, which began last Thursday midnight, would be a long one.

More than 100 ships already have been immobilized in ports.

The attempted bribery charge was made yesterday by Jesse M. Calhoon, chairman of the National Committee for Maritime Bargaining, a group representing several unions.

Calhoon charged that the American Merchant Marine Institute had attempted to "bribe us by offering a substantial economic package if we will drop the runaway-flag issue from our demands." He said he had called on a congressional committee to investigate."

The accusation was denied by Ralph E. Casey, president of the Merchant Marine institute. He accused Calhoon of "lying in his teeth," and said he also would welcome a congressional investigation.

Chief Hurdle.

The "runaway-flag" issue is a main obstacle in the path of a settlement. It involves American-owned ships which sail under foreign flags.

The unions want the right to organize the crews on these ships. They contend that American seamen are being deprived of jobs by the practice of hiring foreign crews on the vessels.

Wage scales on such ships are lower than on American-flag vessels. The companies insist the practice is necessary in order to compete with foreign vessels.

Wage demands for American-flag ship crews are a relatively minor issue in the strike.

Efficacy of Acid Indisputable ---But It Eats Out the Pipes

NAGS HEAD, N.C., June 19 (UPI)—You can only goad the Government so far. That was the moral of a story Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges told the North Carolina Seedman's Association convention today.

He said a plumber with "a rather limited command of English" wrote the Bureau of Standards in Washington. He said he found that hydrochloric acid opened clogged drainage pipes in a hurry, and wanted to know if it was a good thing to use.

A bureau scientist wrote back: "The efficacy of hydrochloric acid is indisputable, but the corrosive residue is incompatible with metallic permanence."

The plumber promptly wrote back thanking the scientist for telling him the method was all right. The scientist showed the letter to his boss, who got worried.

"We cannot assume," he wrote the plumber, "responsibility for the production of toxic and noxious residue with hydrochloric acid and suggest you use an alternative procedure."

The plumber, figuring somebody up there at the Bureau of Standards really liked him, promptly replied that the acid was working just dandy.

This letter was passed on to the boss's boss, who broke off the correspondence tersely: "Don't use hydrochloric acid. It eats hell out of the pipes."

BANK TELLER WHO SHOT SELF CHARGED WITH $35,850 THEFT

FBI Says Frank L. Morehead Admits Stealing Money Before He Disappeared From Wood River.

Frank L. Morehead was charged today with stealing $35,850 from the First National Bank of Wood River where he is supervisory teller.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation said Morehead orally admitted the theft when questioned today at Wood River Hospital where he is in serious condition with a self-inflicted gunshot wound. Morehead shot himself Saturday night a few hours after returning from a 17-day disappearance.

On complaint of the FBI, United States Commissioner Ronald C. Mottaz of Alton issued a warrant accusing Morehead of taking the money "on or about" May 31, the day he disappeared. The FBI said none of the money has been discovered. The warrant was to be served later today at the hospital.

Had Denied Theft.

Authorities earlier had said that then they talked to Morehead before the shooting Saturday night, the teller had insisted he was innocent of the theft and had offered to take a lie-detector test. Police Chief James Buckner of Wood River said Morehead told him he returned to Wood River chiefly to deny any knowledge of the missing money.

An audit after Morehead's disappearance turned up the shortage. Bank officials have been careful to say, however, that Morehead's accounts were in order. They have said there was not necessarily a connection between the missing teller and the missing money.

Buckner and FBI agents interrogated Morehead for more than three hours Saturday night before the shooting. They would disclose little that was said, other than that Morehead told them he had left Wood River for personal reasons and had wandered "here and there" until Saturday.

Morehead, 38 years old, had worked at the bank since 1953.

Police Chief's Account.

Buckner gave this account of Morehead's return:

At 7:30 p.m., Saturday, Morehead's mother, Mrs. Samuel Morehead, called to inform Buckner that her son had walked into her home at 309 Tenth street, Wood River, a few minutes earlier. She said Morehead was alone. He wanted to talk to police, she said.

Buckner relayed the information to the FBI, then went to Mrs. Morehead's home where he was joined later by FBI agents. They interviewed Morehead until about 11 p.m.

Morehead's wife and young daughter arrived during the questioning and were present during part of the interview. Morehead was described as calm, in good spirits, neatly attired and apparently relieved to be back.

He flatly denied having taken any of the missing $35,000, Buckner said. He was not clear about where he had been, how he had traveled or why he had left.

He volunteered to take a lie detector test to establish his innocence in connection with the bank's funds. The interview broke up with Morehead agreeing to meet again with the officers either yesterday or today.

Morehead, his wife and daughter left his mother's home a few moments after the police departed, about 11 p.m., returning to their home at 77 Crestview drive in Kendall Hills subdivision just east of Wood River.

They had been home only a few minutes when Morehead told his wife he was going to the basement to take a shower. He went downstairs, and Mrs. Morehead heard a shot. She found him on the floor. She called Wood River police at 11:15 p.m. to report what had happened.

Buckner said a 410-gauge shotgun was used in the shooting. He said Morehead apparently propped the stock of the weapon on the floor and pulled the trigger.

The FBI said the investigation into the missing bank money is continuing. Another bank employe, Archie W. Durham, bookkeeper and teller, has confessed the theft of about $1000 over the past seven years. Durham, who lives at 620 North drive, East Alton, surrendered to Buckner on June 11 after reading newspaper accounts of the shortage.

In Springfield, Ill., today Durham pleaded guilty of embezzlement and asked for probation. The charge against him was changed from a felony to a misdemeanor by United States Attorney Harlington Wood.

U.S. COURT KNOCKS OUT BROAD SEIZURE POWER IN MISSOURI OBSCENITY LAW

JUSTICES RULE UNANIMOUSLY IT IS VIOLATION OF DUE PROCESS

Hold Warrant Issued to Kansas City Police on Own Claims Against News Dealers Is Invalid.

By EDWARD F. WOODS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 19—The Supreme Court ruled unconstitutional today a section of the Missouri anti-obscenity statutes giving the courts and police sweeping powers to seize objectionable publications and materials.

The decision, written by Justice William C. Brennan Jr., was unanimous.

At issue in the case before the court was the seizure in October 1957 in Kansas City by vice squad police of thousands of pieces of printed material from several news distributing companies. The police were armed with a warrant issued by the Jackson county court on their own claims that obscene material would be found on the premises. Validity of the procedure was upheld by the Missouri Supreme Court in March 1960.

Another Obscenity Ruling.

In another case involving obscene materials, the Supreme Court ruled that all evidence obtained by unconstitutional searches and seizures is inadmissible in state courts as well as federal.

The United States Supreme Court held that the Missouri seizures violated the due process of law guarantees of the Fourteenth Amendment.

"We believe that Missouri's procedures as applied in this case lacked the safeguards which due process demands to assure non-obscene material the constitutional protection to which it is entitled," Justice Brennan wrote.

He said that before issuance of the warrants the defendant news-dealers had no opportunity to argue against the propriety of the seizures and that the state court issued the warrants on the conclusions of a police officer, without any scrutiny by the judge of any materials considered by the policeman to be obscene.

The warrants gave the broadest discretion to the officers, specified no publications to be seized and left to the judgment of the police officers the selection of magazines which were "obscene publications."

No Safeguard Provided.

It was clear, Justice Brennan said, that the police made their decisions on the spot "with little opportunity for reflection or deliberation."

"Mass seizure" as carried out in the Kansas City case, Justice Brennan said, was effected without any safeguards to protect legitimate expression. He said the court could not sustain the Missouri Supreme Court judgment upholding condemnation of 100 publications seized by the police.

"We have no occasion to reach the question of the correctness of the finding that the publications are obscene," Justice Brennan wrote. "Nor is it necessary for us to decide in this case whether Missouri lacks all power under its statutory scheme to seize and condemn obscene material. Since a violation of the Fourteenth Amendment infected the proceedings, in order to vindicate appellants constitutional rights the judgment is reversed, and the case is remanded for further proceedings not inconsistent with this opinion."

Separate Opinion by Black.

In a concurring opinion, Justice Hugo Black, joined by Justice William O. Douglas, said that the state had used a "general warrant" in this case in violation of both the Fourth and the Fourteenth Amendments.

"The warrant used to search the appellants' (news dealers) premises made no attempt to specifically describe the things

LAOTIAN PRINCES DISAGREE ON FORMING COALITION

Pro-Western Group Balks at Neutralist Hints It Should Take Back Seat.

ZURICH, Switzerland, June 19 (AP)—The three rival princes of Laos began negotiations for a coalition government today and promptly disagreed.

Prince Souvanna Phouma, the self-styled neutralist who is the Communists' candidate to head a "national union" regime, announced that Prince Boun Oum, the conservative premier of the Western-backed royal government in Vientiane, plans to retire from politics.

A spokesman for Boun Oum denied the retirement report, saying, "Prince Souvanna Phouma failed to understand the prince's intentions." He added that "until now there has been no question" of Boun Oum's willingness to abandon power.

Concerning Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, the deputy premier and real power of the Vientiane government, Souvanna said, "I will not admit the military into the government." He hinted that if Gen. Phoumi remained in politics, he would have to leave the army.

Souvanna's statement indicated that if he heads the coalition government as expected, representatives of the conservative, pro-Western factions in Laos will take a back seat to Souvanna and his half-brother, Prince Souphanouvong, the chief of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao.

The princes set a three-day limit on their session and said they would only work out general principles and policies, leaving the details to the East-West conference in Geneva and their own lesser-rank delegations meeting in Laos in the rebel-held jungle town of Ban Namone.

That procedure indicated that formation of a coalition regime is a long way off.

"We all agree that Laos should be neutral, sovereign and independent," Souvanna said.

Prince Souphanouvong was considered the dominating force at the Zurich meeting. His quest for power in Laos is backed by 12,000 guerrillas who have been hardened by years of jungle fighting and now control large portions of northeast Laos. The Vientiane government's army has shown little will to fight de-

FLAMES WRAPPED HIS SPACESHIP, GAGARIN SAYS

MOSCOW, June 19 (AP)—Astronaut Yuri Gagarin says his spaceship re-entered the earth's atmosphere enveloped by flames from friction after his flight around the world, Tass reported today.

"Its outer skin became hot rapidly and through the blinds covering the port holes I saw the ominous purple reflections of the flame raging around the ship," the official news agency said Gagarin reported in the newspaper Pravda.

He said the temperature inside the cabin was normal "although I was in the center of a whirl of flames." The spaceship then began rotating and he reported it to his control points.

"But the rotation, which somewhat worried me, soon stopped and the further descent proceeded normally," he said.

Gagarin's comments appeared in the final chapter of his book, "Road to Outer Space," published by Pravda in serial form. He made his flight April 12.

HORSE, CARRIAGE CLIMB TO TOP OF MT. WASHINGTON

PINKHAM NOTCH, N.H., June 19 (AP)—A horse and carriage climbed to the summit of Mount Washington yesterday, passing several stalled automobile on the eight-mile ascent.

It was the first time in 50 year a carriage had reached the summit of New England's highest peak.

Jim Brady of Jefferson, N.H., walked beside his golden Palamino horse, Apache, most of the distance. Brady said, "I am sure I feel more tired than the horse."

About 15 antique automobiles attained the summit. Nearly 100 of the vintage cars gathered at the base of the mountain for a rally to celebrate the centennial of the road to the summit.

KENNEDY CALLS OFF TALK, DUE TO AILING BACK

Wife to Represent Him at Women's Press Club Dinner —He Still Uses Crutches.

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 19. — President Kennedy today canceled another outside engagement as a result of his persistent backache. The White House said he expects to continue using crutches for at least part of this week.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger announced that the Chief Executive had decided not to attend the Women's National Press Club annual dinner tonight, in order to avoid putting any additional strain on his back.

Salinger said the President told him this morning that he hoped to be able to discard his crutches some time this week. Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy had said previously that his brother hoped to be able to discontinue using the crutches by this last weekend.

Salinger emphasized that the President continues to make steady progress in recovering from the strained back he suffered in Canada May 16.

He said Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy would represent her husband at the dinner, which will be held at a hotel near the White Houes. Both the President and Mrs. Kennedy had accepted invitations to the dinner, and Mr. Kennedy had been expected to make brief remarks.

It was the second outside engagement Mr. Kennedy has canceled since his back injury was disclosed. He called off a scheduled speech to the United States Conference of Mayors last Tuesday. He has been out of the White House several times

Toy Model Put on Market Prior To Atom Ship's Commissioning

VENICE, Calif., June 19 (AP)—A toy manufacturer says military weapon models manufactured by his firm include an atomic cruiser not yet commissioned.

The founder-president of Revell, Inc., Lewis H. Glaser, said in an interview yesterday the firm has marketed scores of military equipment models, including jet interceptors, the X-15 rocket plane, and atomic power stations.

He emphasized, however, that information used in making the models is available to the public in trade and technical journals, newspapers, magazines, and other sources.

Glaser's remarks followed Adm. Hyman G. Rickover's statement, disclosed in Washington Saturday, that Russia got millions of dollars worth of information about United States nuclear submarines for $2.98, the cost of a toy model of the craft.

Rickover did not say whether Revell, Inc., made the model.

The firm's model of the cruiser Long Beach, first of the Navy's atomic surface vessels, includes a rough reproduction of the reactor which will power the $300,000,000 ship.

U.N. HIRING PLAN ALLOTS STAFF POSTS ON BASIS OF POPULATION

Proposal Follows 18-Month Study — Comes Amid Russian Drive for Bigger Role in Directing Body.

© New York Times News Service

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., June 19—A committee of experts has recommended that a country's population be considered in the distribution of professional posts at the United Nations.

This development was disclosed yesterday by a diplomatic source amid intensified efforts by the Soviet Union to gain a greater role in the staff and operation of the world organization.

The new formula for filling positions is one of a number of recommendations by a panel of eight experts in a report completed after nearly 18 months work on organization of the United Nations.

Europe Would Lose.

One effect of their proposal, which would put a premium on population instead of economic support as in the past, would be to take jobs away from Western European nations and give more to such countries as India, now the most populous U.N. member with more than 400,000,000 inhabitants.

The formula is understood to follow these lines:

Each of the organization's 99 members would get two professional posts, such as a political affairs officer, a department head or an economist, to start.

Each member would get one more post for each 10,000,000 persons in its population up to 150,000,000 persons, or a maximum of 15 posts.

Next, each member with population above 150,000,000 would get one further post for each additional 30,000,000 persons up to an unspecified cut-off point.

The remaining unfilled posts then would be distributed among the members according to their present percentage share of payment in the United Nations's budget.

Budgetary shares now are used as the basis for determining a professional staff of about 1300 persons. At present, the United States is entitled to the largest number of professional posts. It pays the largest share of the budget, 32.51 per cent.

Aimed at Russians.

The population formula was understood to have been put forward in an attempt to head off a Soviet demand to have all United Nations jobs split evenly between the West, the Communist bloc and the neutral nations.

The Soviet Union was said to have agreed with the panel's seven other members on the population principle, but to have sought unsuccessfully to make it apply to all agencies with any connection with the world organization.

On reorganization of the upper levels of the secretariat, the committee was known to have split on suggestions for changes.

3 Deputies Favored.

Ghana, India and the United Arab Republic were said to have favored establishing three deputy secretaries-general under Dag Hammarskjold to reflect Russian demands for equal representation of the three blocs.

Britain, Colombia, France and the United States were said to have wanted to reduce the present 14 undersecretaries reporting to Hammarskjold to seven as a means of streamlining top-level operations.

The Russians showed no desire to change their original demands that the office of the Secretary-General be abolished and replaced by three executives—Western, Communist and neutral—each with a veto. Moscow's reorganization efforts are expected to be a major issue at the assembly session this fall.

FCC HEAD SEEKS POWER TO REGULATE NETWORKS

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP)—The head of the Federal Communications Commission said today his agency should have power to regulate networks to make television perform a more wholesome service to the community and protect youngsters against over-exposure to crime and violence on the home screen.

Newton N. Minow, FCC chairman, made the recommendation to a Senate judiciary subcommittee on juvenile delinquency.

In a statement on behalf of the FCC, Minow noted that the agency now licenses only individual stations. Yet it is the networks, he said, which originate much of the material drawing complaints about sex, crime and violence. For this reason, Minow said, the FCC has recommended to Congress legislation which "provides for the direct regulation of network policies."

Ikeda Arrives in Los Angeles On Way to Talk With Kennedy

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

Japan's PRIME MINISTER IKEDA and his wife leaving airliner at Los Angeles today to start an official visit to this country and Canada.

LOS ANGELES, June 19 (AP)—Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda of Japan and his party landed at Los Angeles today on the first leg of an official visit to President Kennedy.

They were greeted by representatives of the United States State Department, Mayor Norris Poulson of Los Angeles and other dignitaries.

Accompanying Ikeda was his wife, Japan's Foreign Minister Zentaro Kosaka, and other high officials. The Japanese ambassador to the United States, Koichiro Asakai, met the party at Los Angeles international airport and will accompany the Prime Minister when he takes off tonight for Washington and conferences with the Kennedy administration.

Purpose of Visit.

The consulate general issued a statement on Ikeda's behalf in which he said the purpose of his trip is "to further deepen Japanese-American understanding and strengethen our ties of cooperation through heart-to-heart talks with President Kennedy and other leaders of your government.

"Out of these talks I hope we will find better ways of concerting our efforts for world peace and contributing to a better life for people in less privileged lands around the world."

Ikeda left Tokyo a year to the day after cancellation of former President Eisenhower's visit to Japan when there was violent protest against revision of the Japan-United States security treaty.

To Visit Canada Also.

Ikeda is scheduled to confer Minister's route from his resithrough Thursday. He will return home by way of Canada for talks with Prime Minister John Diefenbaker.

Such issues as relations with Communist China, Japanese rights in Okinawa, aid for underdeveloped southeast Asian nations, the security treaty and Communist threats to Laos and South Viet Nam are almost certain to be discussed in Washington.

The Japan Times, which reflects official thinking, said Ikeda should clarify the use of bases in Japan in the event of war in the Far East.

The newspaper said the treaty provision providing for consultations between the two countries in the event of hostilities "has been interpreted here as giving Japan the right to veto such activities on her soil, but the American attitude is believed to be different. . . ."

The newspaper Mainichi likened the trip to "the head of a subsidiary company who is anxious to impress the president of the parent concern."

TRACTORS GROUP DUE TO REPLY TO CASTRO DEMAND

Committee Expected to Stick to Offer of 500 Light-Duty Machines.

DETROIT, June 19 (AP)—The Tractors for Freedom committee plans to reply late today to Fidel Castro's latest demand on the number of American tractors he wants in exchange for Cuban invasion prisoners, a committee spokesman said.

Castro told a four-man team of American technical experts in Havana last week that he would accept light-duty farm tractors only if their total value was $28,000,000.

The Cuban premier originally offered to swap some 1200 prisoners for 500 heavy-duty tractors.

The Detroit Free Press yesterday quoted sources close to the committee as saying the citizens group would tell Castro it is sticking to its original offer of 500 light-duty tractors. This reply, the sources said, will leave it up to Castro to decide whether the negotiations are to be continued.

U.S. DIPLOMAT IS INDICTED IN POLISH ESPIONAGE CASE

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP)—A federal grand jury today indicted Irvin C. Scarbeck, 41-year-old former United States embassy official in Warsaw, on charges of giving classified information to representatives of the Communist government of Poland.

After Scarbeck was arrested June 13, authorities said he was seduced by a young Polish blonde and then blackmailed by the agents to get the information.

Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, announcing the indictment, said Scarbeck is charged specifically with delivering to representatives of Poland a classified Foreign Service dispatch, dated Jan. 13, 1961, and entitled "An Examination of United States Policy toward Poland during the aPst Four Years."

ECUADOR BRIEFS STEVENSON ON ECONOMIC PLANS

Seeks $140,000,000 in Foreign Credits — Pledges Co-operation With U.S. Program.

QUITO, June 19 (AP)—President Jose Valasco Ibarra's government laid before Adlai Stevenson today its plans for a comprehensive economic and social program calling for immediate foreign credits totaling about $140,000,000.

The government already has applied for loans and grants covering a substantial part of the program. Some are sought from the United States and others from international agencies.

The government pledged full co-operation in President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress plan and promised tax and agrarian reforms and administrative changes to remove obstacles to Ecuador's development.

Valasco Ibarra has been a critic of the United States and Stevenson faced here one of the most difficult parts of his mission for Kennedy to South America.

Velasco Ibarra has expressed strong sympathy for Fidel Castro's government in Cuba and has taken a determined stand against intervention of any kind in the affairs of other countries. A few hours before Stevenson arrived, Vice President Carlos Julio Arosmena and six legislators left to visit the Soviet Union.

Despite the political differences, Stevenson on his arrival from Peru yesterday got the most enthusiastic reception of his tour in behalf of President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress program. When his plane stopped at Guayaquil a crowd cheered and applauded him and chanted "down with Communism." Another large crowd greeted him at Quito.

Stevenson received a faded rose from a little girl and gave her a big kiss on her cheek. To the applauding crowd Stevenson said, "After this cordial reception I think I should have run for President of Ecuador."

Another unexpected development was the friendly attitude of a student group that called on Stevenson. In contrast with leftist student manifestations common to this area, the group presented a plan to help the poor with "brigades for progress." The plan calls for students of medicine, law, engineering and other specialties to return to their own regions and open free clinics for the less fortunate.

Stevenson appeared deeply interested and expressed gratification for the group's friendly attitude. United States Ambassador Maurice Bernbaum disclosed he had agreed to give the students equipment to help carry out their project.

U.S., Russia to Confer on Way To Resume Disarmament Talks

Zorin Expected to Try to Link Geneva Nuclear Test Ban Discussions With Broader Conference.

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP)—United States and Russian representatives meet here today, seeking a way to resume general disarmament talks. The talks were broken off a year ago when the Communist representatives walked out, charging the West with bad faith.

Whether the Russians stick to procedural matters this time or show intentions of talking about all the problems of disarmament may offer a clue as to whether the talks will get off the ground.

The United States representative, John J. McCloy, is reported to expect that his Soviet counterpart, Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin, will not be satisfied with limiting the Washington talks to questions of procedures.

In fact, the Russian was hinting all of last week that he will bring up Soviet Premier Khrushchev's request to merge the stalemated Geneva talks on seeking a ban on nuclear weapons testing into the broader conference of disarmanent.

U.S. Rejects Idea.

The United States in a diplomatic note handed to the Kremlin Saturday, said the Khrushchev proposal was unacceptable. The United States accused Moscow of trying "to choke off" the Geneva negotiations by proposing that they be be merged into general disarmament talks.

Last March, United Nations Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko agreed that a new effort should be made to resume the disarmament talks and that a multi-nation conference should meet around July 31.

McCloy, President Kennedy's special representative on disarmament, and Zorin were given the task of deciding when and where such a conference should be held and who should attend it.

There is no question about the 10 nations—five on each side—to represent East and West. They would be the same as last year—the United States, Britain, France, Canada and Italy on one side and Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria and Romania on the other.

These 10 nations were meeting when the disarmament talks were broken off last year. Now, the Russians want to bring in five neutrals—Ghana, India, Indonesia, Mexico and the United Arab Republic. The United States wants only two of these participating — India and Mexico.

A hint that the Russians may want to go beyond procedural matters in the talks came last May 6 from Khrushchev. He said:

"If someone thinks that the talks can be reduced to pure formalities, to discussion of procedural questions, then let them take the responsibility for such an unbusinesslike attitude."

Cardinal Issue.

The Soviet aide-memoire that Khrushchev gave Mr. Kennedy at their Vienna meeting June 3 and 4 called disarmament the "main, cardinal" issue to be solved.

The United States doesn't quarrel with this thesis. However, the United States takes the position that while, with a little good will, it would be easy to agree speedily on the test ban issue, the much more intricate question of disarmament has no chance for a quick solution.

The United States note of Saturday, while prepared by the State Department, was, in effect, Mr. Kennedy's reply to the Soviet Vienna note. The United States blamed Russia for the Geneva deadlock and said it could not continue indefinitely its self-imposed ban on nuclear weapons tests.

Young Downey and the former Sandra J. Arpaia of Hamden, Conn., were married 10 days ago. Downey was injured, but was listed in fair condition.

A sailor, Daniel A. Sexton of Walls, Miss., driving the other car, was killed in the collision.

23 DEAD, 100 HURT IN FRENCH TRAIN WRECK

More Bodies Reported Unrecovered in Car Submerged in Ravine.

VITRY-LE-FRANCOIS, France, June 19 (AP)—French railway officials said today that 23 bodies had been taken from the wreckage of the Strasbourg-Paris express but that an undetermined number still remained in a car submerged in swamp water.

Rescue workers were hampered in reaching the car because a second one rested atop it. In all, 10 cars left the rails late yesterday as the electric train sped along at 80 miles an hour.

The French Railways in Paris early today said 23 bodies had been found and 100 to 115 passengers injured. Twenty-two of the dead were believed to be French, and one German.

The express, one of France's fastest trains, left the tracks moments after sweeping through this city about 100 miles east of Paris. The engine and the forward section of the train stayed on the rails, but 10 coaches fell into a ravine.

Officials found no immediate explanation for the wreck but ruled out sabotage after examing the rails. They did find indications the roadbed's gravel ballast had given way. Railroad officers said the train's 80-mile speed was normal for the stretch.

Helicopters from the United States air base at Verdun evacuated those persons more seriously injured to a French hospital at Nancy. Others were treated at the United States Seventy-seventh Medical Depot at Vitry-le-Francois.

Only three Americans were believed aboard the train, and only one was injured, not seriously. Miss Catherine McGuinness of Bayside, N.Y., an Air Force employe at Wiesbaden, Germany, suffered slight bruises.

SEAT FOR RED CHINA IN U.N. CALLED HARMFUL TO U.S.

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP)—Admission of Communist China to the United Nations would irreparably damage United States national security, a committee of six retired Army and Navy officers and a past president of the American Bar Association said today.

The group is known as the National Strategy Committee of the American Security Council, a bipartisan, not-profit organization headed by John M. Fisher of Chicago. The report urged American citizens to petition their representatives in Congress to enact a joint resolution reaffirming "our opposition to Red China's membership in the U.N."

Loyd Wright, committee chairman and former bar association president, said the United States must make it clear now that if Red China is admitted "our government would reconsider whether it's still in our national interest to associate ourselves with the U.N."

HURDLES AHEAD FOR KENNEDY'S SCHOOL, HOUSING BILLS IN HOUSE

G.O.P., Southern Democrats Are Looking for Chance to Kill Both Senate-Passed Measures.

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP) —President Kennedy's legislative program faced trouble today as the House prepared for preliminary or final action this week on two major bills.

Endangered by undercurrents of politics and religion are the multi-billion-dollar housing and school bills.

A coalition of conservative Republicans and Southern Democrats was waiting to scuttle both of the Senate-passed measures if the opportunity arose.

The catch-all housing and urban development bill awaits the pleasure of the powerful House Rules Committee. It is scheduled for House debate starting Wednesday if the Rules Committee gives the go-ahead.

Similar to Senate Bill.

The bill carries a price tag ranging from around five billion dollars to more than 10 billions, depending on who makes the estimates. It includes a controversial provision for 40-year, no down payment loans for housing for families with moderate incomes, plus construction of 100,000 housing units. It is similar, except for the down payments provision, to the Senate-passed bill.

Conservatives have lambasted the housing measure as too costly and impractical. It was their opposition which helped the Rules Committee choke an omnibus housing bill last year.

In deeper trouble is a $2,500,000,000 bill for aid to public schools. It was killed also last year by the Rules Committee.

Chairman Balks.

Since then, however, the rules group has been enlarged to give liberal Democrats a voting edge they lacked in former years.

Rules Committee Chairman Howard W. Smith (Dem.), Virginia, has balked at calling a meeting on the school bill until other school measures, providing long-term loans for private and parochial schools for nonsectarian purposes and loans for college students are cleared by the House Education Committee.

"We should take a look at all these proposals together," he told a reporter. "I don't propose to call a hearing on one bill only when other measures dealing with the same subject are pending."

Other Measures.

Overshadowed by the housing and education controversies are several other Administration measures on this week's congressional agenda.

The House has scheduled a vote tomorrow on presidential plans to reorganize the Federal Trade Commission and the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The Senate plans to act sometime this week on the annual Agriculture Department appropriation bill, a measure to help municipalities cope with water pollution problems, a bill extending emergency tax rates and a bill broadening the Social Security program. All have been passed by the House.

TAVERN ROBBED OF $100; SHOT FIRED AT BARTENDER

A tavern at 1000 Bond avenue, East St. Louis, was robbed of $100 yesterday by two holdup men, one of whom fired a shot at the bartender, police reported.

George Lawlor, the bartender, told police one of the robbers flourished a revolver after entering the tavern about 2:40 p.m. from a side door. Lawlor said he was ordered to face the back of the place, after handing over the contents of a cash register. At this time, one of the pair fired at Lawlor, the bullet apparently passing between his head and upraised arm. Seven other persons were in the tavern.

Killings

Hospital at Jacksonville a short time later without making a statement.

Coroner Wolfe said Patterson apparently sought to drive his car into the path of the heavy truck, but changed his plan at the last instant. The fate of the children was not learned until authorities notified Mrs. Patterson of her husband's death. She inquired about the children.

Sheriff Leonard Stone and Coroner Wolfe then began a search, and learned that persons living near Apple Creek, nine miles east of Roodhouse, had heard shots in the afternoon. The bodies of the children were found after a short search.

Patterson had worked at a farm equipment plant in Springfield, but was laid off recently. He had been employed on a farm since the layoff. Following the separation two weeks ago, Mrs. Patterson moved to her parents' home.

Inquests will be conducted in the deaths.

Roodhouse is 60 miles north of St. Louis.

James, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vermayne W. Crotty, 4438 Rolling drive, Berkeley, told police he was walking north on Middleway drive on his way to church when the gang of five or six boys approached him from the rear near Springdale avenue. One of the group yelled at him to wait, the youth reported.

He said he was struck on the back of the head with a stick by a member of the gang and another threw a brick which hit him near the right eye. James said he did not know the boys or the reason he was attacked.

A recommendation by the prosecuting attorney's office of 10 years imprisonment was accepted by the court. Sentence was deferred by Judge Franklin Ferriss until July 21, pending investigation for a posible parole for the youth.

The shooting grew out of a dispute between father and son over shoveling snow at the home. The father, a salesman, was shot at close range with a shotgun he had given the son as a present. The youth originally was charged with second-degree murder.

Beckham noticed the safe had been moved from its normal position when he walked past the office about 9 p.m. He found a back window had been broken and the safe moved to the back of the office and forced open.

PORTER SOCKED AWAY BURGLARY LOOT, POLICE FIND

Calvin Brown, a porter at Beyer Motors, Inc., 3435 South Kingshighway, was held for the circuit attorney after police, investigating the theft of $900 from the motor firm Saturday night, found the money in Brown's socks.

Leonard Berin, the manager, summoned police and reported that a drawer of a cash register had been forced and the money stolen. Berin said he suspected an employe. After Brown made conflicting statements under questioning, he was searched, and the money, in $100 and $10 bills, was found in his socks. Police said he admitted forcing the cash drawer with a screwdriver.

Brown, who gave an address in the 3400 block of Lucas avenue, was booked suspected of stealing.

MOLINE ACRES FILES SUIT IN ANNEXATION DISPUTE

The municipality of Moline Acres sued to prohibit St. Louis County Circuit Judge John J. Kelly Jr. from issuing a temporary injunction to prevent the city from annexing a 242-acre tract of land, in a petition filed in the St. Louis Court of Appeals today.

The petition asked that the prohibition be in effect until a suit seeking to have the annexation declared illegal, which was filed earlier this month, is heard in full.

Residents of Moline Acres voted 248 to 26 on June 7 to approve the municipality's annexation plan. Suit to prevent the annexation was brought by 66 individuals and 50 businesses in the area.

Two 15-year-old youths have admitted about 50 business establishment burglaries in which more than $1000 in cash and merchandise was stolen, police said today. The youths, arrested Saturday night, also admitted nine attempted break-ins of south St. Louis bakeries, restaurants and confectioneries.

The pair said entrance into the buildings was usually made by forcing doors or windows or crawling through transoms. The burglaries were committed in the past 15 months, the boys said. The largest haul was about $75.

In addition to money, the boys took cigarettes, liquor, chewing gum and candy, most of which they sold to people on the street. They admitted breaking into a restaurant at 2612 Arsenal street twice and a confectionery at 2314 Shenandoah avenue twice. The boys were held for juvenile authorities.

INQUIRY IN LAND AGENCY DISPUTE CALLED A DUTY

Webster Groves Mayor Says Trip Wednesday Will Seek to Restore Harmony.

The government of Webster Groves is "obligated" to make an inquiry into the dispute between the city's Land Clearance for Redevelopment Authority and the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency, Mayor Gus O. Nations said today.

Nations said he and three other city officials, including a representative of the Land Authority, would go to the HHFA headquarters in Fort Worth, Tex., on Wednesday to try to restore harmony between the two agencies.

"We will stay a day or so, as long as it takes to iron out the problems," Nations said. "I am in hopes that the city's entry into the situation does not embarrass anyone. Our feeling is that because the authority is an adjunct of the city, the city government is obligated to make an inquiry and find out what we can contribute to restore harmony."

Source of Funds.

The city agency is dependent on the federal organization for clearance of urban renewal plans and for funds to carry out redevelopment programs.

R. C. Robinson, regional director of urban renewal for the HHFA, said Saturday that the Webster Groves authority "has deviated from our requirements more frequently than any other local agency we are dealing with" in the eight-state region. Robinson accused the authority's executive director, Glenn J. Manley, of failing to co-operate with the HHFA to work out corrections to the so-called deviations.

Robinson told a reporter that he had implied in a letter to John H. Carter, chairman of the authority, that Manley ought to be discharged from his $900-a-month job. The commissioners of the Land Authority rejected the suggestion at a meeting Thursday night.

Most of the deviations from federal requirements had to do with expenditures of the authority that were charged to urban renewal projects and disallowed by the HHFA. Carter said the expenditures disallowed totaled $1753, most of which was spent in the authority's first year before commissioners were familiar with HHFA policy.

Nations told a reporter he did not think the financial issue was the root of the friction between the agencies. Asked whether he felt the problem was more a clash of personalities, he replied:

"There appears to have been a series of misunderstandings which have steadily mounted. There has been a deterioration of the working relationship between the agencies. I don't know the details; that is what we want to find out."

Discoverer Capsule Recovered In Pacific by Three Skindivers

Then They Wait With It All Night on Raft Before Ship Picks Them Up.

HONOLULU, June 19 (UPI)—A 300-pound Discoverer capsule and the three skindivers who fished it from the Pacific were picked up today by a Navy destroyer escort as they bobbed on a life raft.

The Air Force said the U.S.S. Radford took the men and their gold-plated prize aboard this afternoon and began the 12-hour trip to Hawaii with the fifth Discoverer capsule to be recovered from space.

"The capsule and men are in excellent condition," the Air Force announcement said. The capsule will be returned to scientists for study of information gained in two days in space.

Two Air Force Air Rescue Service SC-54s watched the raft throughout the night.

On a signal from the ground, the instrument packet was ejected yesterday from Discoverer XXV satellite which was 250 miles over the North Pole and traveling through space at 18,000 miles an hour. That was on the thirty-third pass of the satellite, launched into polar orbit Friday from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

The capsule fell north of the recovery area in the Pacific off Hawaii, out of range of snare-trailing planes and ships awaiting it. One of the C-119 cargo planes saw the capsule floating in the water and radioed for a specially equipped SC-54, similar to a DC-4, carrying skindivers.

Pilot of the plane that first saw the capsule was Capt. Warren C. Schensted of Glenwood, Minn. Schensted was the pilot who first saw the initial Discoverer capsule to be recovered.

Three skindivers flown to the scene parachuted from 1000 feet altitude. The first landed less than 20 yards from the capsule.

The Air Force identified the parachuting skindivers as S. Sgts. Ray E. McClure of Mount Sterling, Ky.; William V. Vargas of Honolulu, and Leote M. Vigare of Guam.

They hauled the capsule aboard a 20-man life raft that was parachuted with them. Attempts were made last night to pick up the divers and the capsule by an amphibious airplane, but darkness overtook it on the way to the scene.

Aboard the capsule, the Air Force said, were samples of both common and rare materials to see what effect space had on them. They included gold, bismuth, iron titanium, cadmium, magnesium, nickel and yttrium. Also aboard were instruments to study cosmic radiation and gear to count the number and damage of micro meteorites hitting the satellite.

Scientists had hoped the capsule could be kept in orbit four days. They had said the operation of the satellite and weather in the recovery area would determine when the ground signal should be sent. An Air Force spokesman said he did not know whether it was the satellite, which remained in orbit after the capsule came back, or the weather or both that caused the recovery to be made after two days.

WOOD RIVER UNION OFFICER PLEADS INNOCENT OF FRAUD

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 19 — John Vidakovich, former financial secretary of Hod Carriers Local 338, Wood River, today pleaded innocent of embezzling $2659 of the union's funds. The plea was entered in the court of United States District Judge Omer Poos.

Judge Poos ordered a psychiatric examination of Leo Joseph Dumond of Collinsville, who was indicted by a federal grand jury in an investigation of the robbery of the State Bank of Collinsville of $8000 on May 5.

United States Attorney Harlington Wood said Dumond, 28 years old, has a military service recording showing schizophrenic tendencies.

FALLS INTO RIVER FROM BOAT DOCK AND DISAPPEARS

George T. Merchant Apparently Drowns in Mississippi When Mooring Craft.

George T. Merchant, 2008 Beckwith avenue, Madison, apparently drowned last night when he fell into the Mississippi river from a sheet metal dock as he was mooring a boat at the St. Louis Boating Association, 10200 Riverview drive.

The accident was witnessed by Merchant's wife, Wilene; his brother, James Merchant, and the owner of the boat, Robert McAllister, all of Madison. A search last night failed to recover a body and the Coast Guard said it would resume the search today.

Police said that Merchant's life preserver caught on a hook on the boat as he fell and was ripped off. The accident occurred at 8 p.m.

Merchant, 40 years old, an inspector for Carter Carburetor Division of ACF Industries, Inc., had been riding in the boat with his wife, his brother and McAllister.

They had started out on the Illinois side of the Mississippi River north of the Chain of Rocks Bridge, police said. The two men said they tried to reach Merchant before he disappeared below the surface, but were unable to do so.

BEATEN BY ROBBER IN LOBBY OF APARTMENT BUILDING

William Gross suffered multiple lacerations of the head when he was beaten with a pistol by a man who tried to rob him Saturday night as he entered the lobby of an apartment building at 4902 Argyle place.

The man, who had been waiting in the lobby, flourished the pistol and demanded Gross's money. Gross struggled with him and was struck. The man fled when Gross's mother, Mrs. June Gross, 59 years old, called downstairs from their third-floor apartment.

After phoning police from a rear bedroom, the pair discovered the front room of the apartment had been ransacked and Mrs. Gross's purse containing $87 was missing. The purse was found later by police in the 5000 block of Enright avenue. The money was gone. Gross, 29, was treated at St. John's Hospital.

DRIVER KILLED IN HEAD-ON AUTO CRASH IN ILLINOIS

Wassell Tarasuik, 38-year-old construction laborer of Pocahontas, Ill., was killed early yesterday when the automobile he was driving collided head on with another car on Illinois State Highway 140, near Alhambra, state police reported.

Driver of the other car, Victor Russell, 21, of Effingham, Ill., was treated for a broken leg and head injuries at St. Joseph's Hospital in Highland. Russell was unable to make a statement.

The accident occurred about 4:30 a.m. on the two-lane highway about two miles east of Alhambra in Madison county. Police said there were spots of fog on the highway at the time.

Driver Pronounced Dead.

Walter Brearley, 70, of 6258 Magnolia avenue, was pronounced dead after his car went out of control and struck a light standard in the 500 block of South Broadway about 1:30 p.m. yesterday.

Three of the four passengers in the car were injured, one seriously. Passengers said Brearley, who had been under a doctor's care, suddenly slumped in the front seat of the car. His wife, Elsa, 67, who was sitting in the front seat, suffered a fractured right ankle, multiple facial cuts and chest bruises. She was in serious condition at City Hospital.

Mrs. Brearley's two sisters were sitting in the back seat. Miss Alma B. Hubeli, 65, of 3126 South Compton avenue, was treated for an injury to her left leg and released. Miss Hedwig E. Hubeli, 57, of the same address, was uninjured.

A grandson of the Brearleys, Van Walter Taylor, 8, of 10311 Baptists Church road, Sappington, was treated for a leg injury and released.

Two Injured Seriously.

Two persons were seriously injured about 5:45 p.m. yesterday when two autos sideswiped and then struck a bridge on U.S. Highway 61, about three miles south of Festus, the Missouri Highway Patrol reported.

A car driven by James W. Dubar, 3517 Calvert avenue, Marvin Terrace, apparently sideswiped a car driven by John W. Lewis of Festus, when passing, the patrol said. Both cars swerved to the left. The Lewis machine struck a bridge railing, went over an embankment and overturned. The Dubar car came to a stop against a bridge abutment.

Lewis's wife, Shirley, 23, suffered injuries to her back and hip. A passenger in the Lewis car, Mrs. Pearl Bratton, 47, of 2809 Eads avenue, suffered a broken left leg, head injuries and a lacerated right arm. Both were treated at Jefferson County Memorial Hospital in Festus.

Johnny Lewis, 4, and his sister, Debora, 2, were treated for minor injuries and released.

IRAN SUSPENDS NEWSPAPER FOR MISQUOTING OFFICIAL

TEHRAN, June 19 (AP)—The government announced last night that Keyhan, one of Iran's two leading newspapers, had been suspended for printing "false reports and misquoting" Justice Minister Nurriddin Alamouti.

The newspaper printed an interview with the minister, quoting him as describing retired Gen. Hussein Azemodeh as "an enemy of the Shah, the nation and the country" and as "brother of the famous executioner — Eichmann."

Azemodeh, former president of the Army Court General, last Thursday asked the public prosecutor to bring Premier Ali Amini to trial on charges of violating the constitution. Later, the government accused Azemodeh of "jeopardizing the security of the country" and announced he would be brought before a military court.

Bombings

the privately owned utility companies was one reason for the bombings. Another was to produce a seare to bring nation-wide recognition of his group.

Brous described it as "like the John Birch Society but more active." Whether the American Republican Army is an organization of any size was not known.

In Washington, however, a well-placed source said the American Republican Army was the imaginary creation of Brous and it was felt that the so-called army "had been met and conquered." The FBI declined to comment on the matter.

Says He Is Non-Communist.

Brous said he is non-Communist but supports nationalization of public utilities.

In Houston, Tex., Brous told a reporter three years ago that he was forced out of business because the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. gave maintenance and emergency repair work to a rival company. His company, the Diamond Hill Corp., did minor repair work for the telephone company.

Robert Hill, as he was known in Houston, was the president and only stockholder in the company. Its only client was the telephone company. He contended a telephone executive had an interest in the rival company.

Hill took no legal action, although he threatened at the time to sue the telephone company "for a million dollars."

Brous claimed yesterday that his group is suing the telephone company for $4,700,000.

The communications towers were key links in nation-wide communications. They handled telephone and telegraph circuits for public use and circuits used in United States defense operations.

Situated in the desert, the stations are automatic and normally unmanned. They are part of A.T.&T.'s system of relaying signals by line of sight. The blasts caused only minor disruption of military circuits because equipment automatically switched messages to another system.

FBI agents in Las Vegas, Nev., yesterday filed a complaint charging Brous, Jensen and other unkown persons with conspiracy between May 1 and May 28 to commit sabotage by blowing up an destroying the microwave station at Wendover, Nev., on the Utah line.

The others blown up were at Knolls, Utah, and Cedar Mountain, Utah.

The complaint said the two men "had reason to believe their acts would injure, interfere with or obstruct the United States in carrying on defense action."

Ensenada police said they went aboard the 42-foot ketch, the Monsoon, Saturday evening on a tip that heavily armed persons were living aboard. Detective Emilio Mendez related:

Brous stood on deck with an M-2 rifle in his hand, a pistol in his belt and two hand grenades on a table beside him. Brous started to point the rifle at the four policemen, but they quickly disarmed him.

They arrested Brous and his wife, then the other two men when they appeared 2½ hours later, Jensen carrying a bag with two hand grenades in it.

Heavy Arsenal.

Taken to police headquarters was an arsenal so heavy that the yacht's bow rode high out of the water after police removed it.

Mendez said there were two 50-caliber machine guns, three carbines, three rifles, a shotgun and 1500 rounds of 22-millimeter and 30-caliber ammunition.

Also, he said, there were a "bundle" of TNT, "a great big bomb," and two two-way radios.

At the Ensenada police station Mrs. Brous's face was bloody. She told police she had fallen down a flight of stairs on the yacht.

Alfredo Trujillo Mier, consultant to the Mexican federal district attorney, said Brous told him it cost $600 to blow up the stations and that he had spent $6000 on the arsenal.

Brous told Mier he had sent 19,000 letters from various Mexican towns to United States persons, including President Kennedy, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and newspaper editors and publishers, urging sympathy for the "American Republican Army."

Before U.S. Commissioner.

In San Diego Brous and Jensen were taken before Mrs. Betty Marshall Graydon, United States commissioner.

Asked his occupation, Brous grinned, shrugged his shoulders and said he had none. Then he said he once was in the construction business.

He announced to reporters that he represented "the American Republican Army and the only offense we are charged with is an attempt to arouse the American public."

Jensen gave his address as Reno, Nev. He said he is a mining engineer and equipment operator.

The FBI said Brous was born in New York and attended grade school in Mt. Vernon, N.Y. He was divorced in Reno in 1954 from his first wife, Celia. The FBI in New Orleans said his present wife is the former Minnie I. Nettles of Walker, La.

The FBI said that since 1942 Brous has lived in New York City, Mexico City and El Paso, Tex., where it said he used the name Robert Hill in 1957. For a while in 1957-58 he lived in New Orleans and Houston. His last known address was Wilmington, California.

Formed Corporations.

He entered the building industry and formed several corporations dealing in construction and mortgage buying and selling on Long Island, N.Y., in 1947. In 1959, the FBI said, he ran the Diamond Hill Corp. in Houston.

In Wilmington, Calif., Frank A. Mohns, owner of the apartment house where the FBI said Brous lived as Hill, said: "He was a man who always paid his rent on time and was quick to say good morning and exchange short pleasantries."

As Hill, Brous bought the ketch last January from Sargent Ableman of Long Beach and spent $7000 refitting it.

Ableman said Brous installed such luxuries as a washing machine, fresh water showers and two comfortable staterooms.

Mexican authorities took custody of the yacht and posted a six-man armed guard by it at the pier.

The craft has two masts and a diesel engine. At the stern there is armor plating about five feet high on three sides, a short distance behind the wheelhouse.

Court

to be seized, as the Fourth Amendment requires," Justice Black said.

He said that a "major purpose of adopting that amendment was to bar the federal Government from using precisely this kind of warrant to support 'unreasonable search and seizures' of the 'papers' and 'effects' of persons having possession of them."

Justice Black said that only last term the court held that Fourteenth Amendment makes the Fourth Amendment applicable to the states in all its provisions just as it applies to the federal Government.

Morris A. Shenker, St. Louis attorney, had carried the case to the high court for the Kansas City news companies. No criminal prosecutions were involved.

Basis of Missouri Ruling.

The Missouri Supreme Court, in sustaining the Kansas City police action, relied on an earlier case decided by the United States tribunal, involving Kingsley Books Inc., and a New York anti-obscenity statute. But Justice Brennan described such reliance as "misplaced."

The difference between the New York statute, which the court upheld, and the Missouri statute, Justice Brennan said, amounts to the distinction between a limited injunctive remedy, under closely defined procedural safeguards, against the sale and distribution of printed and written matter found after due trial to be obscene, as was the case in New York, and "a scheme which in operation inhibited the circulation of publications indiscriminately because of the absence of any such safeguards."

The ruling came as the court pressed for adjournment of the 1960-61 session. With its docket cleared, the high tribunal would recess until next October.

Search and Seizure Case.

By the United Press International.

In the ruling on unconstitutional searches and seizures, the High Court overruled by a 6 to 3 vote one of its own decisions which has been a guidepost in many lawsuits since 1948.

Today's decision reversed the conviction in Cleveland of Dolly Mapp. She was convicted under a 1955 Ohio law which makes it a crime knowingly to possess obscene books and pictures.

Justice Tom C. Clark spoke for the majority today. Dissenters were Justices Harlan, Frankfurter and Whittaker.

Justice Potter Stewart did not express an opinion on the constitutional issue but agreed on the reversal for other reasons.

As a result of the 1948 decision, illegally seized evidence was admissible in state courts but not in federal courts.

"Federal-state co-operation in the solution of crime under constitutional standards will be promoted, if only by recognition of their now mutual obligation to respect the same fundamental criteria in their approaches," Justice Clark said.

The court majority did not find it necessary to rule on validity of Ohio's law against knowing possession of obscene literature. It overturned Mrs. Mapp's conviction on the basis of illegal seizure of evidence in her home.

It sent the case back to the Ohio Supreme Court for further proceeding "not inconsistent" with today's opinion.

Ruling on Union Dues.

The Supreme Court also ruled that the dues of a railroad worker required to join a union under a union-shop agreement may not be used for political activities he opposes.

Justice Brennan wrote the opinion for a five-man majority. Justices Black, Felix Frankfurter, John M. Harlan and Charles E. Whittaker expressed other views.

The ruling came in the case of six Southern Railway system workers who in 1953 sued the railroad and 15 unions in state court in Macon, Ga.

Employes were required to join the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks under a union-shop contract between the union and the railroad. In a union shop, a nonmember must join the union within a certain period of time or lose his job.

Collective bargaining agreements containing a union shop provision are permitted under a 1951 amendment to the Railway Labor Act.

The six protesting workers argued that their constitutional right to fredom of expression was impaired by use of their dues money—compelled under the contract—for political activities they opposed.

Georgia Court's Ruling.

The workers won a sweeping victory in the Georgia Supreme Court, which invalidated the contract, declared the 1951 amendment unconstitutional, and ordered all the dues refunded.

Despite today's opinion in favor of the workers; Justice Brennan made it clear that the court's interpretation of the law "involves no curtailment of the traditional political activities of the railroad unions."

"It means only that those unions must not support those activities, against the expresed wishes of a disenting employe, with his exacted money," the opinion said.

Justice Douglas provided the vote which made Justice Brennan's opinion the court's decision. Justice Douglas said he did so on the understanding that all relief granted will be confined to the six protesting employees.

Justice Brennan therefore sent the case back to the Georgia tribunal "for consideration of a proper remedy."

Other Rulings.

In other actions today, the Supreme Court:

Ruled that a Navy commander may bar employes of a private contractor from a Navy installation without a hearing or explanation. The decision on the case involved Rachel M. Brawner, a one-time cafeteria worker at the Navy gun factory here.

Ruled that a state may compel all practicing attorneys to join its bar association.

Declined to rule on Connecticut laws which make it a crime to use birth control devices or for doctors to advise their use.

JAYCEE NEGRO DELEGATES STAY AT ATLANTA HOTELS

ATLANTA, Ga., June 19 (UPI) —Several Negro delegates to the national Junior Chamber of Commerce convention were accepted by previously all-white hotels today without incident.

Officials said Williams Johnson, Negro president of Pennsylvania Jaycees, stayed at the downtown Dinkler Plaza hotel, one of the city's finest. Several Negroes stayed at other hotels.

NEW LANDING DEVICE MIGHT HAVE SAVED 250

NEW YORK, June 19 (UPI)— The Federal Aviation Agency today unveiled the first installation of a new safety device that might have saved the lives of more than 250 persons if it had been perfected 12 years ago.

The device is FAA's newly-adopted system of visual glide slope indicator lights, designed to assist pilots in landing aircraft. The initial installation was completed at a La Guardia airport runway today at a cost of $80,000.

The new lighting system was developed by British engineers. It consists of four bars of lights installed in pairs on each side of the runway. Each light in a bar is white in the upper part and red in the lower. If a pilot approaches too high, he sees only white lights. If his approach is too low, all the lights appear red. On a perfect approach, the pilot sees both red and white.

There have been 13 fatal scheduled airline landing accidents in the United States since 1949 which might have been prevented if pilots had such visual aids to approach "attitudes." In the 13 fatal crashes, 222 passengers and 39 crew members died.

JOBS GUARANTEED AGAINST LOSS THROUGH AUTOMATION

© New York Times News Service

NEW YORK, June 19 — About 1500 union employes of the American Cable & Radio Corp. have received a contract guarantee against loss of jobs or pay through automation or corporation merger.

The unusual job-security pledge is part of a two-year contract signed by the company and the Communications Workers of America. The union, which opens its annual convention today in Kansas City, is likely to use the clause as a model in its bargaining with units of the Bell telephone system.

The pact provides that no worker may be laid off or downgraded as a result of the introduction of new equipment. If automation permits the performance of work with fewer employes, the company is obliged to place the disloiged workers in other jobs carrying an equivalent title or pay rate.

ANTI-TRUST CHIEF PRESSES 640 PRICE-FIXING CASES

WASHINGTON, June 19 (UPI) — The head of the Justice Department's anti-trust division pledged every effort today to wipe out price fixing. He said 140 cases were pending in courts and 500 more were under investigation.

Assistant Attorney General Lee J. Loevinger issued a blanket warning to business that the Kennedy Administration would vigorously enforce the anti-trust laws.

The Administration statement followed a series of legislative proposals by chairman Estes Kefauver (Dem.), Tennessee, of the Senate anti-trust subcommittee, to protect the public against price rigging. Kefauver recommended yesterday that corporate officials be held personally responsible for halting price fixing practices that come to their attention. He said formal legislation was being worked out.

3 More Red Officials Fired.

MOSCOW, June 19 (UPI) — Three more Communist party officials have been fired in Soviet Premier Khrushchev's drive to weed out innefficient and dishonest bureaucrats, it was announced yesterday.

IRAN GENERAL SEIZED FOR INCITING UNREST

TEHRAN, June 19 (UPI) — Former Iranian army Prosecutor-General Hosein Azmoudeh was arrested today on charges of endangering state security and independence, creating unrest and insulting the position of the Shah.

The arrest was ordered by a civil magistrate of the Ministry of Justice after Gen. Azmoudeh had been questioned at the request of Justice Minister Nourodin Alamouti. Before going to the ministry for questioning, the General told reporters: "The charges against me are ridiculous and only make me laugh."

The decision to start civil proceedings against Azmoudeh was taken after Premier Ali Amini had asked the War Ministry to prosecute him in a military court. No action was taken by the new military prosecutor.

Iranian Students Picket Own Embassy in Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 19 (UPI) —About 50 Iranian students picketed their country's embassy yesterday, protesting what they called waste and corruption in the handling of United States aid funds to Tehran.

The demonstrators carried posters complaining that Ambassador Ardeshir Zahed had confiscated the passports of 10 Iranian students who criticized Shah Reza Pahlevi's government.

The students demanded the recall of the Ambassador. The pickets from Washington, New York and Philadelphia carried a huge portrait of ousted Premier Mohammed Mossadegh and signs calling for his return to power.

Shipping Strike

ident Joseph Curran said yesterday his union of 37,000 members was willing to negotiate with the companies directly if the companies would make a "positive response to our economic proposals."

Casey said no. His organization and the Tanker Labor Service Committee are representing the companies in the talks.

Casey saw Curran's offer as an "obvious effort to divide and conquer our group."

"Mr. Curran isn't fooling anyone," he said.

Concerning the "divide-and-conquer" charge, Curran replied today: "Damn right, that's our purpose."

He expressed hope the strike will not be a long one, but added: "We're preparing for everything." Addressing an NMU membership meeting of about 500 cheering seamen, he said the strike is "in good shape. The morale of the men is high."

Meanwhile, federal mediators arranged two joint meetings between labor and management.

1000 Vessels Involved.

Altogether, 85,000 crewmen, seven unions and almost 1000 passenger, freight and oil vessels are involved in the dispute. Many ships are at sea and will not be hit by the strike until they reach a United States port.

The first major passenger liners that may be affected are the Constitution and the United States, scheduled to arrive in New York Wednesday.

The Board of Trade in New York sent a telegram to President Kennedy, urging him to invoke the Taft-Hartley Act and get an 80-day injunction against the strikers.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, who had been here since before the strike began, returned to Washington during the weekend with a "no progress" report to the President.

In addition to the NMU, unions involved in the walkout are the Seafarers' International; Masters, Mates & Pilots; Marine Engineers, a pursers union and two radio operations unions.

Train Hits Rowboat.

MERIDEN, Conn., June 19 (UPI)—A New Haven Railroad passenger train collided head on with a rowboat last night. No one was injured. Police blamed the accident on pranksters who "docked" the boat on the New Haven tracks.

FLOODS, DROUTH AGAIN THREATEN RED CHINA CROPS

TOKYO, June 19 (AP)—Communist China appears to be facing new crop-killing floods and drouths following last year's natural calamities.

The official New China news agency reported yesterday that heavy rains and storms in Chinese provinces south of the Yangtze river the first two weeks in June affected 500,422 acres of farmland.

Hundreds of thousands of Chinese are laboring on water-soaked dikes along big rivers. Flood waters interrupted railway transportation in some sections, it said.

In March, the agency reported rainfall was scarce and drouth threatened in Northern China. In April and May, it reported the country was suffering from both drouth and floods again. Now the northward-moving rain belt is around the Yangtze and Huaiho river basin in east-central China.

ROBERT KENNEDY DEFENDS AID TO FREEDOM RIDERS

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP) —Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy told sharply critical Southern Senators today he ordered United States marshals into Alabama to protect the Freedom Riders only after local enforcement had broken down.

Replying to questions by Senators Allen J. Ellender (Dem.), Louisiana, and John L. McClellan (Dem.), Arkansas, about the Freedom Riders, Kennedy testified: "Whether you like them or not, they had a right to travel, and when the law broke down, I believe that anybody on this committee would have done exactly what I did."

Kennedy was testifying before a Senate appropriations subcommittee in support of a $294,239,900 apropriation for the Department of Justice.

He said it cost the government $225,000 to send several hundred specially deputized marshals to Alabama after the Freedom Riders and a Justice Department official were beaten by a mob in Montgomery.

Already On Payroll.

Kennedy said all the deputized marshals were already on the Government payroll and that the cost of sending them into Alabama embraced such items as travel allowances and "overtime pay."

"Who gets overtime in Government?" McClellan asked. "I don't. Do you?"

"No, and you didn't give it to me," Kennedy said, referring to his former service as chief counsel for the McClellan Rackets Investigating Committee.

At one point, Kennedy said he was unaware personally in advance that the Freedom Riders were going into the South to test integration in the area, although he understood later some persons in the Justice Department were told.

"I'm not there to make the law," Kennedy said. "We are there to enforce the law."

Says Aim Is To Provoke.

McClellan said the Freedom Riders' aim is to "provoke, irritate and agitate," and that if Kennedy would get them out of the South he would not need any marshals.

"You don't think the attorney general is responsible for sending the Freedom Riders into the South, do you?" Senator Henry C. Dworshak, (Rep.), Idaho, asked McClellan.

McClellan replied in the negative, but added: "He's not responsible for a mob, perhaps, but some times you have to stop them (the riders) at the source."

Ellender said the Freedom Riders were looking for trouble by "advertising in advance exactly what they were going to do."

"It strikes me they were deserving of their reception and got exactly what was to be expected."

Kennedy said he would have a tough time reaching a decision that the issue "be decided on the streets" and by the beating of persons.

POLISH PAPER CRITICIZES CARDINAL'S ARMS VIEWS

WARSAW, June 19 (AP) — The newspaper Zycie Warszawy today accused Cardinal Stefan Wyszynski of "protesting against voices that warn nations against the danger of atomic extermination."

The newspaper accused the leader of Communist Poland's Roman Catholics of "protesting against meetings of statesmen," such as the recent meeting of President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev. Zycie Warszawy based its accusations on a sermon delivered by Cardinal Wyszynski June 9.

PROTESTANT PAPER ASSERTS P.O.A.U. IS ANTI-CATHOLIC

NEW YORK, June 19 (AP)—An influential Christian journal yesterday accused Protestants and Other Americans United for the Separation of Church and State of "consistent anti-Catholicism."

Christianity and Crisis, a weekly edited by leading Protestant theologians, said in an editorial that the agency, known as P.O.A.U., has failed to "stick to the issue" of defending church-state separation.

The organization "insists on judging Catholicism by its worst examples," uses "inflammatory language" and constantly identifies "its own sectarian position as the 'American' position," the editorial said.

The weekly also reprinted two articles from a Methodist publication, Christian Advocate, one of them by an Indiana Methodist official, Robert L. Gildea, criticizing P.O.A.U., and another by C. Stanley Lowell, associate P.O.A.U. director, defending it.

BEHIND THE SCENES OF YOUR TELEPHONE SERVICE

An interview with Fred B. Hunt, Southwestern Bell Vice President and General Manager for Missouri

BY DON DAVIS, TELEPHONE NEWS WRITER

Here today: A wide range of convenient communications services to fit any need

"Not too many years ago," says Fred B. Hunt, who is in charge of Southwestern Bell's Missouri operations, "most people probably thought of telephone service as a single black instrument.

"But nowadays it's increasingly common for people to have several phones in color in their homes. And over the years the available communications services have grown from a rather small number until now it takes a whole catalogue to list them all."

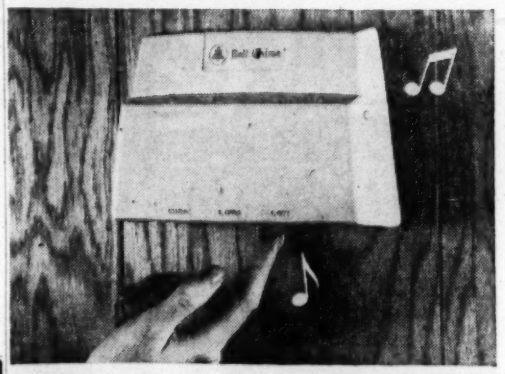
From all of the services mentioned by Mr. Hunt during an interview in his office, I've selected five to picture here, because they vividly illustrate his point that a wide variety of interesting and exciting services awaits telephone customers today.

"These instruments and services—and the technical advances required to make them work—obviously don't just happen," Mr. Hunt said. "The telephone company has a constant research program to make them happen."

As a result of this continuing search for new developments, telephone service grows better year after year . . . and brings more convenience and pleasure into our lives.

DRIVE-UP PHONE gives you roadside convenience, ends the bother of climbing in and out of your car to make a call. Want to call ahead? Late for an important appointment? Just pull off the road and make your telephone call.

HOME INTERPHONE is a complete residential communications system, even lets you answer the door by phone. With the Home Interphone, you also can phone from room to room, call the family to dinner, listen to the baby in another room.



NEW BELL CHIME announces calls for all your phones in one of three ways: with a pleasant musical tone, a loud regular ring, or a soft regular ring. Bell Chime is available in velvety gold or soft ivory.

CALL DIRECTOR phone is ideal for businessmen, secretaries. You can phone people in your plant or office by pushing buttons, hold conference calls over an intercom, add another person to an outside call. A secretary can answer calls on as many as 29 lines.

CASTRO TO BEGIN DRIVE TO REDUCE CUBAN ILLITERACY

MIAMI, Fla., June 19 (UPI)—Fidel Castro said today that more than 100,000 Cubans will be "mobilized" to teach a million Cuban illiterates to read and write before the end of the year.

His broadcast address to 3800 former illiterates was monitored here.

The two hours and twenty minute speech was enlivened by an exchange with Manuela Cruz Sentamanat, a former slave, who claimed she was 106 years old.

After being introduced, she said "the only one who has raised this country up has been Fidel Castro."

"Don't talk about me, you'll make me blush," he rejoined.

LEBANON, Tenn., June 19 (AP) — Highway Patrolman Charles Douglas rounded a corner yesterday and fell out of his squad car, suffering cuts and bruises.

G.O.P. ATTACKS KENNEDY'S VISIT TO KHRUSHCHEV

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP) —The Republican National Committee said today the "fatuity and danger of one-man, secret diplomacy" was never better revealed than at the 1943 Cairo and Tehran conferences unless it was at Vienna recently.

The June 3-4 Vienna conference between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev, the committee said, gave Marshal Stalin's successor "a chance to open a new drive to obtain effective control of Berlin."

The G.O.P. attack was the third in a series of criticisms by the committee of events disclosed in the official papers of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt's World War II conferences in Cairo and Tehran.

The committee in its publication, Battle Line, which goes to party workers for campaign purposes, said Roosevelt "shocked even the dictator of the Soviet Union with his proposals" at Tehran calling for "a Soviet-type India."

Undercut Churchill.

"The Democratic President not only undercut Churchill on India, then a British dominion, and misread the true future of India under Nehru," the committee said, "but President Roosevelt also volunteered secretly to Stalin that the French, fighting again at his side, should give up Indochina."

The committee added:

"President Kennedy currently is having negotiations carried on at Geneva on free Laos, once a part of Indochina, and the fear is that he will effectively turn it over to the Communists, perhaps through a coalition government the Reds will dominate."

The statement came after a weekend which saw Republicans fire a volley of criticism against Mr. Kennedy's handling of foreign policy.

Senator Kenneth B. Keating (Rep.), New York, said responsible officials of the Democratic administration are getting a runaround from staff members and advisers to the President.

Questions By Keating.

"One begins to wonder who is co-ordinating the co-ordinators," Keating said in a television show taped for weekend release in New York. He added:

"Ahe we really developing the quiet, effective, well-organized diplomacy that Secretary of State Rusk promised? Or are we going to have decisions, like the Cuban landing decision, made without the knowledge, much less advice, of key personnel in the State Department and other agencies?"

Senator Jacob K. Javits of New York in another television show taped for weekend release in his home state, said he thought the reverses in Cuba and Laos have rocked the Administration and as a result it is on trial before the public.

Senator George D. Aiken (Rep.) Vermont, in a taped radio interview, said, "I wouldn't charge the Cuban fiasco up against either party." He noted that former President Eisenhower had a part in planning the ill-fated invasion and "I wouldn't think that it is a matter that should be brought into partisan conflict."

Aiken thus set himself at odds with the position taken by the new Republican national chairman, Representative William E. Miller of New York, who has severely criticised Mr. Kennedy's role in the Cuban affairs.

Atlanta Has Record Low.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 19 (AP) — A wave of cold air that has blanketed the South for the last week brought Atlanta a record low today as the thermometer stood at 57 degrees. That was the coldest June 19 since 1900.

GEORGE H. BENDER DIES, EX-SENATOR

CLEVELAND, June 19 (AP)—Former United States Senator George H. Bender died at his home in suburban Chagrin Falls today. He was 64 years old. Death was attributed to a coronary thrombosis.

Mr. Bender was a strong supporter of the late Senator Robert A. Taft, a fellow Ohioan, and backed him in his unsuccessful bid for the G.O.P. presidential nomination at the 1952 convention.

Mr. Bender was seated in the Senate in 1954, to fill out two years of the unexpired term when Taft died. By a narrow margin, he had beaten former Senator Thomas A. Burke for the unexpired term. Mr. Bender was beaten in 1956 by Frank J. Lausche, then Governor of Ohio, who is still serving in the Senate. Mr. Bender served seven terms as United States Representative from Ohio. He was defeated just once in eight campaigns for a seat in the House.

After being defeated by Lausche, Mr. Bender became a special assistant to Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton in 1957 and was assigned to the promotion of tourism in Alaska and the Virgin Islands. In 1958, he resigned his interior post to re-enter Republican politics in Cleveland and accept the post of chairman of a three-man commission appointed by James R. Hoffa, Teamsters Union president, to "clean house" in the 1,500,000-member union.

His fee was announced as $250 for each day he worked. It was estimated he received $60,000 in fees and expenses, but Mr. Bender later said he took a 50 per cent cut and had given most of his fee to charity.

The cleanup committee was denounced by the Senate rackets subcommittee and by the court-appointed Teamsters' monitors as a Hoffa whitewash group. Mr. Bender denied the charge.

Funeral services will be Wednesday afternoon in Chagrin Falls.

STOMACH TENSION

to keep acid stomach soothed for hours

N.Y., N.Y. (Special). Medical science knows that today, millions suffer from Stomach Tension...a distress caused by today's hectic pace of living.

Stomach Tension pours wave after wave of burning acid onto delicate stomach tissues. But ordinary antacids merely relieve the first wave of acid ... then leave the stomach open to further attack. An antacid was needed that could give prolonged soothing relief...the same amazing relief that doctors knew a warm glass of milk gave. The answer came when physicians discovered a Glycine compound—a medication that soothed a burning acid stomach even better than a warm glass of milk. This compound gave faster relief than ordinary antacids, and actually worked to soothe the stomach for hours. This most effective compound is named Amitone.

If you have Stomach Tension and ordinary antacids don't give the relief you want, get Amitone.

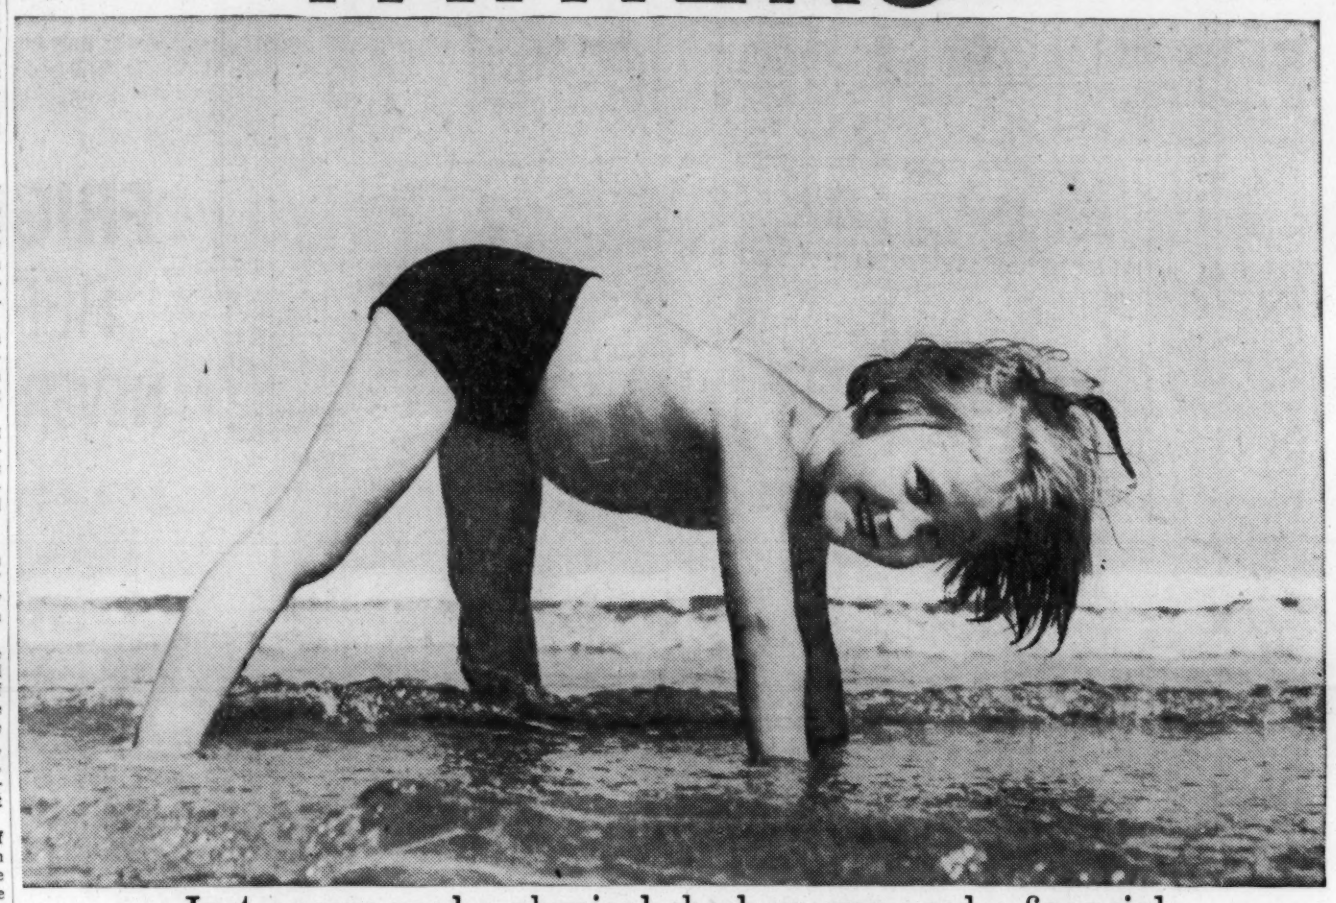
FATHERS:



Just as you need a physical check-up, you need a financial check-up...there is no obligation—except to those you love!

FAMILY SECURITY CHECK-UP

Every year, millions of fathers have health check-ups. Yet, millions of fathers don't check up on their family's financial health.

Metropolitan's Family Security Check-Up is a service which lets you do just that. It is a service which can bring you new information and correct mistakes.

What you could lose without one

Our experience with millions of families shows there are mistakes, oversights, gaps in the average man's financial security program. Too much of it is haphazard. Too much of it is left to chance. It lacks a plan, or too often it simply falls behind the times. For example—

You can unintentionally "disinherit" a child, in effect, if you have overlooked naming him among your beneficiaries.

Social Security benefits for your wife and your children may not dovetail efficiently with your pension or insurance programs.

As much as 20% more actual cash can be provided, depending upon the mode of payment selected.

A guaranteed income—until your youngest child is grown up—can be provided even if you are a man with a moderate income.

Times change; many changes can affect your plans. Changes in income, occupation, in children's ages, in the cost of living—all these mean that a father should have a financial check-up regularly. And he should also make sure he has taken advantage of the most modern insurance provisions and benefits.

More than an interview—a service

Metropolitan, the company you look to for authoritative information on physical health, offers a way to check up on your family's financial health.

You'll see, at the right, all the steps you go through to satisfy yourself that the provisions you have made for your family will do what you intend.

Metropolitan representatives have been trained in Metropolitan's own schools and are qualified by solid experience to bring you this service. They are equipped with businesslike charts and tables that show you exactly where you stand.

Whether you need insurance or not, this service makes sense. Remember, Metropolitan is as local as Main Street . . . as close as your phone. Call your Metropolitan man today.

There is no obligation—except to those you love.

Family Security Check-Up

WHAT IT IS AND WHAT IT DOES FOR YOU

With the help of your Metropolitan man—

1. You check the facts: your Social Security, your home, your life insurance, your pension plan, your savings and other assets. You may be surprised to learn how much you're worth.

2. You weigh your responsibilities: mortgage or rent payments, education, retirement, accident and sickness emergencies; how much it would cost your family to live without you.

3. You learn where you stand. You determine your weak and strong points . . . whether the provisions you have made for your family will do what you intend. You get the facts in front of you.

4. You plan for the future. Based on these facts, you decide what action, if any, may be needed to give you a family security plan, tailor-made to your own needs and ambitions—one which makes good sense for you.

SHARP LOSSES IN STOCKS CUT SOME AT CLOSE

NEW YORK, June 19 (AP)—The stock market closed lower in active trading today after a late recovery cut sharp losses. Trading was active.

Key stocks took some sharp losses but the overall market was above its bottom for the day.

The list was slightly lower at the start and moved sharply lower in slow dealings as the session moved on. Most important stock groups showed strings of minus signs and by mid afternoon these added up to one of the worst losses of 1861.

A technical rebund in final dealings trmmed many declies and brought some plus signs, Merck adding more than 2 while Zenith, Liggett & Myers and Woolworth were fractionally higher.

Texas instruments, hit hard along with some other electronics, was off 5 points or so.

Volume for the day was estimated at 3.9 million shares compared with 3.38 million Friday.

Last week's sharp loss, the worst weekly setback in 15 months, bred considerable caution and the business news background was mixed.

Steels, chemicals, autos, rails, aircrafts, electronics, oils, electronics and electrical equipments lost ground generally.

On the American Board.

American stock exchange late afternoon prices declined in moderate trading. Lafayette Radio was well down over 2 and Mesabi Iron about 2 points. Cenco Instruments dropped more than 4. Off a point or more were Arkansas Louisiana Gas, Audio Devices, Technicolor, Dynamics Corp. of America and Occidental Petroleum.

LONDON STOCK MARKET INDEX SLUMPS 8.4 POINTS

LONDON, June 19 (AP)—The Financial Times daily index of London stocks today was 322.6, off 8.4.

NATIONAL STEEL OUTPUT DIPS THIRD WEEK IN ROW

NEW YORK, June 19 (AP)—National steel production dipped the third time in a row last week, registering a 2.8 per cent decline—the largest since it reversed direction.

Still, output held at a healthy 1,985,000 tons, the American Iron and Steel Institute reported. A summertime slump is customary in the industry.

SALES GREATER, NET LOWER

NEW YORK, June 19 (AP) — Despite a sharp upturn in sales, Collins Radio Co. today reported profits in the nine months ended April 30 fell to less than one half those of the comparable preceding period.

The company had net income of $2,700,117 or $1.22 a share on sales of $164,145,046 as against $5,901,605 or $2.85 a share on volume of $138,991,830 in the earlier period.

SHARP LOSSES IN MOST SECTIONS OF LONDON BOARD

LONDON, June 19 (AP)—The stock exchange fell sharply in most sections today under the depressing influence of adverse British trade figures, international pressure on the pound sterling and new financial moves by South Africa.

British government bonds were marked down, industrials lost ground on a broad front, and South Africa gold mining issues were hit by selling caused by South African restrictions on the outflow of capital.

Oils were dull. Coppers also declined.

MAY BUSINESS FAILURES 2ND LARGEST SINCE WAR II

NEW YORK, June 19 (AP)—Business failures in May rose seven per cent over April to 1545, the second largest monthly toll since World War II, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported.

Greater causalties among moderate-sized concerns and in wholesaling boosted the total close to the record of 1610 set this March and to level 21 per cent above May 1960. Dollar libilities of $80,500,000 were down 6.5 per cent from April but up 10 per cent over May 1960.

MORTGAGE RATES LOWERED

DES MOINES, June 19 (AP)—The Federal Home Loan Bank of Des Moines announced Friday a reduction in interest rates on home mortgage loans to 3¼ per cent, effective July 1. The current rate is 3½ per cent.

The bank does not lend to the public but extends credit to its 292 member savings and loan associations in Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, North and South Dakota.

PLAN 2-FOR-1 STOCK SPLIT

NEW YORK, June 19 (AP)—Shulton, Inc., toiletries manufacturer, proposed a 2 for 1 split in class A and class B common stock.

The company's board decided to place the question before shareholders at a special meeting July 17.

Shulton went public in 1956. Stock dividends of four per cent in 1959 and of two per cent in 1960 were declared to supplement quarterly cash payments.

ODD LOT TRANSACTIONS

NEW YORK, June 19 (AP)—The New York Stock Exchange reported today these odd lot transactions by principal dealers for June 16: Purchases of 353,103 shares; sales of 358,669 shares including 3501 shares sold short.

Dun & Bradstreet's Index

NEW YORK, June 19 (UPI)—Dun & Bradstreet's daily weighted price index of 30 basic commodities, compiled for United Press International (1930-32 average equals 100): Monday (later): Fri. 268.44; week ago 269.07; month ago 268.22; year ago 271.84; high 1961 (March 21) 271.72; low 1961 (Jan. 3) 265.54.

BIG CORPORATIONS' PROFITS CUT 30 PCT.

By JOSEPH R. SLEVIN
Herald Tribune News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 19—The recession chopped 30 per cent from the profits of big corporations during the first quarter.

A new Federal Reserve Board survey reveals that the after-tax earnings of 180 of the country's largest manufacturing companies skidded to $1,429,000,000 in the first quarter from $2,063,000,000 in the opening three months of 1960. The figures will be published later this month in the "Federal Reserve Bulletin."

An 8.2 per cent slump in sales caused part of the damage. A sharp drop in profit margins caused the rest.

The durable goods industries were the hardest hit by the recession and their profits suffered the most.

The Federal Reserve Board found that the sales of 101 of the largest durable goods producers fell 15.8 per cent while their after-tax profits plummeted 47 per cent.

The weakest performance was turned in by the metals companies—a group that includes the steel firms. Their profits fell 61 per cent. Automobile earnings dropped 57.2 per cent while machinery profits slipped 9.6 per cent.

The food and the petroleum refining companies were the only two manufacturing groups that earned more money in the first quarter on this year than in the January-March period of 1960. Food profits went up 5.6 per cent while petroleum earnings rose 12.6 per cent.

Wholesale Commodity Prices Index Shows Slight Decline

Drops to 118.8 Per Cent From 119.9 in February as Result of Reduction in Farm Products Prices.

By William H. Kester
Post-Dispatch Business Correspondent.

The average of wholesale commodity prices has declined slightly in recent months as a result of reductions in prices of farm products and foods that more than offset slight increases of industrial raw materials.

The index of wholesale prices this month is 118.8 per cent of the 1947-49 average, compared with a high of 119.9 in February, the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics reports. Farm products prices averaged more than 3 per cent less than in February and processed foods prices in wholesale markets declined about 3 per cent. Other prices have averaged about the same so far this year.

W. H. Kester

The decline in prices of farm products resulted primarily from large supplies or the expectation of increased output. Meat prices, for example, early this month were about 7 per cent less than in February, reflecting the large supplies coming on the market. Poultry prices have been especially weak in the face of rising output.

Prices of some industrial products also were weak. Quotations have been trimmed recently on some finished steel products as the mills competed for business. The large volume products, however, have not been affected so far.

Producers' and consumers' finished goods prices declined slightly in the first five months of the year, the Government reported. The decline came in the face of rising demand from both manufacturers and consumers.

Industrial raw materials were about the only commodities to show any price strength so far this year. These items are usually cyclically sensitive, and prices quickly respond to changes in demand or supply conditions. Steel scrap prices have strengthened in recent weeks with the strong upturn in steel mill output.

The easiness in prices in the face of rising business activity reflects the large amount of unused capacity in most industries and increases in productivity. Output of major materials last month was about 77 per cent of capacity rates. With so much excess capacity in existence, producers hesitate to increase prices for fear of losing business to a competitor.

Profits are rising now that activity has turned up and productivity has been restored by more intensive utilization of plant capacity. Output of manufacturers has increased more than production employment so far in the business recovery.

General Contract Finance Corp. has acquired three small loan companies with offices in Mississippi and Georgia, Walter E. Burtelow, president, announced today.

The companies, which were acquired for cash, had total outstanding receivables of $379,000. They were City Loan Co., Meridian, Miss.; Tupelo Loan Brokers, Tupelo, Miss. and Allied Finance Co., Albany, Ga.

Virgil C. Zimmerman, formerly vice president of Aetna Finance Co., has been elected vice president of Securities Investment Co., a subsidiary of General Contract. He will head the company's planned expansion program.

The company expects to acquire or establish 25 finance and personal loan offices in western states in the next 18 months, Burtelow said. General Contract operates 71 offices in 40 cities and has about $79,000,000 in outstanding receivables.

Dean Witter & Co., securities dealer, has moved its office from 322 North Broadway to 422 Locust street, Mel F. Cooke, resident manager, announced today.

W. Charles Brandenburg has been appointed manager of mining sales for the electrical products division of Joy Manufacturing Co., St. Louis.

Russell W. Wheeler, secretary of Conrad, Inc., and Harold A. Conrad, president of J. F. Conrad Grocer Co., have been elected to the board of directors of Conrad, Inc.

W. E. Moll Jr., formerly sales manager of non-electrical goods for Knapp-Monarch Co., has established Moll & Associates to represent manufacturers.

Harrison F. Coerver, senior vice president of Mercantile Trust Co., has been elected a director and member of the executive committee of Mercantile-Commerce National Bank, which is affiliated with Mercantile Trust.

OVER-THE-COUNTER TRADE QUIET IN WEEK

By ALEXANDER R. HAMMER
© New York Times News Service

NEW YORK, June 19—"It was so quiet I was able to go out for lunch every day." This comment from a dealer sums up last week's activity in the over-the-counter market.

Along with the slow activity, prices of most off-board issues sagged. This was reflected in the national quotation bureau's price index of 35 industrial issues. The index closed at 124.41 on Monday, dipped on Tuesday and Wednesday, rose slightly on Thursday and ended the week at 123.67, for a net loss of 0.92 for the week.

The publishing group was one of the poorer performers. Most of these issues had sharp run-ups earlier this year but recently have shown softness. Pocket Books, Inc., lost 2½ points; Western Publishing gave up 2 points, while D. C. Heath declined about a point.

One of the biggest declines of the week occurred in the stock of the shell home builder, Jim Walter Corporation, which tumbled 6¾ points. Dealers attributed this to profit-taking.

Others Decline.

Other declines included Time, Inc., off 3 points; American Express, down 2½ points; Alside, off 3½ points, and McLouth Steel about 4 points.

Among the stronger industrial securities, Pauley Petroleum gained 3 points on good demand, while Commonwealth Oil of Puerto Rico moved ahead about 1½ points.

Dealers noted considerable activity in Cook coffee, which advanced 1 point. This was attributed to the news that Claber Distributing Company, operator of Uncle Bill's Discount Stores, will build a department store in Columbus, Ohio. Cook coffee, which operates supermarkets, has a merger pending with Claber.

The utility group was steady and actively traded. Arizona Public Service rose 1 point. Southern Union Gas, which had been behind the upward move of most utilities recently, gained 1½ points. Atlanta Gas & Light fell 2 points.

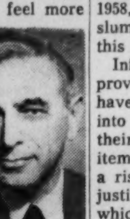
Business Outlook

1960-61 RECESSION JUST FADES AWAY

By J. A. Livingston

Remember the recession? Remember the debate over whether recovery would be fast or slow? Well, forget it.

The recovery's here—and brisk. Therefore, if you're a typical member of a typical American family, you ought to feel more like spending than you did three, six or nine months ago.



J. A. Livingston

You ought to be less worried about losing your job and more hopeful about making more money.

Short workweeks in manufacturing are becoming longer and overtime more plentiful. So these modern electronic computers ought to process more dough into pay checks.

This, in turn, bodes well for installment finance companies, banks and other suppliers of consumer credit. Delinquencies should drop, and as time goes on a renewed upturn in borrowing should take place. So far this year, installment credit—contrary to usual spring tendencies—has declined.

And Still Climbing.

The briskness of the upturn can be measured by the Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production. In January, 1960, it registered 111. Twelve months later—January this year—it was down to 102—a drop of 8 per cent.

It stayed at 102 during February and March, and then in April hopped and skipped to 105. Last month it jumped to 108. That's good going—up nearly 6 per cent in two months, and still climbing.

The broad upswing in production has already been reflected in hours worked per week in manufacturing. From a low of 38.6 in December, weekly hours have climbed to 39.6 and further increases, after the summer vacation lull, are likely.

Compacts and Cash.

One of the seeming contradictions this year has been consumer credit. Even though automobile sales rose in March and April, automobile instalment paper is down from $17,600,000,000 in January to $17,200,000,000 in April. (Perhaps the May figure will show a reversal.)

Blame the decline in part on the success of the compact car. The price is lower than the standard car, which means that the total amount borrowed per car is also lower. Moreover, about 45 per cent of cars purchased during the first four months were for cash, as against only about 40 per cent last year. On top of that, payments on old loans in January, February, and April exceeded new instalment credit granted. The last time that happened was in the recession of 1958, when automobile sales slumped far worse than during this recession.

Inference: Families are in improved financial shape. They have a greater capacity to go into debt or to spend more of their current income on cash items. This primes the pump for a rise in retail sales, which will justify increased inventories, which, in turn, will justify a continued climb in production.

By the year end, the total output of goods and services, which ran at an annual rate of $500,000,000,000 in the first quarter, should be up to at least $530,000,000,000. That's the estimate of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. That's a solid gain, and one of the principal reasons for recent bullishness in Wall Street.

Profits Versus GNP.

As business goes, so go profits. That's an old Wall Street adage. But it is not a foolproof sequence. The value of total output of goods and services (gross national product) has advanced from 1955 to date, but profits as a proportion have actually declined, as you can see:

Year	GNP (billions)	Profits (billions)	Profits as % of GNP
1955	$397.5	$23.0	5.8%
1956	419.2	23.5	5.6
1957	442.8	22.3	5.0
1958	444.2	19.1	4.3
1959	482.1	23.8	4.9
1960	$503.2	$22.8	4.5%

Undoubtedly, profits will rise this year even as in 1959. Recessions prompt business men to re-examine operations, eliminate unnecessary costs, and increase efficiency.

Assuming a GNP for 1961 as a whole of $515 to $520 billion, profits could reach $24 billion and exceed the 1959 all-time high. Some such break-through is necessary to justify present stock prices.

When industrial stocks yield as little at 2.85%, government bonds 3.85%, and corporate bonds 4.5%, and when $1 of profits sells for more than $21 on the New York Stock Exchange either stock prices must go down or profits up.

Psychology won't stand tiptoe on hope indefinitely.

SHORT COVERING IN GRAIN AFTER DROP

CHICAGO, June 19 (AP) — Short covering rallied wheat, rye and soybeans rather briskly on the Board of Trade today after a sharp early setback but the feed grains continued weak.

Soybeans recovered more than half the initial losses which ranged to more than five cents and wheat wiped out almost all its declines which ranged to major franctions.

A runup in rye sent it well ahead. The support was credited to reports of hot and dry weather in western Canada which boosted the markets at Winnipeg and Minneapolis.

Heavy cash corn receipts weakened that grain.

BOND PRICES TURN DOWN FOLLOWING STEADY PERIOD

NEW YORK, June 19 (AP) — Bond prices turned lower late today after a steady opening.

Over-the-counter dealers in United States Government securities quoted long bonds unchanged to 4-32 lower and intermediates mostly unchanged, although there were scattered losses of 2-32. The market was extremely quiet.

All sections of the corporate market appeared headed downward in trading on the New York Stock Exchange. Utilities and top grade investment issues led the way. There were comparatively few movements amounting to over a point, outside the convertible section.

Volume was running a bit behind Friday's pace.

Southern Italy 5½s at 99⅛ and Rhodesiax & Nyasaland 5¾s at 66¾ were both off a fraction.

New financing this week will taper off a bit from last week's unusually active schedule but will remain fairly busy.

Less than a dozen sizable issues are due, about evenly divided among tax exempts and corporates.

since the back strain was revealed, however.

He and Mrs. Kennedy and their two children spent the weekend at their country estate near Middleburg, Va.

When he returned by helicopter this morning, reporters noticed that he appeared to be walking with greater east, although he was still using crutches. He was putting some weight on both feet, rather than favoring his left foot.

Over the weekend, however, reporters had noted that Mr. Kennedy was still walking with his left foot held off the ground. Salinger said again today that there was no significance to this. He said it is merely the way Mr. Kennedy prefers to walk when using crutches.

Salinger told reporters that the decision to cancel tonight's appearance at the press dinner was made by both the President and his personal physician, Dr. Janet Travell.

He added that the doctor continues to be satisfied with Mr. Kennedy's progress. Dr. Travell, he said, went to Middleburg on Saturday to give the president another ultrasound treatment, and he will receive another such treatment today.

This will determine whether the President receives any more ultrasound treatments, Salinger explained. The procedure employs sound waves to relax the cramped muscles in the strained lower part of the back.

Salinger did not specify exactly when Mr. Kennedy expects to be able to discard his crutches, beyond saying he hoped to abandon them some time this week. He said there had been no new full-scale medical examination of the President, and no more specialists had been called in.

The President sat in a new short-backed, white leather swivel chair at his desk today, apparently to ease his back. He had been using a high-backed, black leather swivel chair.

At his briefing this morning, Salinger was asked by the Post-Dispatch whether he would continue his ban on press conferences with the President's physician if Mr. Kennedy suffered a serious illness.

The press secretary replied that he would decide that on the basis of the situation and the circumstances. Regarding such a hypothetical situation, he added: "We would continue as we have done in this case to make every bit of information available."

Salinger told the Post-Dispatch in an interview last week that he would continue to prohibit press conferences with Dr. Travell even if the President suffered a serious illness, such as the three that struck former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

By United Press International.

Mr. Kennedy did not attend church in Middleburg yesterday. One factor may have been the four stone steps which must be climbed to enter the Middleburg Community Center, where Catholic masses of St. John's parish are held.

For safety reasons, Mr. Kennedy has avoided steps since he began using crutches 10 days ago to ease pressure on his strained lower back.

Mrs. Kennedy went alone to mass. She realized just before the service that she had forgotten to bring her purse. With a bit of embarrassment she borrowed a couple of bills from an usher for the church collection.

spite hundreds of millions of dollars worth of American aid supplied it and a mission of American officers to spur it on.

Souvanna, who claims to be rightful premier of Laos, is a popular political figure at home and is considered likeliest to head up a coalition government.

Single Delegation.

Formation of a national union regime would enable Laos to send a single delegation to the Geneva conference, which is bogged down by Communist refusal to expand the powers of the International Control Commission in Laos so that it can check on continuing Pathet Lao attacks in violation of the cease-fire.

A coalition government presumably would result in a quick end to military activity, and the Geneva conference then could get on with its main task—creation of procedures to keep Laos peaceful, independent and neutral.

General debate on the Laotian problem resumed in the 14-nation conference at Geneva, 140 miles southwest of Zurich.

Burma appealed to the conference to make greater use of its truce teams to end sporadic fighting.

Canadian Foreign Secretary Howard Green urged the delegates to get to work on the details of a settlement. He proposed that the conference go into restricted sessions "where free discussion rather than set speeches would be the rule."

Green again pressed for greater authority for the control commission and complained the Pathet Lao refused the commission permission to visit Padong, the government stronghold captured by the rebels June 7.

FIRE HOSES ROUT RIOTING RACE FANS

ELKHART LAKE, Wis., June 19 (AP)—A mob of youths shouting, "This is better than Fort Lauderdale," fought police and smashed store windows Saturday night in a riotous outbreak capping a day of sports car racing.

Two deputy sheriffs were injured and three youths were arrested before order was restored by streams of water from high-pressure hoses.

Police cracked down last night in a move to prevent a new outbreak. Two youths were taken into custody for drinking on the streets, making a total of five arrested.

Riot Organized.

"From all appearances, the riot was organized," Sheriff Henry E. Hill said. "We've talked with many persons and have learned that quite a few in the gang were in Fort Lauderdale (Fla). when college students rioted there earlier this year."

Sweatshirts enscribed with the names of colleges throughout the country were worn by the gangs fighting police.

About 6000 persons swarmed into the square of this community of 587 population, 40 miles north of Milwaukee, after the opening races of the weekend sprints at nearby Road America. The races attracted a crowd of 15,000.

Lasted an Hour.

State highway police, sheriff's deputies, volunteer firemen and civil defense units joined in helping to put down the riot which lasted more than an hour.

"We could have arrested a hundred Saturday night," said Deputy Police Chief John Cain, "but we couldn't handle them. We picked up that many but had to let them go because we don't have a jail here."

Road America is a four-mile paved racing course which winds through the countryside. There have been few instances of rowdyism after races in past years.

A variation of the traditional Caesar Salad combines iceberg lettuce, romaine and endive with crisp bits of bacon, croutons and a tart raw egg dressing. Proper home care of salad greens, as outlined in story, is essential for a superbly crisp salad.

Salads Coax Flagging Appetites

New main-dish salads may be stars of the summer season. This Chicken-Fruit Salad Supreme is a satisfying meal that is easy to prepare. Story also includes recipes for main-dish salads made with fish, meat and macaroni.

By DOROTHY BRAINERD
Post-Dispatch Food Editor.

SUMMER WITHOUT SALADS? Unthinkable. Fresh as the flowers in the garden, and just as pretty when thoughtfully arranged, salads are a sure way to coax warm weather appetites and make certain that menus provide plenty of fruits and vegetables. Time was when salads were frothy fare — frilly, fussy, usually served at a ladies' luncheon. They have come a long way since then; now they may well be the main dish of a meal hearty enough to satisfy the men of the family.

This increased interest in salads is reflected by the fact that Americans are eating twice as much lettuce per person as they did about 35 years ago. Today lettuce, the most widely used salad green, is this country's Number Two vegetable, its consumption topped only by that of the potato.

Since lettuce is the base of most salads, its selection and care deserve serious consideration.

No doubt you know the lettuce types by sight, but can you name your favorites when you send someone else to the store to do your shopping?

Iceberg (sometimes called crisphead) is the most familiar. It is a big, firm head with crisp leaves.

Boston (or butterhead) is smaller, softer and smoother than iceberg. Its leaves are tender rather than crisp. The outer leaves are light green, the inner leaves a light yellow.

Romaine is a long-headed lettuce with stiff leaves, somewhat coarse and sweet. Color ranges from a dark green in the outer leaves to a greenish white nearer the center.

Leaf lettuce has a crisp texture. It doesn't head; the loose leaves simply grow from the stalk.

Bibb lettuce is the darling of the epicure. It is one of the newer types of lettuce, outstanding for its flavor and tenderness. The small open head is about four to six inches in diameter; the little rounded leaves are a deep green on the outside, fading in intensity nearer the core.

It is most important to refrigerate lettuce promptly after bringing it home from the store. Wash it gently in cold running water before refrigerating. This accomplishes a dual purpose. The lettuce is ready for use, and washing improves crispness during refrigeration. Much of the lettuce on the market today has been vacuum-cooled, a process that removes the field heat and helps to keep it fresh during transportation. However, vacuum cooling may remove some of the original moisture, which the washing restores.

After washing, drain the lettuce well or pat it dry with a soft towel to remove excess moisture. (Some moisture during storage is fine, but too much may shorten storage life). Store lettuce in a covered container such as a foil wrap, a film bag or a vegetable dehydrator. Also, pamper it a bit by storing it away from other fruits and vegetables. Reason for this prima donna treatment is that research has shown the other fruits and vegetables give off a gas which may cause those unattractive russet spots on lettuce.

Another good rule to remember is that all greens should be as dry and cold as possible when they go into the salad bowl. (The dressing will cling better to dry leaves.)

If the greens are important to a salad, the dressing is equally so. It should underscore the delicate flavor of the fruits or vegetables, should be carefully chosen for the particular type of salad, and should be used with discretion. A salad, like a woman, should never be overdressed. Too much dressing will make the delicate leaves soggy.

There are summer salads made with fruits, vegetables, meats, fish, macaroni; salads molded and salads tossed. There also are salads which are combinations of various types of greens and seasonings, such as these three:

Summer Salad Bowl.

One teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon powdered mustard.
One-half teaspoon ground black pepper.
Three-fourths teaspoon tarragon leaves.
Two teaspoons fresh lemon juice.
Two teaspoons cider vinegar.
One-third cup salad oil.
One small clove garlic, mashed.
One-half medium head Boston lettuce.
One-half medium head romaine lettuce.
One-half medium head endive.
One small bunch watercress.
One cup fresh onion rings.

Combine seasonings, lemon juice, vinegar, oil and garlic. Beat well with a rotary beater. Set aside to use later.

Wash salad greens, drain and dry well. Tear into bite-size pieces and place in a salad bowl along with onion rings. Toss well, being sure to coat greens with dressing.

Yield: Six to eight servings.

Suggested Menu for Patio Supper: Jellied Madrilene; Barbecued Hamburgers; Fresh Sweet Corn; Summer Salad Bowl; Strawberry Pie; Beverage.

Boston Lettuce and Chicory Salad.

One-half medium head chicory.
One medium head Boston lettuce.
One-fourth cup chopped chives.
One teaspoon salt.
One-fourth teaspoon ground black pepper.
One-eighth teaspoon finely minced garlic.
One-half teaspoon tarragon leaves.
One-fourth cup olive or salad oil.
One tablespoon fresh lemon juice.
One tablespoon wine vinegar.
One-half cup fried whole-wheat bread cubes.
Onion rings.

Wash, drain and dry salad greens thoroughly. Tear into bite-size pieces and place in a salad bowl.

Combine chives, salt, black pepper, garlic, tarragon leaves, oil, lemon juice and vinegar. Beat well with a rotary beater.

When ready to serve, add bread cubes, dressing and onion rings to salad and toss lightly with the dressing.

Yield: Six to eight servings.

Head Lettuce and Romaine Salad.

One-half clove fresh garlic.
One-half head lettuce.
One-half head Romaine lettuce.
One hard-cooked egg, diced.
One-fourth cup (2-ounces) bleu cheese.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One-fourth teaspoon ground black pepper.
One-half teaspoon powdered mustard.
One teaspoon finely chopped onion.
One tablespoon wine vinegar.
One tablespoon fresh lemon juice.
One-third cup salad or olive oil.

Rub inside of a wooden salad bowl with garlic. Have both head lettuce and Romaine lettuce dry and cold. Tear into bite-size pieces and place in salad bowl. Strew over the top diced hard-cooked egg and crumbled cheese.

Combine salt, black pepper, mustard, onion, vinegar, lemon juice and oil. Beat with a rotary beater. Pour over salad greens and toss lightly, but well.

Yield: Six servings.

From the West, where they know fine salads and grow fine salad vegetables, comes this recipe which is a version of the famous Caesar salad.

Tossed Salad Monterey.

One small head Iceberg lettuce.
One small head romaine.
One small head endive.
Six slices bacon.
Two tablespoons chopped parsley.
One cup garlic-flavored croutons.

Dressing:

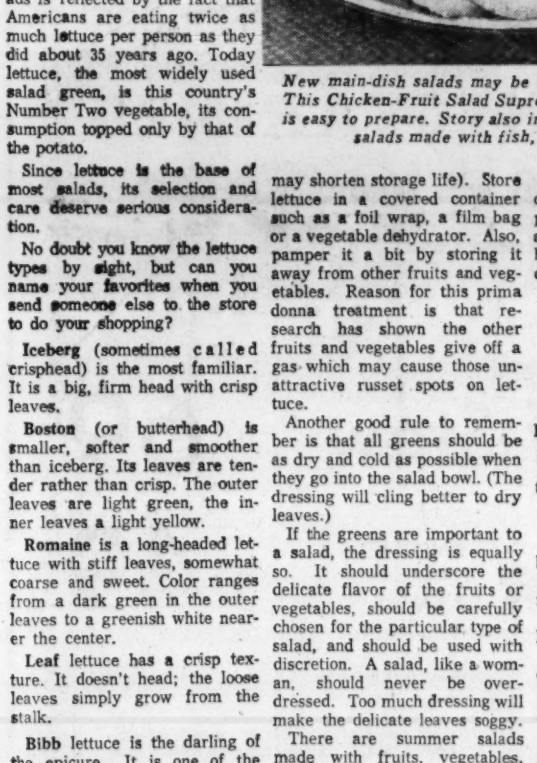
One teaspoon salt.
One fourth teaspon ground pepper.
Three tablespoons wine vinegar.
One-half teaspoon sugar.
One raw egg.
One-half teaspoon prepared mustard.
One teaspoon lemon juice.
One-half cup salad oil.

Wash greens, drain thoroughly and keep well chilled.

Fry bacon until crisp; drain and crumble into bite-size pieces.

Combine dressing ingredients in screw-top pint jar; shake thoroughly. Tear the greens into salad bowl, sprinkle with parsley, bacon and croutons and toss well with dressing.

Yield: Eight to ten servings.



The basic theme of a Waldorf Salad is elaborated upon by the addition of chunks of tuna, sliced grapes, pineapple tidbits; dressing is a combination of dairy sour cream and lemon juice.

HEARTIER SALADS are ideal for the main dish on a warm summer's day. Here are examples of a number of types made with chicken, fish, meat and macaroni.

Chicken-Fruit Salad Supreme.

One and one-half cups cranberry sauce.
One cup each, orange and grapefruit sections.
One cup pineapple chunks.
One avocado, cut in thin, half rounds.
French dressing.
One envelope unflavored gelatine.
One-fourth cup cold water.
One-half cup hot chicken broth.
One-half cup mayonnaise.
One-half cup diced celery.
One-half cup green seedless grapes.
Two cups cut-up, cooked chicken.
Monosodium glutamate, salt, pepper, lemon juice to taste.
One-half cup toasted, slivered almonds.

Chill cranberry sauce; add tart French dressing to other fruits, let marinate in refrigerator until ready to use. Soften gelatine in cold water, dissolve in hot broth; cool until slightly thickened. Mix mayonnaise, celery, grapes, chicken and seasonings, stir in gelatine.

Turn mixture into fancy mold and chill until firm. To serve, begin at outside edge of platter with a ring of cranberry sauce, arrange other drained fruit in concentric circles toward center of dish. Unmold chicken salad in center and scatter with almonds. Serve with extra dressing.

Yield: Six to eight servings.

To remember a successful salad is to remember a successful dinner. A well-made tossed green salad brings to the table not only pleasing color, flavor and texture but a treasure of vitamins, minerals and health-giving nutrients.

Shrimp Smorgasbord Salad.

Two cups cooked shrimp (about one and one-half pounds).
One-half cup sliced celery.
One-fourth cup chopped cucumber.
One tablespoon dehydrated, minced onion.
One-fourth cup French dressing.
One-third cup salad dressing.
Seasonings to taste.
Four stuffed egg halves, quartered.
One cup cheese cubes.
Orange segments.
Salted walnuts.
Cherry tomatoes.
Greens.

Mix first seven ingredients; chill in refrigerator an hour or more.

To serve, drain off excess dressing, then heap shrimp salad in center of large serving dish or platter. Arrange other ingredients in triangular sections around shrimp center; ingredients suggested here are good in this combination, but you may use any favorite food or salad ingredient to make up the smorgasbord sections.

Outline sections with chopped parsley, slivers of pimiento or grated lemon rind. Serve separate bowls of chopped greens and herb seasoned salad dressing or mayonnaise.

Yield: Six to eight servings.

Lamb Loaf Salad.

One envelope unflavored gelatin.
One-fourth cup cold water.
One cup hot bouillon or consomme.
Three-fourths cup mayonnaise.
One-fourth cup drained pickle relish.
One small onion, minced.
One-half cup diced celery.
One cup cooked frozen peas.
One tablespoon chopped green pepper.
Two cups finely chopped cooked lamb.
One-fourth teaspoon monosodium glutamate.
One tablespoon vinegar.
Salt and pepper to taste.

Soften gelatin in cold water, dissolve in hot bouillon; chill until slightly thickened. Combine mayonnaise with relish, onion, and vegetables; blend in gelatin. Mix in lamb and seasonings, salt and pepper to taste.

Turn into a mold (two quart) or loaf pan and chill until firm. Unmold on crisp greens to serve.

Yield: eight to ten servings.

Salmon Salad, Buffet Style.

Three cans (one pound) salmon.
Two envelopes unflavored gelatine.
One-fourth cup tomato juice.

ANOTHER PEVELY FIRST

NO WAX in the milk
NO LEAK in the carton

PEVELY'S NEW PLASTIC-COATED, EASY-POUR MILK CARTON IS HERE

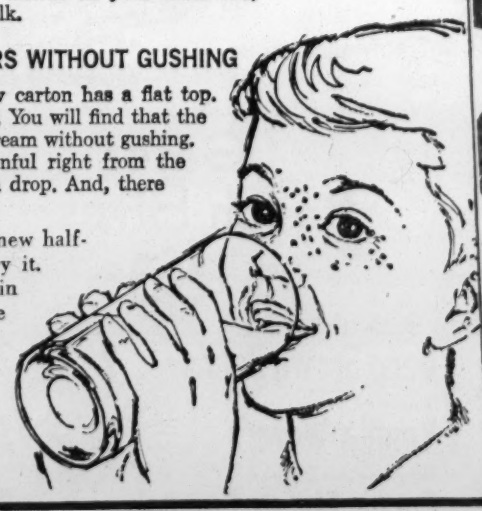
Wax and leaks—the two things you haven't liked about milk cartons—are gone in Pevely's new half-gallon containers.

Pevely's new cartons are solid, heat-sealed units with plastic coating both inside and out. These remarkable features eliminate wax and leaks. You can forget those irritating moments when milk dripped on you, or in your shopping bag, or in your refrigerator. Forget wax smears on your table and, of course, wax in your milk.

NEW FLAT TOP POURS WITHOUT GUSHING

Notice that Pevely's new carton has a flat top. It pours from the corner. You will find that the milk flows in a steady stream without gushing. You can pour a teaspoonful right from the carton without spilling a drop. And, there is no after drip.

Pevely Milk is in this new half-gallon carton now. Try it. it's the greatest advent in the milk business since pasteurization.



Here's how to open Pevely's new carton

Double Bean Salad Can Be Made Ahead

This salad can be made in advance from canned vegetables stored on the pantry shelf. Both green beans and lima beans are filled with flavor and contain a major portion of daily food requirements.

For color, toss these canned beans together lightly with a bit of pimiento and chopped olives, then add freshly chopped onion for zip and marinate for several hours.

Double Bean Salad.

One can (one pound) tiny green lima beans, drained.

One can (15½ ounces) small whole green beans, drained.

One-half cup sliced pitted ripe olives.

One-fourth cup finely chopped pimiento.

One-fourth cup finely chopped onion.

Two-thirds cup vinegar.

One-third cup salad oil.

Three-fourths cup brown sugar.

One-fourth teaspoon worcestershire sauce.

Combine lima beans, green beans, olives, pimiento and onion.

Make dressing by blending together vinegar, salad oil, brown sugar and worcestershire sauce. Combine with vegetables and marinate for several hours. Chill and serve.

Yield: six to eight servings.

Suggested Menu: Corned Beef Hash; Double Bean Salad; Buttermilk Biscuits; Assorted Pickles and Olives; Ice Cream Sundae; Iced Tea or Coffee.

Zippy Sauce For Ham Steak

Try this zippy hot buttermilk mustard sauce over grilled ham steak at your next cook-out. Slowly heat one cup buttermilk. Mix one-half teaspoon dry mustard, one teaspoon flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt. Beat into two egg yolks, slightly beaten. Blend into buttermilk; cook until sauce thickens, stirring constantly. Serve as sauce for one center slice ready-to-eat ham cut one inch thick.

To broil ham, either indoors in a broiler or outdoors over coals, brush both sides of ham steak with buttermilk and baste occasionally with buttermilk while grilling. This gives an attractive glaze to ham.

Spicy Sauce

A delightfully different accompaniment for meat and poultry is hot and spicy apple sauce. And, it is wonderfully easy to prepare. Add horseradish, cinnamon and nutmeg to taste to canned apple sauce; mix well and chill.

Deutsch Dish For Summer Meal

Deutsch cheeseburger makes a dandy summer meal-in-a-minute. Butter one thick slice pumpernickel; fork on a generous portion of canned sauerkraut; top with a slice of salami, Swiss cheese, salami, and cheddar cheese.

Heat under broiler to slightly melt the cheese. Garnish with a slice of apple and green pepper skewered on a pick to make a relish kabob. Serve with well-chilled milk.

Vegetable Treat

Serve garden-fresh green beans with butter-browned water chestnuts for a vegetable treat. Heat one-half cup sliced water chestnuts, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper and two teaspoons lemon juice in one-fourth cup melted butter until butter just begins to brown. Toss lightly with one pound cooked drained green beans. Yield: four to five servings.

Salads

One-fourth cup cold water.

Two cups mayonnaise.

One teaspoon prepared mustard.

One teaspoon grated onion.

One tablespoon mashed pimiento.

Salad greens.

Garnish.

Chill salmon in cans.

Soften gelatin in combined mayonnaise, mustard, onion, and pimiento; stir in liquid gelatin and mix well. Chill mayonnaise mixture until it thickens and retains a shape when folded with a spoon.

Drain chilled salmon, loosen and turn from can in one piece. Arrange salmon rounds on dish from which salad is to be served. Frost salmon with thickened mayonnaise and garnish. Chill several hours.

Surround with greens, garnish with lemon wedges, et cetera. To serve, cut in clices and place on greens.

Yield: 10-12 servings.

Macaroni Medley Salad.

Two cups cooked elbow macaroni.*

One-half cup sliced celery.

One-half cup sliced stuffed olives.

One tablespoon onion flakes.

One-fourth cup sweet pickle relish.

One-fourth cup drained sauerkraut, chopped.

Salt, pepper and monosodium glutamate to taste.

Three-fourths cup mayonnaise or salad dressing.

Two tablespoons Italian-style dressing.

Two hard-cooked eggs, chopped.

One cup shredded raw carrots.

One cup tiny raw spinach leaves.

Two cups broken greens.

Combine first nine ingredients and mix thoroughly; chill in refrigerator several hours.

When ready to serve, drain any excess liquid from macaroni mixture; lightly mix in chopped eggs. Toss shredded carrots, spinach leaves and greens together. Line shallow bowl with mixed greens, fill with macaroni salad. Serve with extra dressing.

Yield: eight servings.

*For a pleasant change and a more unusual salad, substitute a fancy-shape pasta for the usual macaroni. Try egg bows, shells, fusilli, ditalini — any other shape you may fancy. The flavor will be much the same, but the texture (firmness, chewiness) will vary with the pasta used.

Relish Cups

Slice large, firm green peppers through lengthwise and remove seeds. Fill with prepared mustard and pickle relish to serve as clever relish cups on your cold meat platter.

Tuna, chilled and used just as it comes from the can, is placed on watercress in the center of a salad bowl. Sliced onion, tomato wedges, cucumber, carrot curls, green pepper rings and hard-cooked eggs surround the tuna. Each guest creates his or her own tuna salad, which may be topped with either a blue cheese or a low-calorie dressing.

Menu Based On Values

By CATHERINE BRENT
Home Economist, St. Louis Food Marketing Program.

THE FOLLOWING menu is an example of the way in which "best buys" may be used in our daily meals, thus taking advantage of the opportunity to save money by means of careful marketing.

MENU OF THE WEEK

*Tuna Salad Bowl

*Blue Cheese Dressing or Low Calorie Cooked Dressing

Salt Horns

Milk

Fresh Peach Pie With Ice Cream

Tuna Salad Bowl

One can (6½ or 7 ounces) tuna-in-vegetable oil.

Watercress or lettuce.

One large sweet onion, sliced.

Two tomatoes, cut in wedges.

One-half cucumber, scored and sliced.

Two carrots, made into curls.

One green pepper, cut in rings.

One cup cooked or canned peas.

Two hard cooked eggs, sliced.

Place tuna on watercress or lettuce in center of salad bowl. Arrange all other ingredients around tuna. Serve with *Blue Cheese Dressing or Low Calorie Cooked Salad Dressing.

Yield: Four servings.

Blue Cheese Dressing.

Combine one cup bottled creamy French dressing with two ounce crumbled blue or Roquefort Cheese.

Low Calorie Cooked Salad Dressing.

One envelope unflavored gelatine.

One-half cup cold water.

One-fourth cup sugar.

One tablespoon dry mustard.

One tablespoon salt.

One-fourth teaspoon paprika.

One and one-third cups boiling water.

Two tablespoons butter or margarine.

Two eggs beaten.

One-half cup vinegar.

Soften gelatine in cold water in top of double boiler. Mix together sugar, dry mustard, salt and paprika. Add to softened gelatine with boiling water and butter.

Add small amount hot mixture to beaten eggs, stirring rapidly. Return to double boiler and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture begins to thicken.

Remove from heat; gradually stir in vinegar. Chill until slightly thickened. Beat with rotary beater until blended. Pour into jar; cover and store in refrigerator. Before serving beat with a rotary beater.

Yield: Two and three-fourth cups.

Old-Fashioned Rice Pudding

Rice, like other cereals, can be used in all family meals—breakfast, lunch and dinner. White rice contains a small amount of good quality protein and some minerals and vitamins. When rice is used, it should be served with foods that supply the nutritive value rice lacks—with eggs, meat, fish, poultry, milk, cheese, fruits or vegetables.

One delicious dish suggested by home economists of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture is Creamy Rice Pudding, prepared in this manner:

Combine one-fourth cup of uncooked rice and one quart hot milk. Place the mixture in a greased baking dish. Bake covered at 250 degrees one hour, stirring four times.

Combine one-fourth cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt and one-eighth teaspoon nutmeg. Stir into rice mixture with one-fourth cup raisins and three-fourths teaspoon vanilla. Bake mixture uncovered, one and one-half hours longer.

Yield: six servings.

Seasoning Meats

Season broiled meats after browning. Salting before browning draws moisture to the surface of the meat, thus retarding the browning.

One-Dish Meal Of Spareribs And French Fries

WHAT SORT of foods do the members of your family order for themselves when they eat away from home? The answer to this question can be the homemaker's clue to planning meals that please.

Here's one recipe that proved popular in an industrial cafeteria in the Midwest. It was a winner in a contest for institutional food service personnel, sponsored by the Frozen Potato Products Institute.

Spareribs Bake is hearty, good eating, truly a meal-in-one-dish. It's easy to do, by using frozen French fries.

Place the spareribs in a shallow baking dish and sprinkle with salt. Cover with foil and bake in a hot oven. At the end of 30 minutes remove foil and continue baking until ribs are almost tender. Now line ribs up in oblong baking pan and brush with spicy barbecue sauce; add frozen French fries and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Make gravy from pan drippings in which celery and onion have been sauteed. Add barbecue sauce to gravy and pour over the ribs and potatoes. Return to oven and bake until ribs are tender and potatoes are browned.

Serve with a tossed salad, mixed fruit compote and cookies.

French Fries Spareribs Bake.

Three and one-half to four pounds spareribs, cut in two ribs portions.

One-half cup tomato-base commercial or home-made barbecue sauce.

One package (one pound) or two packages (nine ounces each) frozen French fries.

One and three-fourths teaspoons salt.

Dash pepper.

One-half cup coarsely chopped onion.

One-half cup finely chopped celery.

One tablespoon flour.

Three-fourths cup water.

Place spareribs in shallow baking pan. Sprinkle with one teaspoon salt. Cover with aluminum foil, crimping it tightly to edges of pan. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 30 minutes. Remove aluminum foil and continue baking ribs until almost tender, 30 to 40 minutes.

Stand ribs up on side in oblong baking pan (13 by nine by two inches). Brush ribs with one-half of barbecue sauce. Add fries and sprinkle with one-half teaspoon salt and pepper.

Combine one-fourth cup drippings from ribs, onion and celery; saute until onion is soft but not brown, about five minutes. Blend in flour and remaining one-fourth teaspoon salt. Stir in remaining barbecue sauce.

Pour over ribs and fries. Return to oven; bake until fries are heated and lightly browned and ribs are tender, 20 to 30 minutes.

Yield: four servings.

Here's New Way With Green Beans

Here's a bright new suggestion for green beans: Cut off ends, remove strings and cut one pound green beans into one and one-half inch diagonal pieces. Turn into a 10-inch skillet with one-half cup water and one-half teaspoon salt. Cover tightly and bring to a boil. Lower heat and simmer just until beans are tender-crisp, about 10 to 12 minutes.

Push beans to one side; add two tablespoons butter to pan. Turn up heat and when bubbly add one-half teaspoon chili powder and three-fourth cup drained pineapple chunks. Heat, stirring a minute or two, then combine with beans.

Yield: Four servings.

Cloudy and Cooler, With Showers

FORECAST
—Associated Press Wirephoto.
Low temperatures and areas of precipitation expected tonight.

Considerable cloudiness and cooler temperatures tomorrow, with periods of showers and thundershowers, were forecast for the St. Louis area by the Weather Bureau. High tomorrow will be 75 to 80.

A cold front entered the northern portions of the nation and extended into the northern Rockies and northern Plains and through the Great Lakes area. A stationary front in southeast Texas and across the lower Mississippi Valley caused considerable rain. Galveston, Tex., had a tornado and 10 inches of rain last night. More ran can be expected in southeast Texas, Mississippi and Arkansas.

Temperatures were generally in the 60s from the Rockies eastward with exception of scattered 50-degree readings and higher readings in the Gulf Coast area and southern Florida. West of the Rockies, temperatures were in the 80s in the interior, with 100-degree readings in the southern desert areas.

Scattered showers are expected to precede the cold front from Michigan through the northwest Plains followed by cooler temperatures. The stationary front in the south will cause more rain along the Gulf Coast.

Heating degree days in the St. Louis area yesterday, 0; cooling degree days in the St. Louis area yesterday, 0.

Castro Quickens Cuba's March Toward Communism as Result Of Failure of Invasion Attempt Fiasco Greatly Consolidated Power of Revolutionary Regime and Made It Easier for Premier to Push Rapidly for Complete Socialization.

By TAD SZULC

HAVANA, June 19.

IN THE TWO MONTHS since the defeat of the rebel invasion, the Cuban regime of Premier Fidel Castro has visibly quickened its march toward the establishment of a full-fledged Communist state.

Premier Castro himself shies away from accepting the definition of Communism for the system he is implanting here, but in a series of conversations this week he has acknowledged that socialism is his goal because of his conviction that a backward country like Cuba can develop properly only under socialism, particularly with the aid of the Soviet Union and its allies.

The fact that, in the aftermath of the April 17 invasion, the revolutionary regime has greatly consolidated its power and its hold over the nation makes it easier for Castro to push more rapidly the complete socialization, or communization, of the Cuban society.

Premier Castro said in a series of interviews with a group of visiting United States newspaper men that the invasion led him to accelerate the process of turning Cuba into what he calls a socialist state.

JUST WHAT socialist state means in Cuban terms is a matter of political semantics here, but even Communist technicians and newspaper men in Havana recognize that Castro is attempting to put into practice a Soviet version of socialism, although the regime remains extremely defensive about spelling out publicly its penchant toward Communism.

To clarify his policies, Castro was asked to explain his socialist concept and the status of Cuba's march in its direction.

His view, as expressed in a series of talks, is that while "every revolution must find its own political form," Cuba has now resolved to follow the path of socialism.

Although implantation of this socialism can be quickened, Castro believes, it cannot be proclaimed by executive order, and a preparatory period of "more than a few months but less than a quinquennium" (five years) is required to guide the island toward this objective.

"We have a socialist revolution but we do not yet have a socialist state," he said.

CASTRO SAID that the regime is not at this time considering the proclamation of a socialist constitution, but he did not rule out that this would be done later.

He then agreed that a national political party may emerge in Cuba before too long to be the political and structural backbone of the socialist state. Until now the revolutionary regime has declined to form a political party of its own, while the Communist party, known here as the Popular Socialist party, was the only political faction allowed to function.

Castro said that the island-wide neighborhood and factory "committees for the defense of the revolution," which, at present, are dedicated to assisting the authorities in weeding out and catching the enemies of the regime, could become the nuclei of the new political organization, along with the militias, the new planning juntas that are being established on provincial and municipal levels and other revolutionary and youth groups.

OBSERVERS here, including experienced Latin American diplomats, believe that one of the most important efforts now under way in Cuba is to weld all these organizations into a political apparatus that would give cohesion to the diffuse revolutionary activities.

Such an apparatus, they say, would assure continuity for the revoution and provide a solid political base for the socialist state in the event of Castro's death, always a danger in a revolutionary situation. Until now, the Premier's personality has served as the principal element in the Cuban revolution.

The present plans of the regime are to allow small business men to go on operating—and prospering, if possible—because it is felt that it would be unwieldly and uneconomical for the state to take over the multiplicity of small enterprises ranging from cafes to family industries.

But on other levels, socialization is moving apace and steps are being taken to tighten the structure of the state and its control over most of the national activities.

SINCE LAST YEAR, agrarian co-operatives are being turned into "people's farms," or collective farms, in which the peasants are employes of the state, rather than participants in a farm's profits as is theoretically the case with the co-operatives.

Premier Castro said that there already are about 300 collectives and about 1000 co-operatives, but that many of the latter are asking to receive the "peoples' farm" status.

The advantage of the collectives, he explained, is that, unlike in the co-operatives, the state is directly responsible for production as well as housing, schooling, medical services and other facilities. They are particularly suited to mixed agrarian-industrial enterprises, he said.

On June 7, the regime took two steps which went far to increase its control over the nation.

The first one was a decree nationalizing all private schools in Cuba, about 1000 of them, so that all teaching is now in the hands of the government. And teaching in today's Cuba also means political indoctrination.

THIS POINT is made by a propaganda poster depicting a small boy and a caption asking, "will he be a patriot or a traitor? It is up to you . . . give him revolutionary instruction."

The second step was the creation of the Ministry of Interior under Maj. Ramiro Valdes, who until then was the head of G-2, the secret police which since the revolution operated as an army service. This move copies the Soviet model in establishing a central security agency.

The new ministry concentrates in its hands the huge network of the secret police, now called the State Security Service, the technical police and the uniformed national revolutionary police, and supervises the activities of the civilian committees for the defense of the revolution. A campaign is now under way for the creation of 100,000 new committees with 500,000 "volunteers,"

Dominican Republic Says It Wants to Reform, but Slowly

By PHILIP DEANE

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, June 19.

THE PRESIDENT OF THE DOMINICAN REPUBLIC, Joaquin Belaguer, a diffident man, who sits pigeon-toed and seems unhappy with the international press, says his country wants to co-operate with the democracies. The Dominican Republic, he adds, has nothing to hide. It wants to belong again to the confraternity of the free world, but can reform only slowly.

After the assassination of the dictator, Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo, his friends from the international set are all here to preach the same gospel: Reform can be only slow, because if you push too hard you get a Castro. A French publisher says his friend Gen. Rafael Trujillo Jr. simply wants to get out of being the republic's new ruler: "You do not think he wants to live here?" he asks, contemplating the sparkling pool of the luxurious hotel at which the press is encouraged to stay because, as a foreign diplomat puts it, the rooms are conveniently wired for sound.

An American gossip columnist, a lawyer, also from the United States, two former United States ambassadors, a New York public relations man named Bill Peers—they have all the same message. They assert that the present Dominican regime is better than the "Cuban police state."

A EUROPEAN DIPLOMAT invited me to dinner the other evening, and found the man at the next table very intent on hearing our conversation. "Do you mind removing your ear from my plate?" asked my host. In three rhododendron bushes next to the terrace where we ate, three little men went on diligently listening. So for the time being we talked only about Canadian Prime Minister Diefenbaker and the European Common Market. A police car with two machine guns cruised around the block. "Let us ride in my car so we can talk," said the diplomat.

We were then escorted along the drive by the car with the machine guns. It was not one of the standard cars of the military security forces; those had been taken off the street the day before the mission of the organization of the American States arrived to investigate the alleged Dominican reforms. Until then such cars had cruised the streets day and night.

But other security measures still operate. The house of every Trujillo relative, every bridge, every public building, every crossroad is covered by tough cops with machine guns. The

Reds Rapidly Expanding Aid, Trade Effort

MOSCOW, June 19.

AT A GAY PARTY in the Kremlin for President Sukarno of Indonesia, Premier Khrushchev pulled out his pockets and said beaming, "Look, he took everything I had."

Khrushchev was jesting in the expansive mood of the successful banker. Indonesia is one of the 20 underdeveloped countries of Asia, Africa and Latin America that are receiving Soviet aid.

As part of its strategy of attraction, the Soviet Union and other members of the Communist bloc are rapidly expanding their program of economic, technical and military assistance to the uncommitted nations.

THE BLOC ALLOCATED more than a billion dollars worth of economic aid alone last year, according to Western estimates. This was the biggest annual outlay since the Communist program for the underdeveloped countries made a modest beginning in 1954.

The presence of more than 6000 Communist technicians was noted in these countries in 1960.

The bloc's plan for economic penetration and influence also is based heavily on growing trade, including the sale of equipment that will continue to require replacement parts and units from their Communist suppliers. Bloc salesman are increasingly active in trade affairs at exhibitions and as members of exchange missions.

A STUDY MADE of bloc trade with the underdeveloped countries in the first half of 1960, as compared with the same period of the previous year, indicated an increase of about 20 per cent.

By comparison with United States aid outlays, Communist bloc expenditures are relatively small.

Since 1954, it is estimated that the bloc has provided credits and some grants amounting to

U.S. Giving Ikeda Big Welcome Due to Japan's Improving Status

Policies Toward Communist China Are Likely to Figure Prominently in Premier's Talks With Kennedy.

WASHINGTON, June 19.

WASHINGTON IS PREPARED to give Japan's Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda an enthusiastic welcome tomorrow.

Behind the reception will be the growing realization here of Japan's increasingly important role in Asian and world affairs. Japan is by far the most prosperous and industrially advanced country in the non-Communist world outside western Europe and North America.

The visiting Japanese leader will be in Washington three days. Between his arrival tomorrow and his departure for New York on Friday he is scheduled to meet three times with President Kennedy. One of the meeting will take place on the presidential yacht Honey Fitz as it cruises on the Potomac river.

President Kennedy is expected to give Ikeda an extensive review of United States policy with special emphasion on East-West relations. The review will include a first-hand account of the President's recent meeting in Vienna with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Japanese and United States policies toward Communist China are likely to figure importantly in the Washington conversations. Both governments expect the Communists to make a major bid this fall to win Peiping's admission to the United Nations. Steps to counter that bid will be considered in the Washington discussions this week.

AFTER HE ASSUMED power in Japan last year, Ikeda indicated his government would look with favor on an expansion of trade with the China mainland. Japanses Socialists picked up the theme of more trade and used it to press for moves to regularize political relations between Tokyo and Peiping. The pressure was effective, particularly in the absence of any clear statement of United States intentions during the election campaign and in the immediate post-election period.

Since then, however, there have been a number of policy statements here indicating Washington contniued to look with disfavor on recognition of Communist China and on that country's admission to the U.N.

Japanese ardor for even commercial dealings with the mainland has cooled markedly as the Japanese realized that China's severe economic difficulties limited its abiity to engage in extensive foreign trade Much of Peiping's foreign exchange reserves has gone for the purchase of needed food supplies which has reduced sharply its ability to buy the kind of consumer and industrial goods that are Japan's specialty.

MOREOVER, JAPAN has built up profitable commercial, relations with the Nationalist Chinese on Formosa. The Japanese also realize that the strategic position of Formosa has special relevance for Japan's own security.

All these factors have tended to bring Tokyo's policy toward China back into line with Washington's and should make discussion of the China problem this week relatively smooth, diplomats believe.

Japanese officials have indicated that their government is giving serious consideration to plans for putting investment capital into other Asian countries, particularly Korea and North and South Viet Nam. This is a matter that will engage the attention of Japanese and American officials in the Washington talks this week.

United States officials will want to hear the Prime Minister's explanation of Tokyo's plans. He, in turn, is likely to ask for Washington's reaction, including official estimates concerning the value and long-range security of such investments.

In other words, the Japanese will want some assurance that the United States has no intention of pulling back from Asia or cutting its own investment in such countries as Korea and South Viet Nam. In this connection, Washington's estimate of

How Trusts Provide For Many Needs

ALTHOUGH many trusts provide the sole support for wives, children, or others, in many cases they provide for other needs.

Miss A's Trust Provides a Second Income Plus Other Benefits

Miss A is fifty years old and has a good position as office manager for a small business. Fifteen years ago she inherited $25,000 from her mother. She's placed it in trust and has added to it each year from her savings. The trust now amounts to $75,000 as a result of additions, the reinvestment of the income and market appreciation. The trust provides Miss A with a second income, which she is adding to the principal to provide for her retirement.

Miss A has no near relatives to whom she could turn in case of serious illness or other emergency. The trust company, however, has the discretionary power to use the principal for her benefit so that in case of serious illness or disability the trust company will be able to utilize and spend the principal if necessary for Miss A's care. Far more important than the second income this trust provides is the protection it gives in case of emergency needs.

The Case of B

B, age forty, is a junior executive in a relatively small but rapidly growing company. He has a wife, three small children, $25,000 stock in the company which employs him, a $25,000 home in joint names and $50,000 in life insurance.

B can look forward to increasing earnings and to excellent prospects of substantial appreciation in his stock in the company where he is employed.

His problem is to provide a plan to protect his family in the event of his premature death. His solution is to leave his estate in trust for his wife and children and to create a life insurance trust giving his trustees the discretionary right to purchase assets from his estate in order to provide his executor with funds for taxes and administration expenses.

Trusts to Serve Other Purposes

Trusts may be used for a great many different purposes. Some of them are as follows:

1. Marital trust coupled with residuary trust under will. Such trusts permit a married person to cut his or her estate in half for tax purposes and prevent the other half of the estate from being added to the estate of the surviving spouse for tax purposes.

2. Trusts to provide for minor children.

3. Trusts to provide an income in lieu of an allowance for grown children, aged parents or others. This permits the substitution, for an allowance taxable to the donor in high brackets, of an income taxable to the beneficiary in lower brackets. It is a more economical way of providing the same spendable amounts for the beneficiary.

4. Trusts to split family income and thereby reduce family income taxes.

5. Irrevocable living trusts as a substitute for charitable bequests under will. In such trusts the income may be reserved to the donor for life and thereafter to his wife for life with the principal going to charity at the death of the survivor. Each annual contribution to such a trust gives the donor a tax deduction for income tax purposes. Since it does not reduce his income one cent, it increases his after-tax income by the amount of the annual tax saving.

These are but a few examples of the many ways in which trusts may be used to serve different purposes.

Growth and County Schools

St. Louis county taxpayers have good reason to cheer the announcement that the property revaluation program has been completed. Not only has the county's tax base virtually reached parity with that of St. Louis; it now is substantially free of the thousands of individual inequities that had been embedded in it over the years.

The problem now is to keep the assessment rolls fair to everyone, which means keeping them up to date. In the normal course of events all that should be necessary is adequate supervision plus appropriations of sufficient size to finance the work. Assessment and reassessment is the task of the newly-created Department of Revenue, whose proper functioning is the specific responsibility of Supervisor McNary. Mr. McNary also happens to be the county's budget officer, so he should have no excuses for failing to maintain assessments at the level of about a third of true value set by the State Tax Commission.

Whether the county will be able to take full advantage of its greatly increased ability to support public services and good schools is another and more difficult question. The school problem is the most pressing since it takes up to 75 cents on every tax dollar raised locally. The county's taxable wealth is unevenly distributed throughout the area, and the schools need access to the county's total tax base, not merely to that segment of it lying within their own districts.

An amendment to the Missouri Constitution permitting the levy of a county-wide school tax is necessary before all the schools can benefit by the county's total growth in taxable wealth, and the chances are fairly good that one will be submitted soon. A bill to that end has passed the Missouri Senate and been sent back to the House for concurrence in changes tacked on by Senators to an earlier House-approved measure. We hope the House accepts the Senate version.

The county's tax base can be expected to grow at a lesser rate in the future than it has in the last few years because the impact of the revaluation program will be missing. Even so, economic growth can be stimulated by good schools, and the county now has the inherent ability to provide them in every school district if the people of Missouri will permit it. There is no reason they should not. But they cannot say Yes until the Legislature submits the constitutional change that is necessary. At the moment, at least, the county's future rate of growth is to a substantial extent in the hands of the Legislature.

Sound Policy?

A Missouri Senate committee has approved a House resolution to let the Legislature veto rules and regulations of state administrative agencies and departments. The original measure apparently applied to constitutional agencies, such as the Conservation and Highway Commissions, but the sponsors said they did not intend to interfere with bodies specifically protected from political interference by the Constitution. So they amended the measure to apply only to agencies and rules established under legislative statute.

This is still a peculiar proposition. It calls for a constant committee review of all such rules, and permits the Legislature to suspend any rule until it can amend the law under which the rule was adopted. We understand the feeling of the sponsors, that some agencies may write rules that go beyond the intent of the law that created them. But the normal way of correcting administrative misinterpretations is for a legislature to clarify or rewrite the law. That is what both Congress and the Missouri Legislature have often done.

The Senate ought to ask whether the resolution is really necessary, since legislators already possess authority to correct agency abuses by law. Beyond that, the Senate might ask whether constant surveillance of rules involving such diverse subjects as taxes, mental health, licensing, probation and so on would invite legislative meddling in administrative affairs.

More Decibels Over Berlin

West Berlin's celebration of the eighth anniversary of the East German rising against the Communists also was a reply to Premier Khrushchev's demand for a settlement of the German question—especially the neutralization of West Berlin—within a year. In defying the Kremlin, Mayor Willy Brandt voiced the position of the West in language somewhat more strident than other leaders have chosen.

The demonstrations of eight years ago were crushed by 300,000 Red troops. The troops were free to take this action in East Germany. But nothing was done about the West Berliners' anniversary celebration because neither the Russians nor their East German stooges were in a position to do anything short of risking a showdown with the West.

Despite his talk, Khrushchev cannot be eager for such a showdown—especially not at this time when, as James Reston points out, he has troubles enough within his own orbit. Indeed it is highly probable that his latest truculence is intended chiefly for consumption by Communists, including the Chinese, to enhance their impression of his strength.

This kind of talk—and there will be more of it—is irritating to Washington and other Western capitals. Yet it should be neither underappraised nor overappraised. In Vienna President Kennedy made it clear that the West will honor its obligations to the 2,200,000 people of West Berlin. He made it equally clear that there is no special concern whether its approaches are controlled by the Red Army or by East Germans so long as they remain open. The West will not retreat from its position. On the other hand, Mr. Khrushchev may make changes he deems necessary within the Communist area so long as these do not impinge on Western rights.

Living side by side with the Communists is not easy. Yet this is an aspect of international life which must be borne. And it can be borne so long as divisive tendencies within NATO are kept under control. Here is the real danger. Jean Monnet, the planner of European unity, suggested at Dartmouth's commencement exercises that "just as Europe is now uniting, so the West must move toward union in order to escape destruction." Yet it also is possible to maintain an adequate solidarity short of this ideal. So long as the West stands firm on essentials—and Berlin is an essential—the Kremlin is not likely to go beyond the war of nerves. Indeed the nurturing of the Western alliance eventually may convince Russia that aside from an occasional dubious advantage in a far corner of the world, it has nothing to gain from interminable irritations. And the only aggressive alternative is suicidal folly.

The Congo Settles Down

There is at least one modest offset to the somber cast of the post-Vienna international scene. The political crisis in The Congo seems to be at an end, according to U.N. Secretary General Hammarskjold. He is keeping his fingers crossed since there still are possibilities of renewed trouble—for example, in the investigation into what happened to Premier Lumumba and the question of what is going to happen to imprisoned President Tshombe of Katanga.

Nevertheless President Kasavubu and Mr. Hammarskjold and his assistants have signed documents which may be regarded as a peace treaty of sorts. They also cover a $10,000,000 U.N. loan to The Congo and a pledge of reforms in return for the help.

Even without the disorders which came with Congolese independence, money would have been needed for vital imports and for the establishment of governmental machinery. The civil war made this need all the greater. So U.N. Undersecretary Phillipe de Seynes and Dr. Sture C. Linner, who heads U.N. operations in The Congo, negotiated the loan with the understanding, on the part of President Kasavubu, that "it cannot provide a final solution of our economic difficulties which must be found through internal measures."

To help with those measures, the number of U.N. financial experts in the country is to be increased from 13 to about 50. They will aid in establishing a budget for the central government, in training Congolese officials, in creating a system of taxation, and in negotiations with the secessionist provinces. The central government meanwhile is to freeze prices and salaries, and to stop the headlong hiring of soldiers and civilian employes at least until the monthly deficits of from $9,000,000 to $14,000,000 are reduced.

These steps toward good order may well constitute, as Mr. Hammarskjold says, "a milestone in the co-operation of the Republic of The Congo and the United Nations." Yet since further financial aid seems necessary, one may ask where it is to come from. A special Congo fund of $100,000,000 was set up by the U.N. last September. But so far only $18,980,486 has been pledged, and only $17,900,000 has been paid into the fund. How effective can the U.N. continue to be if even some of its richer member-governments blandly refuse to pay their share of the bill? Such irresponsibility hardly sets a good example for The Congo and other underdeveloped countries. Nor is it an assurance of international co-operation.

Military Leapfrog

The Navy's Project Artemis, intended to develop means for locating a submarine at extremely long distances, is double-edged. If it succeeds, our Navy would have greatly improved protection from enemy submarines. But if we do develop such a weapon it would be wise to concede that so will Soviet Russia. The deterrent value of nuclear submarines would be sharply cut if they could not move in secrecy. It is a military axiom that every new offensive weapon is followed by a counter weapon. The time and the effectiveness of each counter weapon vary, but historically the axiom has stood up for centuries.

Redistricting in Illinois

Illinois must give up one of its 25 seats in Congress. And just as in Missouri, the Legislature's effort to draft a reapportionment plan has been characterized more by politics than considerations of fairness, or even the constitutional requirements for compact districts as nearly equal in population as may be.

Democrats control the Missouri state government lock, stock and barrel, so the eventual result of the redistricting here is bound to bear the stamp of majority-party partisanship. At the moment it looks as though Missouri Democrats are going to cheat metropolitan St. Louis out of the fourth congressman that the area so obviously is entitled to on the basis of existing population and future trends.

The situation in Illinois is less one-sided, which in the end may turn out to be all to the good. Unless all 24 Illinois congressmen are to run at large in 1962, Democratic Governor Kerner, the Republican-controlled State Senate and the Democratic-dominated House will have to hammer out a compromise acceptable to both parties. Neither party is likely to be too anxious for an at-large election, so the prospect is for some feverish last-minute trading before the Assembly's scheduled adjournment on June 30.

Neither the Democratic nor the Republican proposals would affect Democratic Representative Melvin Price's present Twenty-fourth District, which includes Madison and St. Clair counties, and we hope the legislative traders at Springfield will leave it alone. While the district would be about 16 per cent larger than the ideal for the state, it is recognized as an integral part of metropolitan St. Louis and it deserves to be represented by a metropolitan-minded congressman like Mr. Price.

Each party's plan fails in some measure to meet the constitutional prescription for "compact" districts; each party wants more than it deserves, and each has put partisanship ahead of the overriding public interest. The best hope for fairness in Illinois lies in the possibility that the excesses on each side will tend to be mutually self-defeating.

35 Billion Bottles

Beginning next June the Food and Drug Administration will require the manufacturers of carbonated beverages to list the ingredients in their products on the labels, which is a move the industry has been expecting for some 20 years. Apparently there is only one major soft drink that now bears such a label. It will be interesting to learn how many drinks are made from the same materials. It is interesting to learn, also, that the industry sells some 35 billion bottles of its product annually, each bottle being used an average of 24 times before it is lost or broken. The average may be reduced slightly this year because of the bottling workers' strike in St. Louis, but the wintry temperatures would have cut consumption anyway. We leave with the industry the problem of how to affix labels to the bottles.

Catching Up in Space Race?

Solid Fuel Advocates Believe They Could Soon Match Russian Propulsive Power

Joseph Koshay in
The Michigan Journalist,
University of Michigan

Practically everyone from President Kennedy to the corner market manager knows the reason America has failed to beat the Russians into space. It's simply a lack of sufficient rocket power . . . or in space lingo, booster rockets.

The Russians have much bigger booster rockets, the rockets that push the space capsule into orbit, than we do. Their massive engines enable them to launch much heavier payloads and thus to perform much more efficiently and spectacularly.

The Mirror of Public Opinion

But today there are experts who believe we can overleap the Russians soon, and they believe we can do this at bargain-basement rates as far as space business is concerned. We need no scientific breakthroughs, no new theories, and no revolutionary technical or engineering miracles. These scientists feel we simply need to change our main propulsion force in the booster rockets to solid fuel rather than the common liquid fuel used now.

Studies following the results of the successes made by the new United States solid-fuel missiles like Polaris, Scout and Minuteman now show that American industry is already capable of producing missiles with millions of pounds of thrust—much more than anything the Russians are likely to have in the 1960s. All we need is to switch from liquid-fuel to solid-fuel. But this is a big switch, involving millions of dollars, and the Government, of course, is wary of such a move. (Editor's note: Some scientists say the principal problem in creating big solid-fuel booster rockets involves ignition and even burning of the fuel when used on a large scale.)

—Herblock in The Washington Post.

"Well, Back to the Old Grind"

The solid-fuel missile is far cheaper than its liquid-fuel counterpart, although not as accurate. Once the motor is shut off it cannot be restarted as can the latter. But the solid-fuel missile has the almost immeasurable advantage of being simple in its construction. Instead of relying on complicated hydraulic and pumping systems for measuring out liquid fuel, the solid-fuel missile is merely a large tube filled with a rubbery fuel that hardens and burns at an even rate.

The idea for future United States missiles suggested by these solid-fuel advocates is to have a solid fuel booster with millions of pounds of thrust to launch the missile into outer space, and then use liquid fuel upper-stage missiles to more accurately guide the capsule to its target. As one scientist put it . . . "There's no point using a Cadillac to pull a hay wagon."

Our present space program is relying on the liquid-fueled Saturn booster which will become operational in 1964 or 1965. Although the Saturn will develop some 1.5 million pounds of thrust, as compared to the maximum 800,000 pounds of thrust used by the Russians presently, it would be naive to believe that the Russians are not also working on larger boosters.

Harold W. Ritchey of the Thiokol Chemical Corp. was addressing a meeting of the American Rocket Society, of which he is president, when he flatly stated that the United States could develop a three-million-pound-thrust solid-fuel booster before the Saturn booster is operational.

"If we were in a hurry," he said, "we could have it in 18 months." Ritchey also insisted that we could put together as many as seven of these new boosters in a cluster to produce a thrust of some 21 million pounds, unbelievable as it sounds.

What's more, the cost of solid-fuel is almost overbearingly in its favor. A big, solid-fuel booster costs between $30 and $75 million, while we have already spent more than $200 million on the Saturn, which won't be operational for years.

Although we don't advocate the overthrow of liquid-fuel missiles, the solid-fuel booster is certainly worth pushing if it can achieve the results so many space experts think it can. There is nothing to indicate the existence of anything like our solid-fuel industry in Russia.

Sky Falling?

E. Gary Davidson in Missouri Council of Churches Legislative Digest

It was a Missouri Senator who, many years ago, made his famous tribute to a dog. The modern version of Senator Vest has far outclassed the old orator, however. Representative Dewey L. Hankins of Cassville, Barry county, has introduced and had perfected in the Missouri House a bill to give chickens a decent burial and assurance that their remains will not lie desecrated alongside a public highway. The proposed law would require that every owner of a chicken must cause the carcass to be preserved, buried or cremated within 24 hours of its demise; and no one can grow chickens in the state without having facilities for disposing of them in the manner described. It would also be unlawful to deposit the carcass of a domesticated fowl along a road or highway. Even Chicken Little might find some consolation in that bill.

The implications of such an act can cause the imagination of the chicken-hearted to run riot. Every owner of a chicken could start in right now to consider whether he has provided a plot and the proper plans for the funeral of his flock. It is possible that a whole new field may be opened to the morticians not to mention countless other sidelines. Human beings may have their care from the cradle to the grave, but our feathered friends will have security from nest to rest.

A bill of rights for poultry may be a sincere and humane gesture. However, we feel that there are already adequate laws to care for the apparent problems sought to be remedied and that the Legislature might well busy itself with more serious and pressing matters.

Century of Criticism

AMERICA'S TASTE, by Marjorie Longley, Louis Silverstein, and Samuel A. Tower. (Simon & Schuster, 332 pgs., $12.50.)

This cavalcade of criticism, stretching over the years from 1851 to 1959, is enough to give a critic caution and perhaps cause him to swear off his crystal ball for good. As a panorama of American taste during the past century, it is good entertainment in itself and a guided tour through the high spots of our culture.

Bizet's "Carmen," on its first New York appearance, was found to be "neither very good nor very original." That was back in 1878. Ten years later, when Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde" was produced by the Metropolitan, the reviewer teetered back and forth between "a matchless achievement" and the opinion that "some queer people will discern in it a determination on the part of the public to overthrow its ancient gods and unite in the cult of Richard Wagner."

This is a handsome volume in format and design, presenting the contemporary reactions of the critics and reviewers of the New York Times. As a parade of the literary and artistic history of America, it is an enchanting exercise to turn its pages, to sample the reviews and admire the period illustrations which appear so lavishly. We find the first issue of the Atlantic Monthly hailed with an "augury of felicities" for the future. Or Longfellow's "Hiawatha" condemned for his rhythmic passages which the reviewer felt were "chosen almost as unhappily as the subject." Coleridge becomes "morally speaking, a helpless and disreputable member of society" although "intellectually speaking, a map of large and lofty reaches."

Among these somewhat odd judgments, however, all did not despair. Thus we have a hosanna for long-forgotten third-raters who caused a sensation for the day. But the critic and the reviewer does not always come off poorly. While far from unquestioning in its admiration, the notice for Walt Whitman's " Leaves of Grass" admits, "Yet it would be unjust to deny the evidences of remarkable power. . . . In his hearty human sympathy, his wonderful intensity, his fullness of epithet, the author shows that he is a man of strong passion, vigorous in thought and earnest in purpose." Of course, he also is "reckless and vulgar."

Coming up from the nineteenth century, we find a willingness to lay aside moral judgments on the work of art although critical caveats continue to flourish among the flowers of praise. If one is concerned with the growth of creative work in the United States, this is enthralling. Collier Ford

Evidence? But Where?

Brig. Gen. Phillips in his column June 15 suggests that evidence exists that the Russians are working on biological warfare.

This suggestion has been made officially for several years; and not only has it not been supported by evidence, but the clumsy efforts to support it have introduced doubt where I for one wouldn't otherwise have had any.

It may come as a surprise to your readers that there is nothing in the published record anywhere which could be called facts about Russian BW. There is only the chemical intelligence officer's "feelings" that Phillips mentions, or the innuendo which, he says, "adds up to the fact that the Russians are planning" to use this stuff in war; or the choice bit used again and again, and which he repeats, about what Marshal Zhukov thought in 1956 a future war would be like—a guess neither different nor better nor more blood-curdling than many made by our own generals. No evidence.

For several years now there has been a news story or a column about this time, repeating pretty much or exactly the same old stuff, which seems to be intended to tell us that the House Appropriations Committee is in process of being convinced of the need to keep the boys at Fort Detrick and their like at other branches of our chemical-biological warfare plant busy at their humane jobs for another year.

The actual appropriation, when it comes, doesn't usually make the news, being too trifling. This year I guess it will be something like $125 million, which is a drop in the budget, but approximately enough to build five major medical centers, including schools of medicine, dentistry and nursing, and associated hospital and research laboratories.

Which do we need more?

Angels on a Farm

Olivia Skinner's Everyday Magazine story about Beverly Farms, a home for retarded children at Godfrey, Ill., ought to prove to parents of these exceptional children the advantages of homes of this type. Many parents are reluctant to send their children away.

I have a daughter who has been at Beverly Farms for 13 years, and on many occasions I have talked to parents explaining why they should send their loved ones to such a school. Death is inevitable, and most parents succumb before their children. It happened with my wife, who was killed in an auto accident 10½ years ago. Fortunately our child was at the farm and life went on with the regular routine that she was accustomed to.

It would take pages to tell of the goodness of Dr. Smith, the teachers and house mothers and others at the farm. They are saints and angels. The Lord has given the world these marvelous people for our children, and we parents say a fervent prayer daily for all of them. Thanks again for Miss Skinner's enlightening report.

Hero From Afar

Americans may be interested in knowing that the Philippines this year is commemorating the first centenary of the birth of its national hero, Dr. Jose Rizal. Rizal was born on June 19 one hundred years ago.

Not too many people abroad are aware of this distinguished Filipino who dedicated his life and labors to his people and who died for his country at the age of 35 so that his country may be free. Rizal, one might say, occupies the same place as Washington does in the hearts of his countrymen.

In his poem, "My Last Farewell," written in his prison cell on the eve of his execution by the Spanish regime on Dec. 30, 1898, for crimes he did not commit, he said:

Pray for all those that hapless have died,
For all who have suffered the unmeasur'd pain;
For our mothers that bitterly their woes have cried,
For widows and orphans, for captives by torture tried;
And then for thyself that redemption thou may gain.

. . . .

I die just when I see the dawn break.

Much more than the symbolic meaning of the last line is the impassioned concern for the freedom of his country in the preceding stanza.

Nixon Pins Hopes on California

WASHINGTON.

RICHARD M. NIXON HAS TACITLY ACKNOWLEDGED his failure to win acceptance as the prime leader of Republicans nationally by a variety of moves designed to give him a strong home base as Governor of California. He has still to say openly that he will run against Governor Brown next year.

What he has done is to see to it that no other Republican candidate can get off the ground. The Nixon techniques are the tried and true ones easily parsed by politicians. Briefly stated, they compromise the "he can't win" charge and the "spontaneous draft." A Monterey newspaper which recently interviewed Nixon reported him as musing that he didn't know what California Republicans would do in 1962 since he seemed to be their only "electable" candidate. This is Madison Avenue jargon for the kind of lethal blow which cost the late Senator Taft the Republican nomination for President in 1952.

Nixon.

An old hand is in command of the draft. He is Murray Chotiner, the Beverly Hills lawyer who organized Nixon's rapid rise to the House, Senate and Vice Presidency. Chotiner conducted Republican campaign schools here briefly following the 1952 proof of his skills but faded away when questions arose about his use of White House influence.

Los Angeles Maverick.

It was widely believed that Nixon consulted him in the 1960 campaign. Now he is in the open again in California setting up a new chain of Republican clubs, and he is also doing a lot of speechmaking.

Democrats find no difficulty adding this up to a Nixon-Brown race and a hard one to win. Their spirits are not improved by the recent election of a maverick Democrat, Sam Yorty, as Mayor of Los Angeles. Yorty supported Nixon last fall and most leading Democrats opposed Yorty's candidacy this year.

Nixon has made his first move toward another campaign against President Kennedy by increasingly acid criticisms of Administration actions. These will be followed up with a series of newspaper articles.

It was never in the cards that Nixon would wait patiently on events; like Vice President Johnson, he likes to keep in motion. He has been prodded also by various developments.

A Tempting Target.

One is the apparent intention of former President Eisenhower to make party announcements, an unexpected step in the anti-Nixon activity apparent within the party. Nixon could cope with Senator Goldwater as much too far right for national party safety, but Eisenhower is another story.

Then, too, his help was declined in the partys' biggest post-November triumph, the election of a Repubician Senator from Texas, while Goldwater's was welcomed. This was definitely unhelpful to the Nixon ambitions.

In California, Gov. Brown has shown increasing weakness. While he may recoup before the critical months next year, he presently offers a tempting target. The Governor himself expects Nixon to be his opponent.

Benefits Paid by St. Louis Plan Also Set Record, Meeting Is Told.

Enrollment in the St. Louis Blue Shield Plan in the last fiscal year totaled 612,000, a record high, it was announced yesterday at the annual meeting of the Blue Shield voting board.

NAME OF PONTIUS PILATE FOUND ON STONE IN ISRAEL

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, June 19 (AP)—An Italian archeologist said yesterday the carved name of Pontius Pilate has been found on a stone on the Mediterranean coast of Israel.

Archeological and Biblical scholars said it was the first time archeological evidence has been found of the Roman procurator of Judea who ordered the crucifixion of Christ. Heretofore his name has been known only through the Gospels and the writings of the Jewish historian, Josephus Flavius.

The announcement was made by Prof. Antonio Frova, director of the Antiquities Department of Northern Italy. He said a University of Milan archeological expedition found it near Caesarea, about 10 miles south of Haifa. Caesarea was the capital of the Romans in Palestine for about 500 years.

AUGUSTANA LUTHERAN SYNOD ENDS WITH ORDINATION OF 51

SEATTLE, June 19 (AP) — A service in which 51 young men were ordained closed the 102nd annual Synod of the Augustana Lutheran Church yesterday.

The Rev. Dr. Malvin H. Lundeen of Minneapolis, president of the 618,000-member church, sponsored his son, John H. Lundeen. It was the first time in the 100-year history of the Augustana Lutherans that a president had inducted a son into the ministry.

The Rev. Dr. Anton Lundeen, Chicago, placed a clerical stole on the shoulders of his youngest son, Lyman T. Lundeen, marking the fifth time in the history of the church that a father had assisted a son taking ministerial vows at the altar. The two fathers are unrelated.

42,000,000 children were born in the U.S. during the 50's. In round numbers, that is, and that's a pretty round number. Our authority for this is Jack Paar, who is overwhelmed by the whole idea.

Well, sir, RIVER ROADS will be ready for them, if they don't all come at once. Our beautiful new branch store that's going up at Halls Ferry and Jennings Road has a solid block of children's departments. And we think we've arranged them on our street floor to solve the problem of shopping for and with the young ones with a minimum of pulling and hauling.

We start out, logically enough, with the Infants' Wear right in the center and closest to the south entrance. This department is coeducational . . . we figure the battle of the sexes hasn't really gotten under way at this tender age. Infant's furniture is here, too—everything to keep the wee one happy.

Then it's boys to the left, girls to the right, and away we go with a do si do. The girls progress from 1 to 3, 3 to 6X, 7 to 14, Girls' wear, Junior Hi, and finally to the Stixteen Shop, stopping in the Accessory Shop on the way. Each shop has a dreamy decor, of course, and the fitting rooms are fabulous. Special note to Girl Scouts —you'll find your own department here.

Off in the boys' direction the same procedure is followed — little boys right on through high school students, and from there it's only a step to the Men's Store. Masculinity pervades every inch of the decor — nothing sissy at this end! Boy Scouts have their special shop, too.

Boys and girls in the younger age brackets get together again in the shoe department at the east end . . . but knowing teen-age girls as we do, we've given them their own glamorous shoe salon.

Extra Batting Drills for Hurlers Pay Off as Cards Break Even

Jackson's Hit Helps In 4-Run Inning After Pirates Beat Simmons

By Neal Russo
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

PITTSBURGH, June 19—Larry Jackson's suggestion early last season that pitchers be granted extra time for batting practice again is paying off for the Cardinals.

If the other places in the batting order had been as productive as the No. 9 spot, the Redbirds would have done much better than win seven, lose six and tie one in their last 14 games. In that stretch the St. Louis pitchers batted at a .441 clip with 15 hits in 34 official times at bat.

Yesterday's doubleheader was a good example of the Cardinal pitchers taking matters into their own hands. Curt Simmons, now hitting .393, kept the Birds alive in the opener with the Pirates by opening a two-run inning with a double. Simmons lost, 5-3, on three unearned runs.

Then in the second game it was Jackson's infield hit which prolonged an inning that brought four runs in a 7-3 Redbird victory.

Jackson recalled that he was riding in a cab with manager Solly Hemus and coach Johnny Keane last season when he made his pitch for additional batting drills.

30 Minutes of Hitting.

"The only question was whether the extra practice would make a pitcher too tired," Jackson said. His request was okayed.

When the baseball Cardinals are at home, the pitchers get a total of 30 minutes in the batting cage each day. This time is split evenly between the starting pitchers and other hurlers. Previously, all the pitchers were confined to a total of 15 minutes, most of it for bunting.

Jackson, Simmons, Ray Sadecki and company helped themselves at the plate last season with 16 runs batted in, but already this year the pitching staff has 19 RBIs.

The latest key blow by Jackson came in the sixth inning yesterday. Charley James had singled. Then with two out, Bob Lillis singled to right and James scored with the help of a throwing error by Walt Moryn.

Warwick Ends Slump.

When shortstop Dick Groat backhanded the ball Jackson hit and was unable to throw to a base, Jackson was credited with a single. Rookie Julio Gotay singled to right, scoring Lillis. Next Carl Warwick, who had been hitless in 14 straight times at bat during which he failed to get the ball out of the infield, tripled to left-center for two more runs. That was the end of starter Joe Gibbon.

Back in the third inning, Jackson led off by drawing a walk, advanced on Gotay's single and came around on a sacrifice and a sacrifice fly. Don Taussig's double and James's second home run of the season, a shot over the scoreboard, accounted for the other two runs in the fourth inning.

So Jackson could afford to yield a three-run homer to ex-teammate Moryn. Bob Skinner and Dick Stuart had singled ahead of Moryn's blow in the seventh.

"My curve ball wasn't breaking enough in the late innings," Jackson said. "In fact, all but one of Pittsburgh's hits in the last few innings came on breaking stuff. I had a good fast ball."

As for Moryn's home run, Jackson observed, "I didn't want to give Moryn anything too good. I intended to bounce the ball to the plate and waste the pitch, but I didn't put the ball where I wanted to put it."

Three Hits—No Runs.

In the opener Simmons' double was followed by two-baggers by Gotay and Bill White for two runs in the third inning. In the fourth inning, Tim McCarver singled and was picked off first base. Simmons and Gotay singled with two out, but Joe Cunningham hit into a force play. So it was three hits, no runs in the inning.

Although the Cardinals collected 10 hits, five for extra bases, off Bob Friend in the first five innings, they could score just three runs. The other run came on Stan Musial's seventh home run of the season, a drive to the upper deck in right.

Shortstop Gotay, just recalled to fill in for ailing Julian Javier, was charged with three errors, but the third one perhaps should have been charged to relief pitcher Al Cicotte.

Cicotte was on hand for the Pirates' extra run in the eighth. Relieving with two on and nobody out, Cicotte struck out Stuart. Then on Don Hoak's grounder, White fired to second base for a force-out and Gotay threw to Cicotte covering first base. The throw got past Cicotte and a run scored.

"I should have been given the error because the ball hit the web of my glove," Cicotte said after the doubleheader and four-game series were split.

Gotay's Errors Hurt.

The Pirates picked up one run in the first inning on Bob Clemente's double and Stuart's single, and another in the second inning on Don Leppert's home run in his first time up in the majors. But the next two Pittsburgh runs were unearned because of a wild throw by Gotay on an attempted force play and a fumble by the kid from Puerto Rico.

Gotay, who had four hits for the doubleheader, showed a strong, but erratic arm. Another young newcomer, Warwick, also failed in the opener loss. After Ken Boyer walked and Musial singled him to third with one out in the eighth, Roy Face replaced Friend and got Warwick to bounce into a damaging double play. The Cardinals were just one run behind at the time.

Why didn't Hemus call on Carl Sawatski, a more experienced batter who swings lefthanded, to hit for Warwick, a righthanded batter? Sawatski hit a long fly the next inning.

"Warwick is a good hitter who hits righthanders well, and if I'm going to take him out for a pinch-hitter every time we get in a spot like that, I feel it's going to hurt the kid," Hemus said. "If I had to do it over tomorrow, I'd do the same thing."

Diving Catch . . . Almost . . . by Redbird Lillis

Second baseman BOB LILLIS of the Cardinals makes a great try for Pirate Bill Mazeroski's fly to right field in the third inning of the second game of Sunday's doubleheader at Pittsburgh's Forbes Field. Lillis,, however, fell to the ground, the ball rolled from his glove and Mazeroski was credited with a single. The Pirates won the opener, 5-3, but the Redbirds took the nightcap, 7-3.

Cards' Pitchers Show Perfect Control in 2 Battles With Pirates

PITTSBURGH, June 19—None of the Cardinal pitchers walked a batter in yesterday's doubleheader with the Pirates. The major league record for a twin-bill without walks for one team was set in 1933 when the Redbirds went 27 innings and failed to get a pass from Giant pitchers.

On that 1933 afternoon, Carl Hubbell beat the Cards, 1-0 in 18 innings and then Leroy Parmelee shut them out in nine, 1-0.

Curt Simmons, yesterday's first-game starter, never has allowed more than three earned runs in any of his 12 starts this season, but is saddled with a 2-6 record. He has lost by 2-1, 3-2 (twice), 4-3, 4-2 and 5-3.

Larry Jackson's victory in the second game came as a sort of Father's day present. He is the most-recent father on the club. His son, Michael, was born in Idaho 15 days ago and Jackson still has not seen the baby.

The Cardinals, idle today, will send Ray Sadecki and Bob Gibson against the first-place Reds in a twi-night doubleheader tomorrow in Cincinnati. Joey Jay will try for his ninth straight victory for the Reds in one of the contests.

Manager Solly Hemus again has changed his mind. He said he would give disappointing Ernie Broglio one more chance to start, Wednesday against the Reds, before sentencing him to the bullpen.

Broglio was warming up yesterday, but Hemus called on Bob Miller to retire the last man in the second game. Hemus has said Miller probably will replace Broglio as a starter if Ernie continues to slump.

Third baseman Don Hoak suffered a cut on the face and his sun glasses were shattered when a ball hit by Charley James bounced and struck him near the left eye. There was some swelling near the eye and Hoak left the game.

Bob Lillis made a sensational leap for Bill Mazeroski's blooper, but the ball bounced out of his glove as he fell and went for a single. . . . The Sunday crowd of 26,229 made the series total 70,841. . . . Ken Boyer was picked off first base by Clem Labine in the second game.

Boyer boosted his batting average to .318 and Musial climbed to .317. . . . Don Taussig, a .415 hitter over-all, is clubbing lefties at a .481 clip with 13 for 27. . . . Until Carl Warwick tripled for two runs in the second game, the batters in the No. 2 slot had a string of 19 official at-bats without a hit. Guilty, in addition to Warwick, were these No. 2 hitters: Lillis, Alex Grammas, James and Joe Cunningham.

The Cardinals' starting lineup in the second game had a total of 17 home runs. . . . Rookie catcher Don Leppert of Pittsburgh, recalled playing quarterback for Wabash College against Washington of St. Louis.

Leppert and Walt Moryn, both known as Moose, joined a growing colony of Pirate players with animal nicknames. Others are: Tiger Hoak, Ducky Schofield, Kitten Haddix, Quail Virdon, Dog, Skinner and Hawk Smith.—N. R.

Teammates Fight as Twins Lose

CHICAGO, June 19 (AP) — When a team loses 25 of 31 games, tempers are apt to flare and that's what happened with the Minnesota Twins yesterday in dropping a doubleheader to the Chicago White Sox, 4-3 and 10-7.

After the third inning of the second game Minnesota pitcher Camilo Pascual and teammate Bob Allison got into a fracas that caused some raised eyebrows.

The fight was brought to a quick end with out any blows being landed, according to Manager Cookie Lavagetto. It all started when Sox outfielder Minnie Minoso singled in the third. Minnie got a jump on Pascual in an attempt to steal second but was foiled when batter Al Smith fouled off the pitch.

Allison took a few steps toward the mound and shouted to Pascual to keep the runner closer to the base. Camilo reportedly said "okay." But Allison again told him to keep the runner close and Pascual said, "Okay, okay, you take care of first and I'll take care of the pitching."

Minosb eventually stole second and after the inning was over Pascual and Allison got into an argument which erupted into a fight, which was soon broken up. The 175-pound Pascual threw a bat at the 6-4, 218-pound Allison but missed. The bat hit coach Clyde McCullough in the stomach.

Midget Gaedel Dies; Batted For 1951 Browns

CHICAGO, June 19 (AP) — Edward Gaedel, the only midget ever to play in a major league baseball game, died yesterday. He was 36.

An inquest was ordered after a coroner's doctor discovered bruises on both knees and discoloration on the left side of Gaedel's face.

Gaedel, briefly a member of the old St. Louis Browns club, was discovered unconscious in his bed Sunday by his mother, Helen. An attempt by a fire department emergency squad to revive him failed.

The 3 feet, 7 inch Gaedel made baseball history — and touched off an hilarious dispute — when he marched to the plate at Sportsman's Park Aug. 19, 1951, to face a baffled Detroit pitcher, Bob Cain.

This appearance was one of the celebrated publicity stunts of Bill Veeck, then part owner of the Browns. The Detroit Tigers protested, but Veeck produced a contract showing the midget to be a member of the Browns squad.

Umpire Ed Hurley ruled that Gaedel was entitled to bat and ordered Cain to pitch. Cain missed the limited strike zone four times and Gaedel trotted to first with a base on balls. He left the game immediately for Jim Delsing, a pinch runner.

Veeck threatened to use Gaedel as a pinch batter every time his punchless Browns loaded the bases. But the threat never materialized. Will Harridge, then president of the American League disapproved Gaedel's contract and that was the end of the midget's "playing" career.

BUFFALO, N.Y., June 19 (AP)—Ronald Zinn of Army won the national A.A.U. 20-kilometer championship walk at Delaware Park Meadow yesterday, setting a course record of 1 hour, 41 minutes and 51 seconds.

Jack Mortland of the Ohio Track Club of Columbus placed second and won a berth with Zinn on the U.S. track team that will compete in Europe next month. Mortland's time was 1.42:17.

'Golf Week'

If Governor Dalton didn't declare this to be Golf Week in Missouri, someone just forgot to ask him.

The women's state amateur began today at the Molla country club in St. Joseph. And tomorrow the men's Missouri amateur will start at Joplin's Twin Hills, the same day the international Carling cup matches between the United States and Canada will be played at Old Warson here.

The one-day attraction, proceeds of which will go to the St. Louis Children's hospital, merits attention because not only is the cause worthy, but the golf figures to be topflight. And the strategy in four-ball two-man match play offers an interesting contrast.

With only the best ball counting on every hole, though the golfer plays out his own ball, one member of a twosome can gamble on each shot, the other play it safe.

Old Warson, with pins placed to put a premium on the shot onto the green, will offer a stern challenge to professionals Dow Finsterwald, Julius Boros, Paul Harney and Ernie Vossler, United States, and Al Balding, Stan Leonard, Bill Kerr and Alan Johnston, Canada.

Their amateur partners will be Nick Weslock, Keith Alexander, Phil Brownlee and Gary Cowan of Canada and Bill Campbell, Chuck Kocsis, Ed Meister and Bob Cochran of the United States.

Of Men and Maids

Cochran's presence here, rather than at Joplin, the tournament site for the first time, will take a bit of flavor from the men's state amateur. So, too, will the absence of big Jim Tom Blair.

Most interesting, though, will be Jim Jackson's efforts to overcome a slow-healing wrist injury and seek to match Jimmy Manion's record four state titles. Manion's mark has stood there as a lofty target for 34 years.

Indications are that this Missouri meet could be won by an outsider from out-state. They'll all have to qualify for it except Jack House, the Kansas City man, who nipped Jackson in the Jackson County final last year.

Although House will try to repeat in the men's amateur, the women's state definitely will have a new champion because Kansas City's Karen Schull will not defend at St. Joe.

Young Judy Torluemke, who won in 1959, and Kathy Fawcett, runnerup last year, will be among St. Louis players whose prospects of bringing the trophy back home are considered good. The likely threats include district champion Marcella Rose and three-time queen of the St. Louis links, Helen Conant.

Although the St. Louis area's chances are always good in both tournaments, the hometown girls would seem to have an even better chance than the men in this unusual week when Missouri's guys and dolls of golf compete at the same time.

Gene's Gem

Gene Littler, a golden boy of golf whose game turned to brass, came up with a putter that was platinum in the National Open, the final hours of which made interesting watching over KSD-TV.

You couldn't help feel a pang for Doug Sanders, who looked as though he was doing his Christmas-tree shopping early when he strayed off the fairway on No. 18, where he needed a birdie to tie Littler. The lanky Californian, by way of Georgia, and the University of Florida recovered beautifully from 175 yards out, then narrowly missed a tying 25-foot putt from just below the green.

Still, defeat for Littler would have been unfortunate because the San Diego State alumnus, who looks like baseball's Roy McMillan without his specs, came so close once before. That was in the 1954 Open, the year Ed Furgol won at Baltusrol. There, Gene missed a 10-foot putt that would have meant a playoff.

Like many another young athlete who is a natural, the 23-year-old rookie pro didn't know how he did it and got into trouble when he tried to find out. As Gene told Lindsey Nelson, he began to develop bad habits and take too much advice.

By the time Littler won the big one seven years later at Detroit—and Belleville's Bob Goalby was an impressive runnerup with Sanders on the Oakland Hills course—the former golden boy of golf no longer was regarded as "the next Ben Hogan or Sam Snead."

But, thanks to a putter that was as good as platinum, he's a most happy fella now. The U.S. Open IS something special and Littler sounded so much as though he meant it when he said, "I don't know how much I won—and I don't care."

Reds Widen N.L. Lead; Tigers Blanked by Ford, Still Top A.L

Cincy Wins 2; Braves Blast L.A.

PHILADELPHIA, June 19 (AP) —Talk about Dempsey and Firpo. Cincinnati has knocked the Phillies down a dozen times and the season isn't half over. If the referee doesn't step in soon, somebody had better call the cops.

Fred (close the gates of mercy) Hutchinson and his Reds have won 12 straight (of a season's series of 22) from the Phils. That must be the earliest series clinching since the old Cincinnati Red Stockings went all the way (won 55, tied one) in 1869.

As a result of their 7-2 and 10-0 victories over the Phils, the Reds increased their lead in the National League to 1½ games. San Francisco, a 7-2 winner over Chicago, is second and Los Angeles, beaten by Milwaukee 10-2, is two full games off the pace.

Pittsburgh's defending world champs are 5½ back after splitting two with St. Louis, winning the first, 5-3, and losing the second, 7-3.

Seven Hits by Freese.

A former Phil, Gene Freese, led the big Cincinnati attack with seven hits in eight trips and Vada Pinson, rolling along at a .500 clip in the last five games, chipped in with two hits in each game. Wally Post, another Phil, slammed two homers as Cincinnati slugged Phil pitching for a total of 26 hits in the two games.

Howie Nunn's fine rescue pitching, no runs in 7⅔ innings in relief of Jim Maloney, earned him his second victory. Jim O'Toole pitched a 10-hit shutout in the second game. Don Ferrarese and Chris Short were the losers.

Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda each hit three-run homers for San Francisco, giving Juan Marichal the victory over Don Cardwell. Dick Lemay, a rookie southpaw from the Texas League, gave up just two hits in four shutout relief innings for the Giants.

Five Homers by Braves.

Milwaukee hit five home runs in a romp over the Dodgers. Hank Aaron, Joe Adcock and Frank Thomas tagged loser Don Drysdale for successive homers in the third. Later Adcock hit another and Roy McMillan also homered. It was the Braves' eighth victory over Los Angeles in 12 meetings.

Drysdale went into the game with a string of 14 scoreless innings but it didn't last long. Don McMahon who relieved Carl Willey in the fifth was the winner.

The Dodgers had shut out the Braves, 3-0, Saturday night, when Stan Williams struck out 12 men and Daryl Spencer supplied the big scoring punch with a two-run homer. Williams limited the Braves to five hits in gaining his fifth victory against six defeats.

Spencer hit his homer in the fourth inning after Frank Howard singled to left. This was the third straight Saturday he had provided the Dodgers with the winning run on a homer.

Milwaukee starter Bob Buhl, who was lifted after seven innings, was charged with his fifth loss against three victories.

Plenty of Action on Play at First Base

Dodger center fielder WILLIE DAVIS (3) is retired at first base after hitting a slow roller between the pitcher and first base in a game with the Braves at Los Angeles. Pitcher CARL WILLEY (16) tosses to first sacker JOE ADCOCK for the putout. Braves second baseman FRANK BOLLING is at left. The umpire, FRANK SECORY, is behind Adcock. The Braves won, 10-2.

White Sox Whip Twins Twice; Indians Divide

DETROIT, June 19 (AP)—Ralph Houk looks more like a genius each time he pitches Whitey Ford. The stylish lefty who never won more than 19 when given plenty of rest already has won 11 under the new system of work every fourth day.

Ford beat an old New York nemesis yesterday when Houk's Yanks knocked out Frank Lary en route to a 9-0 victory. Whitey allowed only three hits and struck out 12, taking over the American League lead with 84. However, Luis Arroyo finished up when it was announced that Ford developed a blister on his pitching hand.

Despite Ford's pitching and Yankee slugging, Detroit clung to first place with a half-game margin over Cleveland. The Indians missed a chance to take over the lead when they lost to Baltimore, 8-5, in the second game of a doubleheader after winning the opener, 2-1, on Bob Nieman's pinch single. The Yanks in third place are one full game off the pace.

10 of 11 for Chicago.

The onrushing Chicago White Sox took two from the Minnesota Twins, 4-3 and 10-7, making it 10 victories in the last 11 games. The Twins have lost 25 of their last 31. Homers by Billy Goodman, his first since 1959, and Nellie Fox, his first of the year, did the job in the opener.

A total of 13 runs were scored in the ninth inning of the first Boston-Washington game, finally won by the Red Sox, 13-12. The Red Sox pushed across eight runs after two were out with the help of Jim Pagliaroni's grand slammer. Willie Tasby hit a homer with the bases full in the Washington half of the ninth. Pagliaroni also won the second game, 6-5, with a home run in the thirteenth.

Del Rice's pinch home run enabled Los Angeles to tie Kansas City in the ninth and his two-run homer in the eleventh was the winner for the Angels, 5-3.

The Yanks hit two homers and scored five runs off Lary before he was lifted in the third inning before a crowd of 44,459 that set a Detroit record of 147,712 for a three-game series. Johnny Blanchard hit two homers and Bill Skowron and Roger Maris (No. 24) one each. Ford now has won five in a row and seven out of eight for an 11-2 record.

Nieman Hits in Pinch.

Nieman's pinch hit gave Jim Perry the first game at Cleveland but an eight-run rally in the second inning, routing Gary Bell, earned the Orioles an even break. Cleveland had knocked out Jack Fisher and scored five runs in the first inning of that second game. Dick Hall pitched eight shutout innings in relief but the victory was given to Wes Stock who got the side out after Fisher flopped.

After unexpected homers by Goodman and Fox had won the first game for Chicago, the White Sox clubbed Camilo Pascual and two successors for 14 hits in the second. Turk Lown and Ray Herbert were the Chicago winners.

They had a wild day in Boston. In the opener Washington scored five in the ninth to open up a 12-5 lead only to have the Red Sox score eight after two were out. Pagliaroni broke up the second with a line drive homer into the screen, leading off the thirteenth inning against Tom Sturdivant. Pagliaroni's grand slammer was the big blow of the first-game rally. He had won Saturday's game over Washington with a pinch homer.

Rice was the whole show for the Angels, presenting Art Fowler with his first victory of the year. After his pinch homer in the ninth, Rice slammed a two-run blast over the left field fence in the eleventh. Both came off loser Norm Bass.

Columbia U. Star Named, Two Men Indicted in Basketball Fix

NEW YORK, June 19 (AP) — District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said today Fred Portnoy, a Columbia University star, agreed to shave points in four college basketball games last year. The Ivy Leaguer was the thirty-fourth player from 19 colleges involved in the spreading scandal.

Hogan also announced indictments against two men, one a Boston gambler named as the "bankroller" and the other a figure previously named in the scandal. The new indictment accused Philip Lacort of Boston and Joseph Green of the Bronx in five point-fixing deals last season. Hogan said both men were fugitives.

Hogan said Portnoy, a 19-year-old New Yorker who just finished his sophomore year, was to have received $1000 for each game but actually received only a total of $1140. He added that Portnoy testified before the New York County grand jury and received immunity.

$10,000 Reported Put Up.

Hogan said Lacort was well known in New England gambling circles and operated on the "syndicate level."

He identified Green, who has been named as a co-conspirator in two earlier indictments, as an associate of Aaron Wagman, a gambler who has been indicted twice in the scandal.

Lacort, accused of having put up $10,000 for five point-fixing deals engineered by Wagman, was charged with conspiracy and five counts of bribery. Green was charged with conspiracy and with having bribed Portnoy.

Hogan reported Green had given Portnoy $140 last summer and fall as spending money "to soften him up for the season," and $1000 for fulfilling his "contract" in the Columbia-Rutgers game played at New Brunswick, N.J., last Dec. 13.

Under the deal, Hogan continued, Columbia was to lose by at least 12 points. Columbia lost by 13, or by a score of 75-62.

Two Others Named.

Hogan said two others were named as co-conspirators — but not as co-defendants—in this indictment. The two allegedly brought Green and Portnoy together and acted as intermediaries between them.

They were identified as Arthur Mandel, 19, of New York, a former student at Bronx Community College, and Richard Khentigian, 22, of New York, a player on the University of Bridgeport's (Conn.) basketball team. During the past season, Mandel worked as a ball boy for the New York Knickerbockers of the professional National Basketball Association, Hogan said.

Hogan said Green gave Mandel $2100 for the Columbia-Rutgers game. Of the total Mandel was to keep $600 for himself, give $500 for Khentigian as the "pay off" for lining of Portnoy and the balance of $1000 was to go to the player, according to Hogan.

The District Attorney said Mandel, at Portnoy's instructions, placed the money in a safe deposit vault in Mandel's name.

Hogan said one indictment named as co-conspirators three men previously indicted, and Paul Walker, of New York. Wagman and former Alabama basketball players Jerry Vogel and Daniel Quindazzi were the other three named as co-conspirators.

Charges Against Lacort.

Lacort, indicted on five counts of bribery and one of conspiracy, was charged with:

Bribing Peter Kelly, University of Connecticut captain with $750 to work the Connecticut-Colgate game last March 1.

Paying Jerry Graves, a Mississippi State player, $1500 for a point-shaving deal in the game with the University of Mississippi, March 4.

Offering $1500 each to Edward Test and Richard Fisher, both University of Tennessee players, to shave points in a game with the University of Kentucky, March 4. Hogan said the players were "unable to deliver" and were not paid.

Making a $1250 bribe offer to Ed Bowler of LaSalle to work the Duquesne game March 8. Hogan said Bowler didn't play in the game but got $750 anyway.

Kelly, Graves, Test, Fisher and Bowler had been named previously in earlier indictments.

Rinaldi Receives Hero's Welcome

ROME, June 19 (UPI)—Italian boxer Giulio Rinaldi returned home to a hero's welcome yesterday—despite his loss to aging Archie Moore in their light-heavyweight title fight at Madison Square Garden.

When he stepped off the plane from New York, 500 fans swarmed around the Italian. He was cheered and lifted into the air.

Rinaldi, who comes from nearby Anzio, said "I make a mistake by taking such a part in publicity at Madison Square Garden. In New York there was a tremendous heat that was suffocating, and I went into the ring already tired."

Stock Car Runs Wild With Driver Dead or Dying

CALHAN, Colo., June 19 (AP)—Its driver dead or dying at the wheel, a stock car racer ran wild for 10 minutes, crashing time and again through a barbed-wire fence yesterday at a dirt race track here.

Not until the car plunged into a dirt embankment were spectators able to pull the body of Charles Bannister, 39 years old, from the wreckage.

Bannister, a veteran Colorado Springs racer, was married and the father of six children, the youngest born two weeks ago.

He brought the modified Chevrolet to the flat, dirt track here for a trial run in advance of the Pikes Peak hill climb July 4 at Colorado Springs. Two friends and an unidentified youth watched him make speed runs.

Bannister's car was exceeding 50 miles an hour on the straightaway when the driver lost control at a turn. The car, gaining speed, followed a circular path and ripped three times more through the fence. Then it straightened, crashed through another fence and plunged into the embankment.

GARDENA, Calif., June 19 (UPI)—Race car driver Steve Searouk of Burbank, Calif., died yesterday of injuries suffered Saturday when he lost control of his racer in the big car main event at Ascot Stadium. Searouk, 23, was in the eighth lap of the race when he lost control of the car and it flipped over eight times.

Mick Adds Another Trophy as North All-Stars Blank South, 4-0

All Runs Unearned; 4 Hurlers Share Win

By Dave Lipman

Al Mick, manager of Kutis North, had won almost every championship possible in the Muny Baseball Association before the start of this season, including four Muny playoff titles and nine league championships. Yesterday he had the Muny All-Star game trophy to add to an already overcrowded trophy case.

Mick's North squad, taking advantage of South fielding lapses and outstanding hurling by four pitchers, won the third annual All-Star game, 4-0, in the semi-privacy of Busch Stadium, whose rows of seats were broken by only 600 spectators.

While the North was scoring its four unearned runs and getting 10 hits, the South was able to get only six hits off Don Mumm, Norm Wiedenhoffer, Ed Tolliver and Dick Loeser. They fanned 10.

Wiedenhoffer Wins.

Wiedenhoffer got credit for the victory, giving up three hits in his two-inning stint. He had followed Mumm, who gave up only one hit and fanned six in the first three innings. Tolliver and Loeser finished with two shutout innings apiece.

The North broke on top in the fourth inning when Doug Wellman walked and scored all the way from first when third baseman John Birgie let the relay on Tom Halton's single get away from him.

In the eighth, Tolliver singled, Rick Lessman singled and Harry Nelson's attempted sacrifice was misplayed by pitcher Fred Blasberg, allowing two more runs to score.

RBI For Vitale.

As a final touch, Pete Vitale, who had not had a run batted in all season, singled home Nelson.

Kutis's four-game winning streak in the Missouri-Illinois Ban Johnson League was halted yesterday at Brentwood when KMOX took the second game of a doubleheader, 4-1, behind the two-hit pitching of Jack Hennessy. Kutis had won the first game, 6-5, on a four-run ninth inning rally. The winning marker in that rally was driven across by pitcher Bruce Mills, who gave up nine hits in going the distance.

Other league contests saw Collinsville's Ironworkers, defending league champions, take two from Twin Cities, 2-1 and 6-3 and run its league-leading record to 5-0, and J. B. Boys Club also won a doubleheader, 4-2 and 7-4, over Parkway.

In the second game of the Collinsville doubleheader, the Ironworkers' Dick Lirklider pitched a three-hitter and Mel Patton drove in both of the winner's runs.

Giesler - Jorgen, which has shared or held the County League lead since the season openers, side-tracked the title hopes of one of its closest pursuers and Creve Coeur helped out by dulling those of another in yesterday's action.

The league - leaders boosted their record to 8-1 with an 11-7 victory over Vigus, now 6-3, and Creve Coeur upset Ballwin, 7-3. Ballwin also is 6-3 now.

Jim Powell and Joe Portis each banged out three hits to lead the Hawks to a 14-7 Tandy League victory over the 89ers, but the Braves still maintained their half-game lead over the Hawks, thanks to a forfeit by the Indians. Bud Henley's four RBI's led the Browns to a 16-5 decision over the Corsairs.

Two for One in All-Star Game

TODD SICKEL of the North squad (at bat) fouls out to catcher GENE MOORE of the South, who then tagged out base runner HERBERT WELLS for an unassisted doubleplay on a suicide squeeze in the third inning of the Muny Baseball Association All-Star game at Busch Stadium. The North won, 4-0.

Buente Hurls Mercers Into First Place

Mercers coupled Jack Buente's six-hit, 4-2 victory over Troy with Collinsville's 8-3 decision over McAteers yesterday to take first place in the Blue Division of the Southwestern Illinois Intercity Traveling Baseball League.

The Mercers are 5-3 and the McAteers 4-3. Collinsville's triumph enabled the Boosters to remain a half-game behind Moose Lodge, 13-4 victor over winless Maryville, in the Red Division. Carpenter defeated Pocahontas, 7-2, and Granite City Sacred Heart stopped White City, 3-2.

Buente had to wait until the eighth inning before he got his margin of victory. With the score tied 2-2, the Mercers put together a triple by Garry Burmeister, a walk, an error and a wild pitch for two runs and the 4-2 margin.

Moose Lodge's Cliff Eckels pitched the victory over Maryville and also drove in three runs. Teammate Andy Alderich also had three RBIs.

35 St. Louis Women In Qualifying Play Of State Golf Meet

By Harold Tuthill
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 19—Judy Torluemke of Triple A Club, St. Louis, led the early finishers in the qualifying round of the women's state golf championship with a 74 score. Other St. Louisans included: Mrs. George K. Conant, Country Club, and Marcella Rose, Crystal Lake, each 76; Cathy Fawcett, Norwood, 86.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 19—A smaller than usual field, without a defending champion, who also was the medalist last year, teed off today in the Women's Missouri Golf Association tournament.

The 120 entrants will play the 18-hole qualifying round at Moila today, with the low 32 moving into championship match-play tomorrow.

Karen Schull of Kansas City, defending champion, who won the 1960 medal with 72, passed up the state tournament to play in the women's collegiate competition at Ann Arbor, Mich.

That left 16-year-old Judy Torluemke of Triple A as the heir apparent, because she won the title in 1959, beating none other than Karen Schull. Mrs. Robert (Maxine) Johnson of Kansas City, two-time winner (1951 and '57) also was on hand to provide competition for Judy and the other 35 St. Louis representatives.

Chief Mound City contenders appear to be district champion Marcella Rose and Mrs. George Conant Jr., who started out together this morning as well as the golfing Fawcetts—Kathleen and Nancy. Mrs. Richard Dalton and Mrs. Stanley Handelman are others from St. Louis who will bear watching.

Kathy Fawcett was last year's finalist, losing to Miss Schull, 9-8. Miss Fawcett defeated Judy Torluemke, 1 up in 19 holes, and Miss Schull sidelined Mrs. Johnson, 4 and 2, in the semifinals.

After the qualifying round, the field will be divided into flights. First-round losers will compete in a consolation round and the tournament will end with a 36-hole championship final.

15-Year-Olds Reach Net Semifinals

Top-seeded players in the 15-year-old class advanced to the semifinals in yesterday's play in the Junior District tennis tournament on the Washington University courts.

Larry Niemeyer, No. 1, defeated Bill Horwitz, 6-3, 6-4; Frank Conner eliminated George Toburen, 6-0, 6-1; Richard Hudlin won from Andy Wilson, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2 and Brian Smith trimmed Spencer Burke, 6-2.

Results in the other divisions:

Girls 13-year-old division: Andrea Western defeated Pamela Crow, 6-0, 6-0; Tina Shapleigh won from Becky Wells, 6-1, 6-0.
Girls 15-year-old class—Pat Wendler defaulted to Maryann Eisel and Barbara Krueger eliminated Arlene Mertz, 6-0, 6-2.

Miller Pitches and Bats Foulds to Win

Charley Miller of the Foulds in the Khoury Baseball Association's Missouri Senior League apparently isn't a pitcher who needs much hitting support, if any, from his teammates.

Yesterday he enabled his team to remain in a first-place tie in the league by stopping the Morrells, 5-0, on three hits while striking out 21. And his fourth-inning home run was all the scoring he really needed. The victory left the Foulds with a 3-1 record, the same as that of the Badens, who defeated the North Side Yanks, 5-3.

In other action, Ted Shellhardt kept St. Louis Photo abreast of defending Khoury playoff champion Waterson in the University City Senior League by pitching his team's fourth straight victohy, 6-1 over Florissant. Waterson defeated the Eagles, 5-4. The league-leaders each have 4-1 records.

Bill Young Wins Horse Shoe Title

Bill Young won the St. Louis Open horseshoe tournament at Fairground Park by sweeping seven straight games. Richard Wedel was second and Bill Womser third. In Class B, Art Schroeder took the title, also with a seven-game sweep.

Manchester Girls Win

Although they were held to two hits, the Manchester girls softball team gained a 2-1 victory over the Livington, Ill. Hawks yesterday. Saturday, Manchester split two games with the Kansas City Dons, winning the opener, 3-0, and losing the second, 1-0, in 10 innings.

E. Germans Ask Olympic Recognition

ATHENS, June 19 (UPI)—East Germany today asked the International Olympic Committee (IOC) for recognition.

The East German Olympic Committee requested the IOC to take up the provisional recognition it has had since 1945 on the basis of a rewriting of East German Olympic rules.

Otto Mayer, general secretary of the IOC, said East Germany had not been recognized previously because some of its rules were political in nature and thus rejected by the IOC.

The East German representatives said they would forward to the IOC documents to prove that politics had been eliminated from their Olympic rules. If the documents arrived here in time the IOC might consider the request, Mayer said.

The IOC, in its final full session this morning, discussed the question of refugees from one nation participating as Olympic athletes of another nation.

Mayer said the IOC was told this morning that the International Athletic Federation had agreed to change its rules to give refugees a chance in the future.

The IOC recognized Cambodia as the 98th Olympic nation. It turned down Somalia, Gibraltar, Mongolia, and Saudi Arabia and left El Salvador suspended because of non-conformity of rules.

N.B.A. Votes on Taking Liston From Ratings

Joe Petronella, chairman of the rating committee of the National Boxing Association, is taking a poll of the executive committee and the rating committee of that organization, as to whether Sonny Liston should be removed from the ratings.

Liston was recently arrested in Philadelphia on several charges and is awaiting a hearing scheduled for June 30.

He had been rated by the N.B.A. as No. 1 challenger for Floyd Patterson's title in the heavyweight division.

In his letter to commissioners, Petronella said that the No. 1 rating is the door to the heavyweight title and he wants the commissioners to decide whether Liston should be removed from the list until he has proved himself "a good citizen."

Charles W. Pian, chairman of the Missouri Commission and a member of the N.B.A. rating committee, said he would vote against action against Liston at this time.

"I have written Petronella that I didn't think any action should be taken, at least until disposition of the charges against Liston in Philadelphia," Pian said.

St. Anthony Loses To St. Margaret

St. Anthony, defending C.Y.C. champion and one of the few unbeaten teams left in senior league play before yesterday's contests, had its six-game winning streak rudely halted by St. Margaret, 13-6, in a Bishop Cody League contest. St. Margaret is 4-2.

St. Pius and Seven Holy Founders narrowed the Bishop Winkelmann Senior League baseball race to two teams by knocking off St. Agnes and St. Francis, respectively. St. Pius won its fifth game in six starts, 7-4, and Seven Holy Founders boosted its record to 4-2 with a 14-4 triumph.

HUNGARY SENTENCES 12 ROMAN CATHOLICS

BUDAPEST, June 19 (AP) — Twelve Roman Catholics were sentenced to prison today on charges of plotting the overthrow of Hungary's Communist regime.

The heaviest term—12 years—was that of the Rev. Istvan Tabody, charged with high treason as well as anti-state activities.

Although tried in secret before a separate court, Father Tabody was brought together with his companions to hear sentence passed. Details of his case were not disclosed.

Sentenced to eight years was Oedoen Barlay, accused as one of the leaders of a so-called Christian Front organization.

The presecution asserted that all the accused either belonged to or had knowledge of the organization with the intention of working to replace the Communist regime with a Christian republic.

The indictment said they illegally trained a Catholic youth corps to assume leading posts in the event of a change in government.

Barlay was held for 20 months in 1958 for alleged anti-state activity. This together with the five months he has been under detention this year, will be deducted from his sentences.

The Rev. Odon Lenard, given a 7½-year sentence, was the only one of the 11 publicly tried to plead not guilty. He was released from prison in 1953 after serving part of a six-year term for alleged anti-state activities.

In the six-day trial, Father Lenard maintained he had committed no crime and had only sought to teach the scriptures.

Others sentenced were:

Laszlo Emodi, 7 years; Endre Foldi, engineer and one-time theological student, 6½ years; Dr. Laszlo Ikvai, 6 years; the Rev. Geza Havass, named as a successor to Barlay in top leadership, 5½ years; Gyula Merenyi, former Cistercian monk, 4½ years; Gabor Nobilis, statistician, 4 years; Miklos Hontvari, mining engineer and former monk, 3½ years; the Rev. Gyoergy Kolley, 3 years; and Dr. Zoltan Galdi, physician, 2½ years.

Soviet Aid

about five billion dollars, about 70 per cent of it economic and the rest military. Actual deliveries have amounted to an average of less than $200,000,000 a year.

The proposed United States foreign aid bill for the next fiscal year alone would allocate $2,890,000,000 for economic aid and $1,885,000,000 for military assistance.

IT IS THE OPINION of some experts here of Western and neutral countries that proportionately the Communist bloc has reaped greater propaganda benefits than the United States.

Communist aid often is tied more closely to political objectives, although there are no obvious strings attached. The Communists make greater propaganda flourishes through each phase of their aid programs, from the negotiating to the supplying stages. Dramatic impact is achieved through careful selection of projects, such as the giant Aswan Dam in the United Arab Republic and the Bhilai iron and steel plant in India.

The nature of the Soviet projects also usually requires Soviet training of native technicians and workers. For the Bhilai plant, more than 700 Indian engineers and workers were trained in the Soviet Union. Several thousand Indian construction workers were trained on site by Soviet specialists.

LIKE THE U.S., the Soviet Union is having its share of unhappy experiences with aid recipients. Moscow is learning that an aid program does not insure the favorable orientation of a country's politics.

This is the case with the United Arab Republic and Iraq, where the Soviet Union has invested heavily and now finds the attitudes of the governments decidedly cool.

Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, has complained angrily after hostile propaganda attacks in the U.A.R. press. It recalled the expressions of gratitude by President Gamal Abdel Nasser for Soviet aid.

According to Soviet figures more than one-third of all the foreign investments for the five-year plan of the U.A.R. is being provided by Moscow.

DESPITE THESE disappointments, Khrushchev apparently is pressing ahead with the aid programs for these two countries and expanding the bloc programs generally at a rapid clip.

The importance attached to the aid programs can be judged by the fact that a country as hard pressed economically as Communist China has since 1954 allocated almost $400,000,000. The east European countries have provided something less than a billion dollars, and the rest of the five billion dollars earmarked up to 1960 came from the Soviet Union.

The Soviet people feel the sacrifices involved in their aid program more directly than the United States public feels that of their own aid program. It is inevitable in this country, where it will be another 10 years before each family will be able to have an apartment of its own, that there has been some grumbling about the spending for countries as distant as Cuba and Guinea.

presidential palace, which is the seat of government, cannot be photographed without special permission, which I am still trying to get.

THERE IS much argument between the press and the diplomatic corps. Several anti-Trujillo personalities have vanished, and the press wants to publish their names. The diplomats disagree, saying the present regime must not be pushed too hard too fast, because it might simply cancel even the little it is doing in the way of opening itself to public scrutiny, and because the families of the personalities in question might suffer.

The families, in fact, prefer not to have names mentioned. It does not pay to make a fuss. Some time ago, before the assassination, three lovely girls, the Mirabal sisters, raised an outcry because their husbands had vanished. The three sisters died when their jeep crashed over a precipice. No diplomatic mission here believes this was an accident.

The generalissimo is dead, and his chief of police, Col. Johnny Abbes Garcia, has been sent to Tokyo as first secretary of the embassy there. But in the entourage of the generalissimo's son are men whose names strike terror in the hearts of Dominicans. These men have such nicknames as "Razor-Blades" and "Eyes," alluding to the former's favorite instrument and the latter's favorite point of attack.

It is not certain whether Trujillo Jr. has kept these men, or whether he rules by their leave. They are the leaders of the Praetorian Guard, and since the old Caesar is dead, any of these feared captains could be plotting for succession.

THE PLOTTING would not be easy, and would take time, partly because it was old Trujillo's policy to keep his army dispersed in small detachments around the country. No general could easily concentrate a force large enough to challenge the center of power.

So far these men who are at the center are holding together. None of them has a national reputation. Some of the men involved in the assassination plot (such as Gen. Jose Roman Fernandez, the former defense minister), might have developed a following, but they were struck down before they could follow up the murder.

The United States is using its influence to put pressure on the men now in control to relinquish power quickly. Some Latin American missions give warning that if this pressure continues the men at the center will tighten their grip rather than loosen it, or will fight it out among themselves, destroying the present apparatus of government before a new one can be built.

"Then the road would be open for a Castro-style take-over," a Latin American ambassador said. But the United States seems in a hurry. There is a steady influx of earnest, tough, mysterious young Americans. The press calls them the Y.M.C.A., which rhymes with the initials of another famous agency that didn't get much credit out of the Cuban affair.

thenew military regime in Seoul and its future prospects will be of interest to Ikeda and his party.

THE JAPANESE are likely, also, to want to lay the groundwork for some form of Tokyo-Washington co-operation in development aid to Asia that would avoid competition and duplication between the efforts of the two countries.

In connection with southeast Asian problems, Ikeda is expected to ask for an assessment here of the meaning of developments in Laos and what shape United States policy is taking toward the remainder of the area.

The problem of Okinawa will figure in the Ikeda-Kennedy talks. The United States continues to occupy the island which it regards as an essential link in the chain of far Pacific defenses. It has granted that Japan retains residual sovereignty over Okinawa and its smaller neighboring islands but has so far opposed Tokyo's efforts to assert that sovereignty in subtle forms, such as flying Japanese flags on public buildings and establishing the Japanese legal code on the islands.

Washington is expected to listen with sympathy to a request by Ikeda that Japan be sponsored for full membership in the proposed Organization of Economic Co-operation and Development. The United States is believed ready to back Japan's bid but to urge patience on Tokyo in view of opposition from some European states.

Japanese-United States trade, including problems of quotas, will certainly be discussed. Japan's desire to expand sales in the United States market and United States fears about low-cost competition, particularly in the textile field, will be considered.

From Washington, Ikeda and his party will go to New York and then on to Canada, Chicago, and Honolulu.

Cuba

to further increase the vast network of police informers.

Castro told the visiting newspaper men that the committees were responsible for the arrests of the bulk of suspects in the mass detentions during the invasion week.

HE ESTIMATED that between 15,000 and 20,000 persons were arrested, but that less than 2 per cent of them are still held. He said that less than 5000 prisoners have been in Cuban prisons, before the invasion, on political charges.

This tremendous police apparatus is vital in keeping at a minimum any new counter-revolutionary activities, but the post-invasion consolidation of the regime's power comes not only from widespread fear.

Impressions gathered during a short visit here this week suggests that Premier Castro enjoys a support among peasants and workers that is perhaps even greater than before the invasion. Castro's own estimate is that only 5 per cent of the population is actively opposed to him, but all qualified observers here agree that it is a vast exaggeration.

The ranks of his active opponents are being reduced much by large-scale departures from the country and by the resigned acceptance by others since the fiasco of the invasion.

CONSCIOUS of his position, Castro exudes confidence as he moves ahead with his political and economic plans, edging as close as possible to the Soviet world.

Already far-reaching before the invasion, Cuba's relations with the Communist countries are being rapidly expanded in all directions.

Last week, 300 young Soviet farm experts arrived in Cuba and were distributed in groups of five in co-operatives and collectives across the island.

Simultaneously, 1000 young Cuban farmers went to the Soviet Union for a year of language and agricultural studies.

In a conversation here, Castro said that, not counting the Soviet farmers group, there are several hundred Soviet bloc technicians now working in Cuba. He said that the Chinese Communist contingent is very small.

Castro also said that Cuba planned to purchase Soviet jet and turboprop transports for Cubana Airlines domestic and foreign routes. He said that jet airfields would soon be built in Havana and other Cuban cities.

OTHER VISIBLE signs of Cuba's close ties to the Soviet bloc include Czech and East German industrial and cultural exhibits here, posters announcing the "Soviet Cinerama" at a Havana movie theater and the public sale of metal red flags with the hammer and sickle for lapel wear.

When a Soviet ship brought the farm technicians last week, Soviet paper flags were being distributed to the crowd along with Cuban pennants.

But with this full identification with the Soviet bloc, Castro was acting this week as if he wanted to explore the possibility of better relations with the United States.

He accorded vast personal attention to a group of United States newspapermen who came here last Tuesday accompanying the four-man group negotiating for an exchange of the rebel prisoners held in Cuba for tractors.

SPENDING long hours in talks with them on every conceivable subject and guiding them on a tour of the invasion beaches, Castro let drop many hints of his interest in moving out of "the dead point" in the relationship with the United States.

He was quick to say, however, that any negotiation — he had been specifically asked whether he would meet with President Kennedy — would require the willingness of Washington to "give up all attempts to destroy our revolution."

Castro made it clear that the United States would have to accept the new status quo in the Caribbean as the basis for negotiations, otherwise "we shall continue to stand ready to repulse new aggressions."

In contrast with the violent attacks on the United States and Mr. Kennedy by Cuban propaganda, Castro carefully avoided any hostile remarks about the President in talks with the newspapermen here. But, at one point in the talks, he asked the reporters: "Do you honestly think that the United States had the moral right to help to attack Cuba?"

Does Overtipping Offend the Help?

PARIS, June 19.

JAMES MICHENER, the author of "Hawaii" and "Tales of the South Pacific," writes us from Seville:

"I have another one of those guidebooks which warns that waiters and maids will be offended if you tip them more than is customary.

"Since I haven't yet met one of those gentle souls, I wonder if you could please seek one out and instruct us as to how offended he is, by what percentage of each overtip?"

ART BUCHWALD

Michener has put his finger on a very serious problem: How we can keep from offending European help by overtipping them.

So, at his suggestion, we decided to interview a few offended hotel employes in Paris on this touchy subject.

In spite of the fact that most European help are offended at overtipping, very few of them will talk about it. But with our connections we were able to discuss it with employes in several key Paris places.

At the Ritz, in the employes' dining room, we saw a chambermaid crying her eyes out, while several of the other maids tried to comfort her.

We went up to her. One of the chambermaids was saying: "It's all right, Josette. It's all right."

"What happened?" we asked.

One of the chambermaids said: "I'll tell you what happened, Monsieur. An American woman gave Josette a $20 tip and six pairs of nylon stockings."

Josette, when she heard the words, cried even harder.

"Maybe the American woman didn't know that the service was included in the hotel bill," we said.

"Didn't know?" the chambermaid spat out. "And what about poor Josette? What about her feelings? Doesn't she have any? This is the second time it's happened to her this week. How much can a woman stand?"

Josette calmed down a little and, between sobs, told her story: "The lady asked me to wash and iron her lingerie, which I was happy to do. One night she was cold so I brought her a hot water bottle; another time she asked me to sew an evening dress for her. Monsieur, I assure you I did all these things without hesitation. There was nothing I wouldn't do for that woman. And then what did she do when she left?" Josette broke down again. "She overtipped me!"

"Why didn't you give her the money back?" we asked.

"I tried to," Josette said. "But she thought I was doing it because it wasn't enough, so she gave me the six pairs of nylons besides. I was so upset I ran out of the room. Oh, I'm so ashamed."

Everyone started giving us dirty looks so we left the dining room.

We went to another hotel to talk to the concierge, who admitted someone offended him at least four times a day during the tourist season.

"Just this morning a client, a man whom I have known for years, told me he couldn't get on a train to Cannes and asked me if I knew anyone who could do it. I made a few calls and managed to get him the best accommodations available. And what was my thanks? He gave me $10. Five dollars would have been plenty for such a service, so you can imagine how I felt. I have pride, Monsieur, and I will not forget. The next time this person asks a service of me I will tell him to go to the devil and take his $10 tips with him."

We found a taxi driver who said the reason he doesn't accept tourists as fares any more is that he had been offended once too often by being given a 25 per cent tip instead of the normal 10 to 15 per cent tip. "The French," he said, "are the only ones who have never offended me."

Ann Landers

Something to Bang On

DEAR ANN LANDERS: That was a mighty strange answer you gave to the mother whose signature was "Worn Out."

She wrote that her child was destructive—broke furniture, knocked plaster off the wall and tore up everything he got his hands on. She couldn't take him to the homes of friends or relatives unless she virtually chained him to the porch. You told her the child sounded disturbed and suggested that she take him to a specialist.

ANN LANDERS

In this day and age it seems stylish to treat every personality irregularity as a symptom of emotional illness. It's downright fashionable to be in treatment. Did it ever occur to you that the child might just need something to bang on?

The minister of our church plays the xylophone beautifully. If he hadn't entered the clergy he could make an excellent living as a professional musician. He has often said that his musical training was the result of his destructiveness as a child. He, too, tore up everything in sight. His parents decided he needed something to pound on—so they bought him a xylophone.

The instrument is fairly expensive but it's a lot cheaper than a psychiatrist. Why not recommend it to more "Worn Out Mothers"? L. A. READER.

Dear Reader: Thanks for an interesting letter. Others wrote along the same lines. One father said his son was an incorrigible until he bought him a set of drums. Others had similar success with accordions. Xylophones, drums and accordions may serve as useful outlets for aggressions, but when a mother writes that her child is excessively destructive, punitive to other children and that discipline doesn't make a dent, I suggest a specialist. If the doctor recommends music lessons that's fine with me. But I recommend a doctor.

DEAR ANN: This is a very busy day for me but I can't do anything until I say a few words to "Emancipated Ella." She's the gal who got mad because you said nice women don't hang around bars alone. Poor Ella said she hated to go home and look at four walls every evening. Her husband traveled—remember?

Just what kind of company does she think she's going to meet in bars? I don't care whether Ella lives in a big city or a small town—the men who decorate the gin-mills are all alike. And who does she think THEY are hoping to meet? Whistler's mother?

I laughed when I read Ella's cry of outraged innocence. She said if a jerk made a pass she gave him the fish eye. Yeah? If she doesn't want passes why doesn't she go home after work? AC.-DC.

New Look at the Twirl of a Brush

By Reba and Bonnie Churchill

1. Ever wanted to change your hair style with the snap of your fingers? Stylist Edie Panda does this every day at CBS-TV. Continually facing a TV deadline, she's devised a series of "minute coiffures," that gives actress Erika Peters (left) a new look with each twirl of the brush. The secret is a basic set with top hair rolled back, and sides and back turned under.

2. When the script called for an All-American collegian look, Erika's hair was promptly brushed back from her forehead. The sides were divided into three horizontal "layers" and back-combed into waves. A quick smoothing of the top strands and the addition of a perky side bow completed the transformation from one style to another.

3. "A glamorous European," was the description of Erika's role in the TV series, "Malibu Run." This time, bangs were tumbled forward (as shown in sketch), separated with the tip of the comb, and draped to brush brows. Front and crown were back-combed to provide height, while the sides were pressed flat to achieve lean facial shape.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
3 ♥	3 NT	Pass	5 ♦
Pass	Pass	Dble

Opening lead — queen of hearts.

IT CANNOT BE SAID that all members of the fair sex underbid, if we are to accept as evidence this hand played in the women's world championship last year in Turin, Italy. The United Arab Republic won the event in a surprise victory.

The deal occurred in the match between Switzerland and Great Britain. The Swiss West opened at the first table with a preemptive bid of three hearts and North (Mrs. Gordon) over-called with three notrump.

As played conventionally by the British pair, this bid requested South (Mrs. Fleming) to name a suit. Mrs. Fleming, looking at a hand much better than she might have had, showed her strength by jumping to five diamonds. The Swiss East, pleased by this development, doubled.

Mrs. Fleming played the hand perfectly and succeeded in going down only two—300 points.

At the second table, the British West also opened with three hearts. North adopted a conservative attitude and passed, and East, to muddy the waters, bid four hearts, knowing full well that the contract could hardly be made, but hoping to block South out of the bidding.

This effort was not successful in the way it was intended because South, undaunted by a shortage of high cards, came forth with five diamonds.

West passed, and North, having maintained a discreet silence up to this point, could not restrain herself any longer and went to six diamonds.

East was firmly of the opinion that this contract could not be made and therefore doubled. East's view of the matter turned out to be indubitably correct, and the Swiss declarer, playing the hand somewhat less skillfully than Mrs. Fleming had played it, went down four—700 points.

The result was that the British team gained 400 points on the deal, with all eight players bidding their hands up to the hilt—and then some. Let it not be said that the ladies lack courage!

That Globe-Trotting Trip

By Robert Peterson

A TRIP AROUND the world is the crown jewel of earthly travels. And anyone alive to the importance of living will save and earmark his pennies for a globe-circling voyage before departing this sphere. It may sound like a costly venture, but it can be done on comfortable ships for less than $1000.

The newest trick in securing bargain basement fares is to have your travel agent work out the voyage via a new system known as "Interchange." Under this plan, some two dozen foreign steamship lines co-operate to grant lower fares on the individual legs of a round-the-world trip—provided the traveler uses the facilities of interchange members all along the way.

Freighter travel costs a little more, but is still in the bargain category and is enormously popular with retirees. Most freighters take four months to circle the globe and the cost reduces to about $12 a day—including meals—which is not much more than it costs many people to stay at home.

I visited a typical freighter in New York harbor the other day and walked up the gangplank as a bright yellow tractor destined for Yokohama was being hoisted onto the cargo-packed deck.

ROBERT PETERSON

"We take just a dozen passengers," said the slender, sunburned captain who escorted me around. "Sometimes I think they're more trouble than they're worth. But they give us a little extra revenue and add to the pleasure of the trip for me and my 12 officers."

He showed me a typical stateroom with its twin beds, a dresser and a full bath. It wasn't fancy, but it was spotlessly clean and considerably nicer than a lot of hotel rooms I've encountered.

The dining room was freshly painted in greens and yellows. "We feature American cooking," said the captain. "No gourmet foods but solid fare, such as pot roast and spareribs—the kind most families have.

"The passengers spend most of their time in these lounges," he said, gesturing toward two cozy sitting rooms banked with book shelves, "or out on the decks."

I asked which of the 15 ports they visit are most popular. "I guess the Indian ports top the list. Passengers love the two weeks we spend in Bombay and Calcutta. Kobe and Hong Kong are popular, too.

"Most of our passengers are retirees with plenty of time. We require a medical certificate from those past 65, as we haven't a doctor aboard. But I'm glad to say that in all the years I've captained this ship we've never had a passenger get seriously ill."

Here's hoping that trip around the world is soon within reach of every American. We live but once, and should make every effort to get a personal look at the faraway peoples and places of our wonderful planet.

How to Fix It Yourself

By Hubbard Cobb

You can start out drying out a damp basement just by getting rid of a lot of the junk in it. Not only does junk impede the movement of air through the basement but it also absorbs moisture during wet weather and adds it to the basement air during dry weather. So get rid of those piles of old magazines, books, rugs, carpets, stuffed furniture and anything else like it that is absorbent.

You also want to get rid of any piles of ashes, soot or dirt that may be about. You can be pretty sure that the more stuff you can remove from the basement, the drier it will be.

The next step is to open up some of the basement windows and you may find that this will take a little work because chances are they haven't been opened since the house was built. Get them all open if possible, and be sure that it will be possible to close them in wet weather.

Clear out plants, shrubs, leaves and other debris from in front of the windows so that fresh air can flow easily through them and that sunlight can also reach the area. Fresh air and sunlight are as good for basements as they are for us humans.

Jack Rice

Veteran of Auto's Age of Steam

WE WERE in Mr. Vanderbilt's private railroad car, admiring his bathtub. Mr. Vanderbilt wasn't there. The car was built for the Vanderbilts in 1905 and carried them around the country for years but now I reckon the Vanderbilts mostly fly or drive or stay home. The railroad car is parked in the Museum of Transport's yards on Barfetts Station road and thousands of tourists pass through it and marvel to see how the rich kept clean on the road 50 years ago, before motels.

JACK RICE

I'd like to see a ring around Vanderbilt's bathtub for authenticity, a souvenir of the rich. A ring of gold dust would do it.

"Cinder dust, you mean," a tourist said. "I rode a sleeper back from California in 1910 and I want to tell you, when I got up mornings I took half a bucket of cinders out of the berth with me. I stayed cleaner on the trip out there, driving a White Steamer cross-country."

The tourist turned some heads with that last sentence. Vanderbilt's tub was a silent antique but the tourist was a talking one. The Museum guide thought of the respectful way to express his doubts.

"You don't look old enough to have been driving a car in 1910," the guide said.

"I'm 74, and thanks."

The tourist went out to admire Vanderbilt's observation platform and I followed to admire the tourist, Floyd Houghton of Burlington, Ia. When he visited the Museum and thought of all the uppity diesel and gasoline and jet engines holding steady jobs he grieved for the Museum pieces, the dead steam engines. He admires steam as a moving force. He admired it most in automobiles.

Houghton said he drove the White Steamer from Chicago to Los Angeles in 1910 as a promotion stunt. The automobile company advertised for volunteers and drew a crowd.

"I got the job mainly because I could fix the car," Houghton said. "There wasn't a repair job I couldn't do on a steamer. It turned out the main job was changing tires. Thirty of them, as I recall. The big problem was making sure when I backed her up to a water hole that I wasn't filling the boiler with alky water."

Finding Los Angeles was easy navigating. He aimed the car west and there wasn't much to get in the way. The open road was as large a half-truth then as it is now, except that the truthful halves have changed. In 1910 it was all open and no road. There also were more rivers than bridges. The steamer could ford creeks. Rivers required more enterprise. Houghton's practice was to drive down-river until he came upon a ranch house. The rancher and his hands would cut timber and float the car across-river for a price.

How much of a price?

"Oh, two dollars, generally. If I had a bottle of whisky left over from the previous river, that was better than money."

The trip took three months. There was considerable holdover time in towns that hadn't welcomed an automobile before. That suited the company policy, too. When he reached the desert Houghton was not bored. He spent two nights on the desert, and took three days to cross it, traveling the soft spots the hard way. He laid down 95-foot sections of canvas and drove over them, spun off the canvas and into the sand, got out, picked up the canvas, put it down again, drove 95 feet farther across the desert. The company was getting its moneys worth.

Houghton, the pioneer joy-rider, patted the handrail of Vanderbilt's observation platform. He said, "This was the way to ride, though."

Sure it was. I wonder if a Vanderbilt ever said, as he rolled West in luxury, "Look, folks. Some darn fool's trying to drive a car to California. You'll never see anything like that again."

GRILL WITHOUT CHARCOAL: Newest "boon" for backyard chefs is a portable outdoor grill that "charcoal-broils" in record time—and without charcoal, kindling or starter fuel. Resembling a brazier, with a 22-inch cooking grid, windscreen and rubber wheels, the grill has a web of gas jets beneath a bed of a permanent charcoal-like material. Broiling temperature is reached in less than five minutes. Drippings from food produce the same charcoal-broiled flavor, it's claimed, you get from actual charcoal. The bed material is non-combustible, sootless, lasts for years. A special flexible gas hose with a snap-on coupling allows rapid connection to any line carrying natural, manufactured or LP gas.

SAFETY POST: Latest solution—and an ingenious one—to the old problem of making two- and three-story homes easier to escape from in case of fire is what looks like a 2 by 2½ inch aluminum post. Attached to the outside wall, it is inconspicuous, appears to be an extra—and attractive—down spout. But when you need it, it instantly opens to form a ladder and an effective escape route from upper bedroom. The ladder opens out, away from the wall, providing plenty of clear toe and hand room. And it's a simple matter for even a child to step onto it from a window in one simple motion and be down to the ground in a few seconds.

IN THE GROUND FOR REFUSE: The idea of a buried refuse and garbage receiver isn't new, of course. But now comes a satisfactory one at reasonable cost that is easy to install and adequate for the average family to store empty cans, bottles and other refuse during the time between garbage collections—all neatly out of sight. The unit's main shell is of heavy gauge steel. The removable inner container is heavy galvanized steel with a handy fold-down bail and 20-gallon capacity. The one-piece formed steel top is fitted with a convenient foot pedal that permits opening it with one quick foot movement when you want to deposit material or lift out the inner container.

IN BRIEF: Now come electric cooker fry pans with high dome covers to multiply your uses for controlled surface automatic cooking. They're suitable for rolled roasts, baking casserole dishes and a wide variety of meals that formerly required oven cooking. . . . About to be introduced—a cordless electric drill. The unit can drill up to 30,000 half-inch holes before its power cells have to be recharged—and the cells can be recharged in any household electric outlet. It is expected to be handy for use on boats and in many other situations where power isn't available or where dragging a long cord isn't convenient.

Our Deep-Seated Urge to Gamble

Always Part of Americans' Character—Billions Lost Annually, New Book Reports

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

Authorities carry on intermittent war against slot machines in states where gambling is illegal. Here a policeman is shown destroying "one-armed bandits" after raids in East St. Louis in 1957.

Passengers gambled heavily on outcome of steamboat races.

AMERICANS TODAY lose between 20 and 30 billion dollars a year at bets, lotteries and games of chance. So states Henry Chafetz in his new book, "Play the Devil, A History of Gambling in the United States from 1492 to 1950," just published by Clarkson N. Potter, Inc., New York.

Modern Americans are continuing a national tradition dating back to the days before Columbus. Legend has it that when the latter's sailors were impatiently waiting to sight land on their first voyage, they pitched their cards overboard for bringing them bad luck. They immediately found terra firma, landed and were soon busily fashioning the first playing cards in the New World out of copas tree leaves. But they were by no means the first gamblers here. The Indians had beaten them to it.

Indians gambled for religion or for fun. Wigwams or huts were sometimes set aside for the purpose, and on winter days, according to Chafetz, losing braves emerged from the gambling tepee into the snow wearing nothing except a scowl.

The infant colonial industries of grape growing, glass blowing, hemp and paper were financed by lotteries. One lonesome New York spinster in 1747 proposed a "charitable lottery" designed to find husbands for girls without dowries. Bachelors were to be compelled to buy tickets.

Horse racing for the gentry and cockfights, cards, wrestling and ninepins offered betting possibilities for Eighteenth century Americans. Many distinguished citizens were ardent gamblers. Senator Henry Clay was the sharpest poker player in Kentucky and he played right through the state legislature and into Congress. Once, when a young lady expostulated to Mrs. Clay, "Doesn't it hurt you to have Mr. Clay gamble?" Mrs. Clay replied serenely, "No, my dear, he almost always wins."

On the frontier, gambling was just as popular. Life there was either monotonous, hard and lonely, or, during Indian raids, violent, hard and dangerous.

The long river voyages on the Mississippi by flatboat and later by passenger river boats were conducive to games of chance. By 1838, the elegant gambling dandies of the river were fit denizens of the floating palaces with their thick carpets, glittering crystal chandeliers, huge gilt mirrors and paddle wheel boxes painted with scenes of Indians, waterfalls and battle panoramas. The passengers were wealthy cotton factors, millionaire merchants from New Orleans, northern capitalists and affluent farmers.

If a man did not have sufficient funds to cover a high poker hand, bets were sometimes sealed for 24 hours to enable him to raise the money. One St. Louis bank lent $5000 to a player holding high cards.

Within a very few minutes the bank had its money back with $500 interest. Explained the president: ". . . . four kings, with an ace for a confidence card, is good in this institution for our entire assets."

At first, riverboat gamblers were honest and depended on their own prowess to win. However skillful a professional might be, he seldom could resist dropping his winnings at another pro's table. He usually died broke. Later, dishonesty became rife and any cheat caught in the act was unloaded with his baggage into the boat's tender, taken to the bank of the river and dumped into the waist-high mud.

A typical gambler of the period was George Devol, who dressed like a wealthy plantation owner in a long broadcloth coat, high hat, gray trousers, ruffled white shirt and billowy silk tie adorned with a diamond stickpin. To further his role he trained the river roustabouts to call him "Massa." He pretended to say goodby to his "slaves" at each landing. Among his victims were a United States government detective and a minister who had just preached a sermon against gambling. To the latter Devol returned his winnings, including the parson's gold watch, and said, "Sin no more."

Schedules of the boats themselves provided magnificent opportunities for betting. After a while, the general public seemed to forget the boats existed for anything except racing. National and international fortunes were bet on the most famous race, that of the Robert E. Lee and the Natchez in 1870. But the Phil Sheridan, the Eclipse, the Sultana, the Reindeer and the Daniel Boone were no slouches either.

When passengers came on board, they bribed, pleaded and fought for berths farthest away from the boilers. But everyone became speed demons when another steamboat hove in sight. Captains would tie anvils to the safety valves of the boilers or sometimes had crew members sit on them. Crew and passengers would frantically stoke the furnace with resin, pitch, lard or anything else handy which would make the fire more intense.

What often happened next is illustrated by a river ballad:

blew them in the air.
The gambler said to Billy
as they left the wreck:
'I don't know where we're going but we're neck and neck.'
Said Billy to the gambler,
'I'll tell you what I'll do.
I'll bet a thousand dollars
I go higher than you'."

Westward moved the wagons and the gambling houses went with them. During the '49 gold rush and while the other mines held out, the index of prosperity for communities like Virginia City, Helena, Deadwood, Leadville and Tombstone was the number of brothels, saloons and gambling houses they could boast. Leadville had 35 brothels, 120 saloons and 118 gambling houses.

In 1850 the California census listed seven females to every 100 males. Prospectors usually left their wives and sweethearts behind. For these men, a gambling house was a home away from home. Some had lady croupiers. Often the houses served as impromptu churches for itinerant preachers. In Helena, Mont., a gambling house sign admonished: "Don't Forget to Write to Dear Old Mother, She Is Thinking of You. We Furnish Paper and Envelopes Free, and Have the Best Whisky in Town."

After the Civil War, the early millionaires of the industrial revolution made fortunes on lucky stock market gambles. Their recreation was placing huge bets on games of chance. The sportive mentality of these gentlemen is aptly summed up by Bet-A-Million Gates: "For me, there's no fun in betting just a few thousand. I want to lay down enough to hurt the other fellow if he loses and enough to hurt me if I lose."

An American male's ability to play poker has for more than 100 years been a measure of his manhood. The Supreme Allied Commander in Europe, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, rocketed into the highest esteem with his troops when he took time out from war to answer a query about a poker hand. "Although I'm afraid my power to gauge percentages in filling poker hands is a bit overrated, I do like to figure them in my spare time. I haven't had time to go too deeply into the exact figures on your chances of drawing three kings and a pair of jacks . . . but I'd say they are about one in 1,082,900 times . . . don't count on doing it in a pinch."

America has an organization named Gamblers Anonymous, similar in function to Alcoholics Anonymous. Both groups recognize that the habits they treat are deep-seated character disorders.

It is a curious commentary on the national mores that the professional gambler has traditionally caused feminine hearts to beat a little faster, from "Showboat's" Gaylord Ravenal to "Guys and Dolls'" Nathan Detroit, habitue of the "oldest established permanent floating crap game in New York." The national prototype is best portrayed in Bret Harte's "The Outcasts of Poker Flat." Its hero, the gallant gambler John Oakhurst, ended his own life to conserve food for two women snowbound in the Sierra mountains.

"Luck," said Oakhurst, "is a mighty queer thing. All you know about it is that it's bound to change. It's finding out when it's going to change that makes you."

His autobiographical epitaph, written to the deuce of clubs and stuck to a tree with his bowie knife, read:

"Beneath This Tree Lies The Body Of John Oakhurst, Who Struck A Streak Of Bad Luck On The 23rd Of November 1850, And Handed In His Checks On The 7th Of December, 1850."

Fables of the Famous

WHEN HENRY FORD was building his early American village, he persuaded Thomas Edison to let him have the laboratory where the electric light bulb had been developed.

Some time later, when the laboratory had been restored in its new locale, Edison came out to see it. Proudly, Ford showed him around the old building, which was a model of restoration. Every piece of equipment was in its original place.

"Well, what do you think of it?" he finally asked.

"It's almost perfect," said Edison.

"Almost?" said Ford. His face fell.

"You've made one change," said the inventor. "The floor is too clean."

LIKE MOST AUTHORS, playwright Marc Connelly finds it difficult to get down to the business of writing.

Once, when he was late in delivering a play, the producer became impatient and got after him.

"Have you forgotten that you owe me a play with three acts and two intermissions?" he demanded. "When can I expect to get it?"

"Pretty soon now," Connelly assured him. "I've already finished the intermissions."

June Debut Parties For Three Girls

By Margaret Allen Ruhl

PINK TULLE BUTTERFLIES, seven feet tall and glistening with sequins, contribute to the pink decor of the Tiara Lounge at the Park Plaza Hotel where today two parties will be given to introduce Miss Anita Christy Hornsby. The debutante is the daughter of Mrs. Anita Barnes Hornsby with whom she lives at 7505 Cromwell drive, Clayton, and J. Scott Hornsby of Newport Beach, Calif. She is a granddaughter of Donald L. Barnes.

—Martin Schweig Photograph.
MISS HORNSBY . . . to bow today.

From 5 to 7 o'clock, 175 men and women friends of the family will attend a reception. Mrs. Hornsby and her daughter, called Christy, will stand before a trio of the butterflies in the northwest corner of the room.

The candlelighted buffet table, in the southwest corner, is covered with pink and has a centerpiece of pink roses in a silver epergne. Smaller tables, also pink covered, hold tall, thick candles set in matching styrofoam and pink tulle with sequins.

Pink peau d'ange with a blue cast has been fashioned into a dress for the debutante. Made with a princess silhouette, the bodice, with cord straps, is closely fitted, and the skirt is bell-shaped. Floral sprays, made of pink opalescent sequins and shocking pink thread, are embroidered on both bodice and skirt. Miss Hornsby will carry a French bouquet of stephanotis and pink roses.

Mrs. Hornsby's dress is mauve pink silk chiffon, worn with a sleeveless over-blouse embroidered with sequins and bugle beads. A matching stole completes the costume. The hostess will have lavender orchids on her purse.

Mrs. Hornsby's aunt, Mrs. Robert Jess, is here from Springfield, Ill., with three friends, Mrs. Dwight O'Keefe, Mrs. George Mills and Mrs. Helen Rich, for the party.

At the dinner dance, guests will be 175 young persons. More tables, also in pink, will be arranged in the Tiari Room where an orchestra, seated against several of the giant butterflies, will play.

Miss Hornsby was graduated a year ago from Mary Institute and has just completed her freshman year at Southern Methodist University.

Debutante Bows at Tea Dance.

MISS HELEN KIRKPATRICK ROBINSON made her debut yesterday afternoon at a tea dance at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Robinson, 44 South Price road, Ladue.

The debutante, called Kirk, received her guests with her parents in front of the fireplace in the living room. The mantel was banked with a mixture of old-fashioned summer flowers. More of the blossoms were used on the buffet table. Miss Robinson wore a white eyelet embroidered skirt topped by a coral linen blouse. She held a nosegay of summer flowers. Mrs. Robinson chose a white linen sheath trimmed with pale blue embroidery. She pinned lilies of the valley at her waist.

—Martin Schweig Photograph.
MISS ROBINSON . . . presented at tea dance.

Miss Robinson and her contemporaries danced in the large entrance hall of the house, which held arrangements of white petunias. Tables in the garden were covered with pale yellow and centered with baskets of coral geraniums.

A graduate of Mary Institute, Miss Robinson will return to Bennett College, Millbrook, N.Y., in the fall for her sophomore year. She is the sister of Miss Elizabeth Jellis Robinson, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Frederick M. Robinson and the late Mr. Robinson and of Mrs. Thomas S. Kirkpatrick of Lynchburg, Va., and the late Mr. Kirkpatrick.

Miss Peterson Presented at Tea.

MISS SANDRA LYNNE PETERSON, daughter of Mrs. Clarence A. Peterson, 7565 Parkdale avenue, Clayton, and the late Mr. Peterson, was presented to society Saturday at a tea. The party was given by Mrs. Peterson at the home of the debutante's aunt, Mrs. Harold Kattleman, Ballas and Ladue roads, St. Louis county.

MISS PETERSON . . . introduced at tea.

Pink roses decorated the house, a stately pillared mansion. The flowers were banked on the mantel before which the debutante, Mrs. Peterson and Mrs. Kattleman greeted their guests. Miss Peterson wore a white organza gown fashioned on princess lines. White roses of the material ornamented the short, bouffant skirt. She held a nosegay of pink sweetheart roses. Mrs. Peterson was in a toast-colored linen sheath with net in the same shade forming the sleeves and filling in the round neckline. Mrs. Kattleman was in a blue sheer gown with a top of white embroidery. Both wore corsages of pink roses.

Assisting at the tea were Mrs. J. Howard Wemhoener and Mrs. A. Herman Hutte. At the tea table were several Mary Institute classmates of Miss Peterson, Miss Elizabeth Curtis, Miss Suzanne MacDonald, Miss Lucy Schmitz, Miss Charlotte Johansen, Miss Susan Marriott, Miss Gay Armstrong and Miss Lucinda Pantaleoni. Also assisting was Miss Martha Frame of Philadelphia.

An accordion player and a violinist provided music.

The tea table, covered with a lace cloth, was decorated with a pink ice cascade.

Miss Peterson has completed her freshman year at Northwestern University. She is a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority.

Two Debutantes Honored at Party.

MR. AND MRS. RUFUS KING BARTON JR. were host and hostess Saturday evening at a buffet supper in honor of Miss Martha Louise Latzer and Miss Nichols Mitchell. The young women, debutantes of the 1960-61 season, are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Briggs Latzer, and Mr. and Mrs. John Blanton Mitchell, respectively.

More than 75 guests were served supper from a buffet table on the first terrace of the Barton home, 11 Fair Oaks, Ladue. Small tables, covered with white cloths and decorated with hurricane globes surrounded by pale lavender Fuji chrysanthemums, were arranged on the second terrace. More of the lavender blossoms adorned the buffet table. The debutantes received orchid corsages from their hostess.

Webster Groves Residents on Mexican Trip

DEPARTING JULY 15, Mrs. James R. Claiborne, 218 Orchard avenue, and a neighbor, Mrs. George William Gergeceff, 20 Orchard avenue, will fly to Mexico for a mid-summer holiday. Accompanying them will be the Claibornes' three children, James, Helen and Martha, and the Gergeceff children, Jill and Jon.

The travelers have rented a villa in Cuernavaca for two months. The villa, in addition to having its own swimming pool, is situated near a lake where the two families will water ski. The older children, at intervals between sports and sightseeing, will study painting.

Mr. Claiborne and Mr. Gergeceff will join their families for two or three weeks. At that time, the Claibornes plan a trip to Acapulco and another to Tampico, where Mr. Claiborne will hunt for white wing doves. Meanwhile, Mr. Gergeceff and his family will go to Taxco to be guests of an artist friend, Pappe Goodspeed.

Carolyn Byerly Becomes Bride Of Dr. C. A. Birge

A BRIDE OF FRIDAY EVENING was Miss Carolyn Jo Byerly, whose marriage to Dr. Clifford Allen Birge took place at First Congregational Church in Clayton. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Carl Lester Byerly of Detroit, who were here for the wedding. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Julius Birge, 19 Fair Oaks, Ladue.

The Rev. Dr. Paul Simpson McElroy performed the ceremony. Candelabra and bouquets of white carnations, stock and snapdragon stood at the altar and lighted tapers circled with hurricane globes marked the aisle.

The bridegroom's sisters, Miss Nancy Jane and Miss Elizabeth Blackmore Birge, served as maid of honor and bridesmaid, respectively. Gowned alike, they wore blue organza gowns, over taffeta, and clip bows in their hair to hold circular veils. They carried bouquets of gardenias with ivy streamers.

The former Miss Byerly wore over her hair a lace veil which she had bought in Venice. Her organza gown, fashioned with a fitted bodice and bouffant skirt, was trimmed with more of the lace. She held a prayer book topped with white orchids and stephanotis.

Dr. Birge had his father as best man and his brother, Stanley J. Birge Jr., as groomsman. Ushers were Kenneth S. Teasdale, Peter G. Zentay, Robert C. Minton, George B. and Robert C. Saunders and Dr. Karl H. Muench, all of St. Louis, and Willis S. and Harold S. Hobson Jr., Seymour, Ind.

The reception was given at Le Chateau which was decorated with white carnations, stock and snapdragon. The buffet table held a cupid epergne, filled with the blossoms, and two other floral arrangements.

Dr. Birge and his bride have departed for a honeymoon in Nassau. They will live here.

The former Miss Byerly is a graduate of Washington University, where her husband received his medical degree. He previously was graduated from John Burroughs School and Amherst College.

50th Anniversary For D. H. Joneses

MR. AND MRS. DOUGLAS H. JONES celebrated their golden wedding yesterday afternoon at a reception and tea at their home, 8350 Big Bend boulevard, Webster Groves, where they have lived for more than 40 years.

The party was given by their sons and daughters-in-law, Judge and Mrs. Douglas L. C. Jones of Webster Groves; Navy Capt. and Mrs. Stuart C. Jones of Hawaii, and by their sons-in-law and daughters: Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Higgins (Kathryn Carlisle Jones), San Diego Calif., and Navy Comdr. and Mrs. Lawrence D. Cummins. (Shirlee Carlisle Jones) of Coronado, Calif.

Among those present at the party were three of Mrs. Jones's bridesmaids: Mrs. Alphonse Eberle, Mrs. William Gilbert and Mrs. Arthur Strong of Chicago; two ribbon bearers, Mrs. John Barron and Mrs. Charles Bilane (Ezilda Jones), sister of Mr. Jones; the best man, Samuel Shortridge of New Orleans, and an usher, George M. Johnson of St. Louis.

The bride of 50 years ago was Miss Mary Kathryn Carlisle, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Carlisle. Mr. Carlisle was a former St. Louis postmaster. Mr. Jones is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Columbus Stephens Jones of New Orleans.

Miss Arleen Meyer Becomes Bride of Dr. P. E. Korenblat

MISS ARLEEN MEYER became the bride of Dr. Phillip Erwin Korenblat Thursday at B'nai Amoona Congregation. Rabbi Abraham E. Halpern and Rabbi Joseph N. Shapiro, the bridegroom's grandfather, officiated in a setting of white summer flowers.

MRS. PHILLIP KORENBLAT

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Meyer, 9439 Old Bonhomme road, Olivette, who gave a reception and dinner at the synagogue after the ceremony. Dr. Korenblat is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice T. Korenblat of Little Rock, Ark., who came to St. Louis for the event.

Mrs. Samuel Davis served as her cousin's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Sam Greenblatt and Miss Carol Nan Fleisher, cousin of the bridegroom. Donna Lite and Diana Davis were junior bridesmaids. The young women wore ceil blue organza sheaths with tiered tuni overskirts. Matching bandeaux were in their hair. They held blue and yellow majestic daisies.

The bride was escorted down a candlelighted aisle by her father. She wore an empire silk organza gown decorated with motifs of re-embroidered lace. Her veil was secured to a matching lace crown. She carried stephanotis and white orchids.

Dr. Korenblat was attended by his brother, Robert Errol Korenblat, of Little Rock as best man. Ushers were Dr. Jay Lawrence Meyer and Neil Michael Meyer, brothers of the bride; Stephen David Korenblat, another brother of the bridegroom; Dr. James Hawthorne, Chester, Ill., Dr. Robert Hardin and Dr. James Adamson, both of Little Rock, and Ben Weiner and George Pitler, St. Louis.

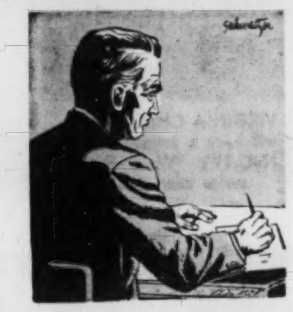
Martha Carr's OPINION

He Calls Bowling 'Unladylike.'

Dear Martha:

MY WIFE WANTS to take up bowling. To me this is the most unladylike sport a woman could pick. We're having knock-down and drag-outs over this. I'm sure at your age you'll agree with me. Bowling is for men. J.K.



Almost half of our nation's bowlers are women — 12,000,000 of them. And Martha can't see one unladylike thing about bowling. It's good exercise and clean fun. Martha is not a bowler but despite that crack you made about age she might give it a try one of these days.

Dear Martha Carr:

I WOULD LIKE some advice about my husband's terrible language. He thinks nothing of swearing at everybody, even a child if one steps on his shoes. He has done this for years and the more you talk to him the worse he gets. Our neighbors avoid him because of the language he uses. The only time he doesn't swear is in church. EMBARRASSED.

Try to pretend that you've grown so accustomed to your husband's bad language that it no longer bothers you. Swearing is his way of getting attention. He feels an inadequacy and since he is not able through other ways to focus all the attention on himself that he craves, he does it by using objectionable language. Do not register shock or disgust no matter how deeply you feel. If he finds he cannot get extra attention by annoying you with his swearing, he may quit in time.

Dear Martha:

I FIND MYSELF actually wishing that I would get really sick. This continual can't-stand-any-more-of-it feeling is getting me down. I have been working too hard this year, and have cut out extra activities. How do I talk myself out of this? I've really got it pretty good and don't lack for anything. Thanks a lot, friend.

Have a complete physical checkup and if your physician finds nothing wrong with you, try to take a vacation, even a short one. If you possibly can, get a complete change of scenery. There's nothing like a change of pace and place to give a new outlook on life.

Friend Martha:

I HAD MY HUSBAND followed and discovered he is having an affair with his secretary. When I confronted him with the facts he asked for time "to work something out" because he didn't want to be cruel and drop her overnight. He claims he got her into this and he has a responsibility not to hurt her too much. This is the second time he has asked me to wait until he comes to his senses. Shall I wait or lay the law down now? WAITING.

Lay the law down now. Your husband deserves no tolerance from you and his secretary deserves no consideration from either of you. Any girl mature enough to be a secretary is old enough to know that all that ever comes of an affair with a married man is a damaged reputation. You'll be doing her a favor by breaking up this liaison before her reputation is ruined completely.

Send a self-addressed stamped envelope for Martha's "Pot Pourri" leaflet, giving directions for making a rose jar.

Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

Gall, Kidney Stones

DEAR DR. MOLNER: Recently you wrote that "there's nothing known that will dissolve gall stones in human beings without dissolving the rest of us, too."

Does the same hold true for kidney stones and bladder stones? If so, why is an attempt made to dissolve bladder stones if they have to be crushed anyway? M.R.

Gall stones and kidney (and bladder) stones are not exactly alike. Most bladder stones are crushed if they are too large to remove.

For stones high in the kidney, there is a technique by which the stones can be treated with a special solution and they become smaller, either to be passed normally, or dissolved.

Not all kidney stones will react suitable to this treatment, and in any event it is prolonged, and one should be prepared to undergo it for a period of time.

This is a relatively new procedure, so one should not expect to find it available everywhere. Like most new procedures, which require expert knowledge, this method cannot be taught just by sending out a bulletin. The technique itself has to be taught.

There's no way, short of an operation, to get at the gall bladder and whatever stones may be in it. In the case of the bladder or kidney, the medication can be introduced to the proper place by means of a catheter and cystoscope. The medication cannot be given by mouth. The procedure is one which requires the skill of a specialist.

DEAR DR. MOLNER: My son, now almost 3, just loves salt and sugar. Our doctor told me to stop him from eating too much. How to do it is a problem, but I want to know why he should want them so bad, and what harm too much salt and sugar can do? C. R.

There's no physical "cause"; he has just happened to acquire a taste.

How to control it? Just allot him a reasonable amount and that's that! I know this works. At his age, he can accept new habits more easily than older persons.

His is a faulty habit of eating that may continue through life unless it is discouraged. Excess sugar is not good for young teeth; later in life it isn't good for the wasteline. Excess salt can cause retention of water in the system. It may not be fat, but it IS weight. And in some diseases, as of heart or kidneys, excess salt may in later life be dangerous. A low-salt diet is doubly difficult for a heavy salt-eater.

Write to Dr. Molner in care of the Post-Dispatch for a copy of his leaflet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," inclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling. Dr. Molner welcomes all mail from his readers, but because of the great volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Molner uses readers' letters in his column whenever possible.

Bill Vaughan Says

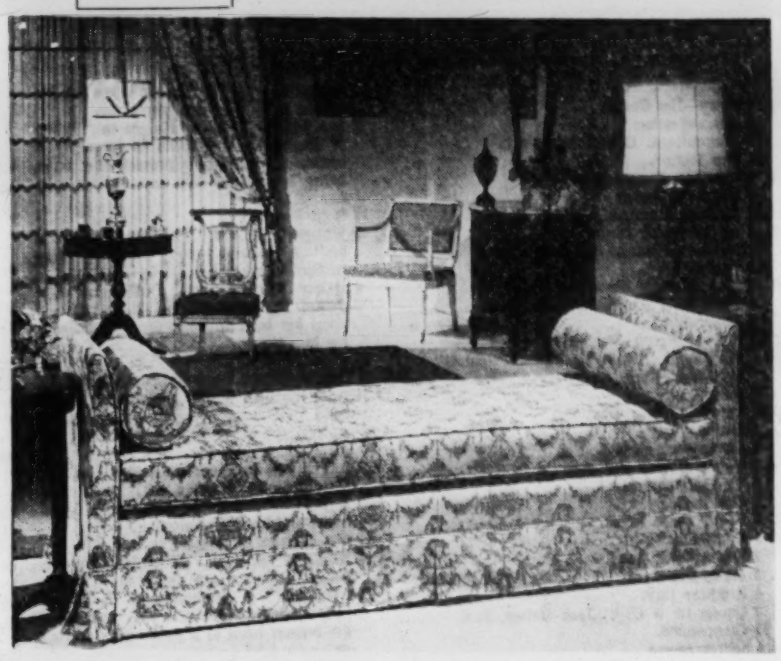
IF HOUSES are going to be sold with 40-year mortgages, science is going to have to develop a breed of termites that chew a little slower.

THE DEBATE between the abstract and the representational in art continues. It may be that in the days of the Old Masters trees, cows and people looked more like themselves than they do now.

SPORTS REFLECT life to some extent, but not completely. In the game of life, for example, there are no practice swings or warm-up pitches.

Ideal Living

Backless Seats



This two-armed chaise does double duty as a bed. Pull out the skirted bottom which is fitted with a spring, push the top pillow over on it, and the piece becomes wide enough for comfortable sleeping. An extra dividend is the "bedding box" fitted in under the spring.

By Betty Pepis

THERE HAS BEEN a notable trend recently toward the use of seating pieces devoid of a back. Although these are not to be recommended for comfortable sitting during an evening of conversation, they do have other and decidedly decorative advantages when used for extra sitting.

And the newest of this type to be introduced at the summer home furnishings markets in Chicago next week converts to a bed. The piece has low upholstered arms at either side. It's lines are softened with a round bolster at each end but no back.

Because of its tailored unbedroomy look, it would be happily at home even in a living room where it might be placed jutting out from the wall in a room where an entrance door opens directly into the room. Such a piece is ideal in this situation for it creates a kind of foyer without barring the view into the room beyond. Yet this quite formal piece converts with ease to a bed, double its daylight width when the bottom portion is pulled out.

Other variations of the chaise longue, so popular in the twenties, are also finding their way into the living room. One upholstered in silvery gray satin angled out from the fireplace wall in a decorator's setting. Facing the chaise was a conventional sofa. The arrangement made it possible to bring the secondary sitting piece close to the sofa and yet not interfere with the picture-window view toward which the sofa faced.

A small variation on this idea are the numbers of benches newly shown. These work particularly well when used along a long window wall of the kind equently found in contemporary houses. On other occasions they are tucked between the legs of long, high-off-the-floor console tables. Pulled out in front, they can convert the console into a table-for-two for snacks.

Single small stools are similarly flexible in today's decorating schemes. Some of the more usable of these have removable cushions so that they can serve as either extra seats or extra tables.

Also in vogue are piles of three pillows with castors on the bottom so they can slide across the floor to any position desired. All of these backless seats are not only wonderful additions for party occasions, but also are decoratively desirable in today's low-ceilinged rooms.

Dermatologists Reveal How Female Hormones Make Skin Look Young

By Adrian Mitchum

A leading dermatologist and his assistants have now overwhelmingly demonstrated that estrogenic (female) hormones smooth superficial dry-skin wrinkles, help your skin look younger!

Tests were conducted by applying a preparation containing female hormones to one side of the face and neck and to one hand of 50 middle-aged women. These were the startling results: In just 8 days, in all but two cases, dry-skin lines on the surface of face, neck and hands were definitely less noticeable; complexion was softer, smoother, fresher. There was no local irritation, no evidence of systemic effects. The hormones had beautified effectively and safely!

To help speed up hormones' beautifying action on the skin, a trustworthy 40-year-old laboratory has developed a fast-acting fluid formula called Hormonex Beauty Serum. Fabulous Hormonex can act so rapidly because it contains estrogenic hormones in a combination of penetrating Sesame Oil and moisturizing, liquid lanolin. Hormonex Beauty Serum is never greasy or sticky. As you gently massage Hormonex onto your skin, you should feel frown lines relax, facial tensions begin to disappear. Soon the surface effects of wind and weather give way to caressable softness.

I am so convinced of its marvelous properties, that I invite you to try Hormonex Beauty Serum for just 10 days. Just apply 7 drops daily to face and throat. See those superficial wrinkles fade quickly, smoothly. If the change is not astounding—if you are not completely satisfied, your purchase price will be refunded without question.

Most Successful Insect

By Ramon Coffman

Large queen ant being cared for by workers. One worker is giving her a nip to make her move a bit.

AMONG ALL the insects on our planet, the most successful are the ants. There are more ants than bees, moths and butterflies combined.

Ants existed on earth long before there were human beings. Scientists declare that there were ants back in the time of the gigantic dinosaurs.

Today we find ants in almost all parts of the earth—up around the Arctic Circle, in the Torrid zone and far down in Argentina. Australia has them, along with all the other inhabited continents. Only Antarctica is without these insects.

Q. Is it true that some ants have wings?

A. The worker ants (composing most members of an ant colony) never have wings. On the other hand, it is usual for ant males to have wings, and most of the queens start out that way.

All of the flying of an ant queen is done during the early period of her adult life. Then she rubs or bites off her wings, and starts a long period of egg-laying. She may live 14 or 15 years.

Q. How does an ant queen start a colony?

A. Often a queen goes to a place without any other ants nearby. Usually she picks out a space between rocks, or digs a small hole in the ground.

The queen lays a small batch of eggs, and waits for them to hatch. She seems to be in danger of starving until the eggs hatch and the young go through their early stages.

When young turn into "real ants," the queen mother has her reward. She is fed by the little workers in her first brood. These workers are smaller than those in later broods of the same queen.
